U.S. TO OCCUPY NO TOWNS

WASHINGTON CLEARS VILLA CHASE ISSUE

White House Statement Follows Reported
Objection by Gen. Gavira to Gen.
Pershing's Operations.

VILLA IN FLIGHT AS AMERICANS PUSH FORWARD

Washington, April 18.—American troops pursuing Villa and his bandits, have no intention and no orders to occupy any cities or towns during their march into Mexico.

This was stated at the white house and war department today after the receipt of a report that General Gavira, the Carranza commander at Juarez, had given notice that General Pershing's troops would not be allowed to occupy Casas Grandes, or other towns.

It was declared by administration officials that the pursuit of Villa, being entirely a punitive expedition, had none of the characteristics of an invasion and that there was no object in occupying towns or cities, because the American troops will keep constantly on the move.

Officials said today that the situation at Tampico where uneasiness is said to exist among Americans and other foreigners had no bearing on the pursuit of Villa.

Reports received at both the war and state departments today continued to be optimistic.

Believe Villa in Flight.
Villa and his bandits were fleeing before the American expeditionary forces in northern Mexico today in the opinion of army officers here.

This belief was based upon dispatches from the American columns reporting that none of the outlaws had been seen up to late yesterday and strengthened the opinion that the Villa forces would not attempt to make a stand. Army men declared that the campaign would quickly develop into guerrilla warfare if there were any opposition.

Secretary Baker's Statement.
Secretary Baker early today issued the following statement:

"The reports received directly through military channels and those sent to this department from other departments of the government indicate quiet along the entire border except some excitement at Tampico, which is apparently temporary and without cause.

"There are no reports of the operations of the expedition available for publication."

Go to Cleveland.
The secretary said he would leave Washington this afternoon for his home at Cleveland, Ohio, and would not return here until Tuesday morning. In his absence Major Gen. Hugh L. Scott, chief of staff, will be acting secretary of war.

Navy department reports today from Vera Cruz say about 200 Americans from Mexico City and other interior points have arrived there, most of them acting upon advice from friends and relatives in the United States urging them to leave Mexico. Conditions at Vera Cruz, the message said, are quiet and many of the Americans, after investigation of reports, are returning to the interior.

COLUMNS MAY HAVE JOINED.
Pershing and Dodd Probably United on Way to Casas Grandes.

El Paso, March 18.—American cavalry pursuing Francisco Villa were camped at dawn today at Colonia Dublan. They arrived in the night. Through Colonia Dublan runs the road to the Galeana district, 25 miles southeast where Villa was last definitely reported. The news of the encampment at Colonia Dublan dispelled fears of any dis-

El Paso, Texas, March 18.—Gen. Gavira, Carranza commander at Juarez, in a statement given today to the Associated Press declared that the crisis in relations between the United States and Mexico is past and there is no further need to fear trouble.

BULLETIN.

El Paso, Texas, March 18.—Francisco Villa is in the neighborhood of Las Cruces, 110 miles south of Casas Grandes according to information received today by Gen. Gavira, Carranza commander at Juarez.

putes with constitutionalist authorities over what position the American troops should occupy at Casas Grandes.

Scouts dashed into Colonia Dublan last night with the news that the Americans were near. The column which was first into this important American settlement, was said to be the cavalry from Hachita.

Two Columns Near.
Dispatches direct from Mexico, and the official announcement from Maj. Gen. Funston, made it evident today that the two American columns, one from Columbus, N. M., under Gen. Pershing and the other from Hachita, N. M., under Col. Dodd had gotten into close communication with each other and probably had formed an actual junction when a little more than half way on the route to Casas Grandes.

There is at least $100,000 now available in rewards for Pancho Villa's capture. Half of it has been offered by ranchmen in the northern part of Chihuahua and according to a statement passed by the censor at Columbus, N. M. last night, another $50,000 is offered through Col. Herbert J. Slocum, commander of the 13th cavalry, whose command repulsed the raid against Columbus. Col. Slocum's men led the vanguard of the main expedition from Columbus into Mexico.

IN VILLA TERRITORY.

If the speed of thirty miles a day at which the columns have moved is maintained the American soldiers should be in Villa territory before nightfall. Casas Grandes is twenty-five miles from the border of the district of Guerrero, the landit chieftain's native haunts.

There has been no reliable report as to the exact whereabouts of Villa, but it is considered fairly certain that he has taken refuge in the fastness of the Sierra Madre, one of the wildest and most inaccessible regions in all Mexico. The people of Guerrero are said to be fanatical followers of the fugitive and he can rely on them for food, recruits and information as to the movements of pursuers.

When Real Task Begins.
The task of the United States force will have really begun when they reach the foothills of the Sierras. The arrival of the expeditionary troops in the vicinity of Casas Grandes was greeted along the border with a sigh of relief, insofar as the fate of the 500 American Morones at Colonia Dublan and Colonia Morales is concerned. The soldiers are already south of these settlements and

FILL AT LAWTON PARK BRIDGE FINISHED AFTER MANY SETBACKS.

Street Superintendent Strodel and a big gang completed the fill at the Lawton park bridge, Saturday afternoon, after many interruptions. The road and part of the bridge washed out several months ago, throwing a jitney bus into the water, and when the fill was nearly finished several weeks ago it washed out again.

LOUIS J. GRIBBENS SUMMONED BY DEATH

Former Attache of Waterworks Department Has Passed Away.

Louis J. Gribbens, former member of the city water works department and manager of the McKinnis Realty company passed away at 4:20 o'clock Saturday morning at St. Joseph's hospital at the age of 49 years. He had been a patient at the hospital since last Monday when he underwent an operation for appendicitis.

Mr. Gribbens was born and reared in Fort Wayne and was educated in the Cathedral parochial schools. He was appointed a meter reader under the mayorality of Henry C. Berghoff and was retained under the first administration of Mayor William Hosey. Several years ago he became manager of the realty company in which capacity he continued until his recent sickness.

The deceased was taken ill Sunday and a physician was called. Monday he suffered a relapse and he was hurried to the hospital. He rallied from the operation the following day but then began to decline slowly until death ensued this morning. His many friends will be shocked to hear of his demise.

As a member of the Cathedral congregation he was an active worker in the affairs of the congregation and his many acts of charity and kindness will never be forgotten. He is survived by two sisters—Eather J. Gribbens, of this city and Mrs. Elizabeth McCarthy, and two brothers, Charles O. and John F. Gribbens, both of Fort Wayne.

OLD PURSER WILL RETIRE.

Thomas Kinsey Starts on His 1,100th Trip Across the Atlantic.

New York, March 18.—Thomas Kinsey, purser of the American line steamer St. Paul, sailed for Liverpool today on his 1,100th trip across the Atlantic. When he reaches home Mr. Kinsey will retire. He is the oldest purser in the service and has traveled by sea since he started in 1859; more than four million miles.

Business is Suspended in Two Cities as Final Tribute is Paid.

South Bend, March 18.—The funeral of the late United States Senator Benjamin F. Shivelly was held at 2 o'clock this afternoon from the family residence in this city, the services, which were private, being of a very simple nature, agreeable to the wishes of the deceased, who requested that no pomp or display be permitted as his body was carried to its last resting place.

Rev. Charles A. Lippincott, D. D., of the First Presbyterian church, officiated and music was furnished by a choir of male voices. Following the brief service the body was escorted to Riverside cemetery by the congressional and state delegations, where it was placed in a receiving vault.

LANDSCAPE ARTIST COMPLETES PLANS

Charles G. Sauer, landscape artist of Purdue university, has written to Clarence Henry, county agent, that he has completed the plans for beautifying the grounds surrounding the new Lincoln school building in Washington township. He has asked the county agent to see that the ground about the building is plowed at the earliest possible moment and thoroughly disked and harrowed. He estimates that the planting will cost $10.

Prof. Anderson, principal of the school, reports that there is a total enrollment at the new building of 167 at the present time and that the rooms are now crowded to overflowing.

An organization committee which will make all arrangements and plans for a Young Men's Christian Association building campaign was named at a meeting of prominent business men held at the Commercial club Saturday afternoon.

The committee is composed of A. H. Perfect, chairman, and William N. Ballou, S. B. Bechtel, Theodore Wentz, Charles H. Worden and B. Paul Moorman.

INVALID HAS CLOSE CALL FROM FLAMES

Cot on Which Frank Allen
Was Lying in His Home Catches Fire.

Frank Allen, of 725 Putnam street, who has been an invalid for the past few months, narrowly escaped serious injuries at 11:25 o'clock Saturday morning when the cot on which he was lying caught fire.

He was working in his room reclining on the cot, and was smoking a pipe. It is presumed that he threw a lighted match on the floor, setting fire to some paper which lay at the side of the cot. When he discovered the flames he succeeded in getting off the cot and notified the members of his family. An alarm was sent in and the department arrived in time to avert serious damage to the house. The loss was $50. Mr. Allen suffered a slight burn on his hand.

LAST MINUTE NEWS

NO PROTEST UNLESS IT PROVES UNFAIR TO U. S.

Washington, March 18.—The United States will make no protest against the new British order in council which will prohibit importation of so-called luxuries, unless it develops that in operation the orders will act in a discriminatory manner against the United States.

CENSORSHIP LID IS PUT ON MORE TIGHTLY

Columbus, N. M., March 18.—New orders were issued here today, holding every newspaper correspondent accountable for his dispatches under the national defence act. "The man who gets a scoop is an arch criminal," said Major W. E. Sample, commanding officer of Columbus today, "and I have evidence enough to bring several under the federal law."

Committee is Named for Y.M.C.A. Building Effort

meeting, but it is understood that it will begin some time the early part of May so that the funds will be large enough by the latter part of the month to begin work on the new building. Meetings to arouse interest in this great and useful project have been held at the homes of various business men in the city in the past few weeks, and it is the consensus of opinion that the time is ripe to begin a campaign for this building. The proposed plan is a two-story building with a total cost of $100,000.

OFFICERS ACCUSED BY GREEK CONSUL

State Department Asks
California Governor for Investigation.

San Francisco, March 18.—The state department at Washington has telegraphed Gov. Hiram Johnson requesting an investigation of a complaint by the Greek consul, Vassardakis, that he had been abused and the sanctity of the consulate violated by deputy sheriffs in their efforts March 15 to execute a judgment for $822 which had been rendered against the consul. The sheriff's office here at the instance of the governor today prepared a report on the occurrence. When a deputy sheriff and policeman appeared at the consulate to seize enough property to satisfy the judgment, Vassardakis, thinking, he said, that they wished to arrest him, exhibited a stay order which he had obtained from the state supreme court.

The officers tore up the order, Vassardakis alleged, and then knocked him down and trampled on him, after which they took away property which, he said, included consular records.

Vassardakis complained to the Greek minister at Washington.

ICE DEALERS WANT MORE APPRECIATION

Efforts to Elevate Dignity of Their Service to the Public.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 18.—The Indiana Ice Dealers' association convention here next Wednesday and Thursday wants to quicken public appreciation of the ice dealers' effort to serve them, according to Herbert B. Depeze, of Shelbyville, president of the organization. Dealers have been condemned because it was felt they were asking too much for the making and delivery of a product that apparently was made out of something of no value," said Mr. Depeze.

As a matter of fact the ice business is a hazardous business. More ice dealers fail than the average for other businesses. In other words, there are fewer failures in the clothing business than in the ice business. The association, I believe, is that the public looks upon the dealer as one who turns water, something of no cost, into something of value. The cost of procuring the water for ice making, the cost of refrigerating, the fact that the business is good five months of the year and that it must be delivered and collected for, are not often seen in their true light, at costly hazards. Ice costs more today than any other commodity, not excepting coal, because coal is not subjected to shrinkage.

"If we can take some step to make the hazards of the business better appreciated we will do much to raise the business to a better level of appreciation."

THREE MACHINES FIGURE IN SMASH

Three automobiles were damaged, traffic was held up and several men injured, when a car was smashed by a truck at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon when Thomas J. Soles, 809 Belle avenue, stepped on the wrong lever when trying to throw on his brake to avoid hitting a woman. He avoided all right, but plunged his Maxwell into a dump truck belonging to the D. C. Stout agency, and it in turn crashed into Frank W. Shuttley's Paige. The Stout car was most seriously damaged but broken running boards and fenders were the extent of the injury.

KILLED BY BARTENDER.

Kentucky Robber's Long Career of Crime is Ended.

Lafayette, Ky., March 18.—Harvey Kiener, 20, who during the past two months is said to have committed many robberies in Indiana and who is alleged to have killed one man in a hold-up, was killed early today by a bartender, whom he is said to have tried to rob.

REAL "WAR" EGG HAS MADE ITS APPEARANCE.

Lafayette, Ind., March 18.—An unquestionable war egg has now appeared. Mrs. Thomas Smith, of Delphi, went to her hen house last evening and took from a nest an egg of ordinary size, shape and color bearing on its surface the word "war" in unmistakable characters, the letters pink in color. At first the egg was thought to be a joke, but every effort to remove the letters, even by scratching and other means, failed. They still remain perfectly clear. The egg is now on exhibition.

SAYS HE SEES FINISH OF WAR

French Minister of Finance
Indulges in a Bit of Optimism.

GERMANS MAKE NO
FURTHER PROGRESS

Much Less Energy is Put Into Attempt to Capture Verdun.

Today's War News Given in Summary

Since the massed attacks of Thursday night against the village and fort of Vaux, northeast of Verdun, the Germans have not advanced at any point on the defense of the fortress, Paris announced today.

Last night passed without infantry activity, and even the artillery action is described as intermittent. The Paris war office reports that the Germans did not reply to a concentrated fire directed by the French guns against the German trenches in the Corbeaux wood and in the direction of hill 265, which is northwest of Deadman's hill. On the other bank of the Meuse there has been heavy work by the artillery, notably in the region of Vaux.

Reports of developments of importance in the other war fields are lacking. There appears to be increasing military activity in the Balkans, however. Heavy troop movements in Bulgaria are reported from Bucharest, the railroads being exclusively given over to this traffic. In Roumania passenger traffic on a line from Bucharest to the Hungarian frontier has been suspended.

Recent rumors of the assassination of Enver Pasha, the Turkish minister of war, are followed today by an official statement from Constantinople that he has returned to Constantinople from a trip of inspection to Syria, Palestine and Arabia.

Paris, March 18.—"We have reached the decisive hour," said Alexandre Ribot, minister of finance, speaking in the chamber of deputies last night on the financial and military situation. "We can say without exaggeration, without illusion and without vain optimism, that we now see the end of this horrible war."

M. Ribot's utterance is taken to be of the utmost importance as indicating official opinion with regard to the result of the battle of Verdun. Whether peace is or is not appreciably nearer is unquestionable that the tension of France has relaxed and that men's thoughts are turned to the rapid developments of events favorable to the allies.

No infantry attacks were made last night in the Verdun region, the war office announced this afternoon. There was intermittent cannonading.

Big Troop Movements.
Movements of troops on a large scale in Bulgaria are reported by the Havas correspondent at Bucharest, Roumania, in a dispatch filed on Wednesday. It is said the operations are so extensive that both passenger and freight traffic have been suspended.

In Roumania the correspondent says passenger travel has been stopped for ten days on the railroad running north from Bucharest to Predal, on the Hungarian frontier.

FIGHTING LESS VIGOROUS.

Berlin, March 18.—The fighting activities of both the French and the German armies on the western front were less vigorous yesterday, according to the official statement issued today as the German army headquarters.

Dispatches from Geneva say Sergeant Pilot George Guynemere, the French aviator, who was wounded recently, was shot down by a German airplane. Sergeant Guynemere, who was flying a French aeroplane of the latest type, was wounded in the face and left arm. He landed within the French lines.

DENIAL BY FRANCE.

Washington, March 18.—The French embassy, upon instructions from Paris today, emphatically denied that German forces were holding any portion of Deadman's hill.

WHY VON TIRPITZ QUIT.

London, March 18.—A wireless dispatch from Rome says that the retirement of Admiral von Tirpitz, as German minister of marine, was occasioned by his intention to attack Great Britain with their entire German navy. This plan was vetoed, according to these advices, by Emperor William and Prince Henry.

The steamship Posen is said to have been torpedoed. All the members of the crew were saved.

Court is Reversed in Ornamental Lamp Case

Indianapolis, March 18.—The supreme court has reversed the Allen circuit court for refusing the trustees of the Plymouth Congregational church society an injunction against the city treasurer and the contractors who performed the work, from collecting the assessment made for the placing of electric lights with lamp posts along Harrison street of Fort Wayne. The total amount of the assessment was $11,414.94 and was made against the abutting property along the street, and less against the city.

The court holds that the only part of the expense which the law can approve against the property is the proportion of the cost of the lamp posts requiring the city to pay its part for the street intersections. The court holds there is no law permitting the city to tax against the abutting property the costs for placing the electric light wires, whether by underground conduits or otherwise as such work is a part of the distributive system of the company that supplies the lights.

MANY DEMONSTRATIONS PLANNED FOR SUMMER

Meeting of Allen County Agricultural Society is Held.

Field demonstrations to be conducted during the summer months were determined Saturday afternoon at the meeting of the Allen County Agricultural Society in the assembly room of the court house.

The following schedule was adopted: Orchard demonstration in Washington township; hog feeding, Perry township; lime, St. Joe township; lime, Perry township; hog feeding, Perry township; wheat, Marion township; land clearing, Washington township; corn breeding, Jefferson township; corn and soy bean for silage, Springfield township; oat production, Perry township; oat production, Lake township; alfalfa, Monroe township. The list is not complete. George V. Kell, president of the society, presided at the meeting and Clarence Henry, county agent, gave a short talk.

Prof. E. M. Shanklin, of the United States department of agriculture, in charge of the boys' and girls' club throughout the state, was in conference Saturday with Agent Henry. An effort will be made to organize a number of clubs in Allen county.

Dr. G. C. Starr, of the extension department of Purdue university, will deliver a series of lectures on the care and management of hives and hives on Tuesday and Wednesday. Instead of the pruning demonstration, which was to have been held Tuesday afternoon at Milan Center, Dr. Starr will speak. The spraying demonstration to have been given on the farm of Presley Stover, near Poe, Marion township, has been postponed and Dr. Starr will speak in its place.

The regular meeting of the Washington Township Farmers' club will be held in the new Lincoln school building next Saturday evening.

MORE SMALLPOX IS UNDER QUARANTINE

Pupil of Hanna School III— Suspected Cases in a Northside Family.

Another case of smallpox was placed under quarantine Saturday by the health department, the patient being Noel Boyd, aged 7 years, of 1322 Horace street, and a pupil of the Hanna public school. This is the first case to appear among the pupils of that school. The child has not been in school since Thursday. The nature of the malady was discovered Saturday when the child was taken to the downtown office of a physician to be prescribed for.

Four suspicious cases have been found in Bloomington in one household, where a mother and her three children are ill of a disease suspected to be smallpox.

BUT ONE PATROLMAN NAMED.

Because the board of safety could not, at its Friday evening meeting, agree on a successor to Patrolman Ben G. Hecke, who resigned from the police force a day or two ago, the appointment was held in abeyance. The board appointed Harry E. Lininger, lately employed as a brakeman on the Nickel Plate railway, who resigned early in the week. Lininger was endorsed for the appointment by the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen.

TOO LATE TO RESCIND.

The board of safety on Friday night informed a committee of the Fort Wayne Federation of Labor that the contract with the Seagrave company, of Columbus, Ohio, for motorized fire apparatus for No. 1 engine house had been signed and could not be rescinded. The committee had previously asked the board to reconsider the award of the contract and give it to a concern of known friendliness to organized labor.

CITY SETTLES JETNEY CASE.

The city has reached a settlement for the damage to the Snell jetney bus that went into Sny run during a flood last January when at night it went into the stream from the east approach of the bridge in Layton park that had been washed out by the high water. The city will replace the damaged parts and give Snell $50.

Two Remaining Charter Members Will Help in the Celebration.

Queen Esther lodge of Rebekahs will celebrate its twenty-sixth anniversary this evening in the I. O. O. F. hall at Wayne street and Calhoun streets. The degree team from Tonner lodge, Garrett, will be the guests of the local lodge, arriving here at 5:30 o'clock in a special car over the Fort Wayne and Northwestern Indiana traction line. About sixty members from Garrett are expected. Supper will be served at 6:30 o'clock and among those who will be in attendance will be the only two charter members of the lodge who are living, Mrs. Martha Wohlford, 2015 Calhoun street, who is 82 years old, and A. T. Lipes, manager of the Fort Wayne branch of the Western Newspaper Union. A class of eleven candidates will be given the work by the Garrett degree team.

LIBELS MARSHALL IS CHARGE MADE

South Bend Man Accused Official.

Chicago, March 18.—John W. Talbot, supreme president of the Order of Owls, and conspicuous for years in fraternal organizations, yesterday was named in a warrant accusing him of uttering a libel against Thomas R. Marshall, vice-president of the United States, and officers of the Loyal Order of Moose. Talbot, who lives at South Bend, Ind., and officers from Aurora were sent there last night to arrange for his extradition. Gov. Dunne already has signed extradition papers.

Indictments charging conspiracy and criminal libel were returned by the Kane county grand jury against Talbot and Thomas J. McCabe, of Batavia, Ill., who are based on the distribution of circulars in which high officers of the Loyal Order of Moose are referred to as "graffers and thieves."

The indictments were kept secret. McCabe, who is a painter, was arrested in Chicago. He is now in jail at Aurora. It is said McCabe formerly was an employee of the Mooseheart training school maintained by the Moose lodge for the education of orphans.

The attack attributed to Talbot and McCabe is directed against not only the vice-president of the United States, but also against Rodney Brandon, manager of Mooseheart, the training school and national headquarters of the Moose, seven miles out of Aurora; James J. Davis, chairman of the board of governors of Mooseheart, Pittsburg; John J. Lentz, former congressman of Columbus, O., who is a member of the board of governors, and Arthur H. Jones, of Chicago.

ATTEND SHIVELY'S FUNERAL.

Among the Fort Wayne residents who went to South Bend Saturday to attend the funeral of the late Senator Shively were the following: Judge S. M. Hench, Judge John W. Eggenman, of the circuit court; Edward G. Hoffman, William C. Schwieler and Martin H. Luecke. The delegation left at 8:40 o'clock Saturday morning over the G. & A. L. transferring to the Lake Shore at Kendallville.

THE DEATHS.

CRAIG.

Herbert Craig, aged twenty-eight years, of 1906 Bequette street, died at 1 o'clock Saturday morning at his late residence, following an illness of eight months due to tuberculosis. He was a knitter at the Wayne Knitting mills and had been employed there eight years. He was a member of the Knitters' union.

Mr. Craig is survived by the widow and one daughter, Beatrice, aged six years; the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Craig, and the following brothers and sisters: Edward, Clarence, Floyd, George, Lewis, James and Mrs. Reuben Doswell, all of Fort Wayne.

Funeral services Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence, Rev. C. O. Shirey officiating. Interment at Lindenwood.

The services will be private and friends may view the remains from Sunday morning at 9 o'clock until Monday noon.

CORBIN.

Mrs. Elizabeth Corbin, a widow, died at 1:25 o'clock Saturday morning at the residence of a daughter, Mrs. W. E. Harlan, 2433 Welser Park avenue, following an illness of six weeks. Death came one day after her seventy-sixth birthday. The deceased was a member of the First M. E. church of Kokomo.

Mrs. Corbin came to Fort Wayne last Thanksgiving day to make her home with her daughter. She is survived by four children, Mrs. W. E. Harlan, Alfred T. Corbin, Mrs. Clark Gray and Mrs. R. E. Dill; ten grandchildren and four great-grandchildren and four brothers and two sisters.

Funeral services Monday morning at 8 o'clock at the residence, Rev. D. H. Guild officiating. The body will be shipped to Kokomo at 2:10 o'clock via Interurban.

HABIG.

Charles Donald Habig, aged fifteen days, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Habig, who reside ten and a half miles from the city on the Auburn road, died Saturday morning at the family home.

Funeral services Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the residence and interment at the I. O. O. F. cemetery near New Haven.

SMITH.

E. T. Smith, a veteran of the civil war, died Saturday morning at the home of a son four miles south of the city on the Phyllis road. The deceased had been ill for some time, suffering from pneumonia, but would not allow his son to call a physician.

However, Saturday morning when the son saw that the father was sinking, he summoned a doctor from Fort Wayne. The aged man passed away before the doctor arrived. He is survived by two sons and a daughter.

FEHLING.

Erwin M. Fehling, aged 3 years, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fehling, died at 11 o'clock Saturday morning at the residence of his grandmother, Mrs. Gust Fehling, 337 East Butler street. Death was due to complication of diseases. The parents of the deceased died when he was six months of age. The grandparents and several uncles and aunts survive.

Smith.—Funeral services for Mrs. Catherine Smith will be held Monday morning at 8:30 o'clock at the residence, 1423 East Lewis street, and at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Catholic church. Interment at Hesse Cassel.

FATHER O'DONNELL PLACES THE IRISH

The closing features of St. Patrick day's celebration in Fort Wayne, Friday, was an address by Father O'Donnell and a musical entertainment at the library hall in the evening.

For the evening meeting was furnished by the Erin quartet, composed of Misses Margaret Cahill, Loretta Markenberger, Inez King and Mrs. Agnes Carey Agnew; the Quaint quartet, composed of Herman Martin, James Dawson Hayes, John Kennedy and Robert Anderson, and Roembeck's orchestra.

Father O'Donnell chose for his subject, "Faith and Patriotism." He declared that the patriotism and faith of the Irish people are practically one and the same thing.

"The greatest uplifters of the universe have been the Irish people," he said. "I do not say that the Catholic Irish are the only true Irish, but I do say that they are true to their faith, and their patriotism is ever in the ascendancy."

Rev. Father Joseph F. Delaney, pastor of St. Patrick's church, gave a short talk.

THE WEATHER.

THE THAT BINDS IS A YOKE THAT GALLS

Pair of Wives Ask Courts to Set Them Free from Marital Bonds.

Margaret Gaskill has filed in the superior court a complaint against Malcolm Gaskill for divorce, alleging cruel and inhuman treatment, non-support and incompatibility. They were married Oct. 23, 1901, and separated a year ago. The wife says for two years she got no support and had to work for her living. H. Waveland Kerr is attorney for the plaintiff.

Deserted One Brings Action. Alleging that two years ago her husband deserted and abandoned her, she has since given her no support and is now a non-resident of the state. Blanche M. Thompson has sued Robert W. Thompson in the superior court for a decree of divorce and the custody of a daughter aged 11. O'Rourke & Luecke appear for the plaintiff.

Rayburn Suit is Filed.

The application of William Rayburn for a writ of habeas corpus to compel Sheriff A. C. Gladioux to release him from custody at the Allen county jail, was filed Saturday in the circuit court and next Tuesday was fixed for the hearing of the petition. Mr. Rayburn is the 90-year-old civil war veteran who was adjudged insane by a lunacy commission in the court of Justice M. J. Tancey, March 11, and for whom a commitment to a state insane asylum was issued. He has been in jail now for a week. It will be undertaken to prove that he is of sound mind, as he alleges in his petition, to have him so declared and to procure his discharge, as was done in the case of Charles Stearns, another aged man, who had been declared insane. Stearns was released by the circuit court Friday following habeas corpus proceedings brought by Attorneys Charles J. Ryan and Ray Adams.

Pays Big Fine for Assault.

George Stewart was found guilty in the circuit court, Saturday, of assault and battery on Henry Williams and was fined $50 and costs, amounting to over $80. Stewart, who is a house buyer, assaulted Williams in a Barr street sales stable several weeks ago, fracturing his skull with a shovel. Williams was in a hospital for quite a while. Stewart was bound over to the circuit court from the city court on a charge of assault and battery with intent to kill. He pleaded not guilty at his hearing before Judge Pro Tem John H. Aiken, Saturday.

Notes of the Courts.

Ciddie Rhodes has begun suit in the superior court against Bert Rhodes for divorce. She says they were married in 1910 and that in 1914 he deserted her. Colerick & Hogan are attorneys for the plaintiff.

The Hedpath Lyceum bureau has brought suit in the superior court against Glen R. Smiley to collect $100 on a note. Carina C. Warrington is attorney for the plaintiff.

Otto Hildebrand, defendant in a suit brought by Andrew J. Schorr to foreclose a lien on crops, appeared in the circuit court in answer to a citation for contempt on an application filed by the plaintiff, but proved that he was not.

A. C. Dewitt, of Chicago, was here Friday and checked up on local revenue office. He found everything in splendid condition.

guilty and was thereupon discharged.

Aaron Deich has sued Frank M. Weatrick in the circuit court to collect $95 on a note. Louis Plost is attorney for the plaintiff.

The suit of Joseph A. Haley vs. William L. Bieber, et al., to collect $125 on a note, was dismissed from the superior court after the jury had reported to try the case, the parties having effected a settlement.

August Moring, defendant in a suit by Catherine Moring for divorce, has been cited to appear in the circuit court March 21 to answer to charges of contempt.

vs. Edward O. and Grace L. Mains, the superior court has dismissed the case as to the latter named defendant.

Hon. John H. Aiken was acting as judge pro tem in the circuit court Saturday. Judge John W. Eggenman having gone to South Bend to attend the funeral of the late United States Senator Benjamin F. Shively.

SAYS VOTES WERE COUNTED.

It is asserted by Henry Bashaller, who was judge of the primary election in precinct A, Washington township, that all of the second choice votes on ballots cast in that precinct were duly counted and that the returns were accepted in due form by the election commissioners and canvassing board the day following the primaries. This precinct is one of the fourteen in which Christian G. Vonderau, who is contesting the democratic nomination of Allen Hursh for county recorder, says the second choice votes were thrown out. Mr. Bashaller declares all the second choice votes were counted in the precinct.

WILL GET FINAL DISCHARGE.

D. C. Peyton, general superintendent of the Indiana reformatory at Jeffersonville, has written to County Clerk D. C. Stout advising that three men who were given suspended sentences in the circuit court have been faithful in making regular reports to the institution and recommending their final discharge from the court. Then men are Emory Fugate, sentenced February 25, 1915; Harry Jones, sentenced February 3, 1915; and Arthur Holman, sentenced February 6, 1914. Judge Eggenman will probably discharge them at once.

LICENSED TO WED.

Ralph O. Root, expressman clerk, and Eda L. Schmidt.

ANOTHER BUSY AFTERNOON.

The city fire department experienced another busy afternoon Friday when three calls were answered. The roof of the business place of M. C. Fisher, 531 Wallace street, caught fire from sparks from the chimney and caused a loss of $100.

At 6:24 the chemical responded to a call to 1016 Lafayette street, where sparks from the chimney threatened to set the roof of the residence ablaze. There was no loss.

A loss of ten dollars was caused by sparks from the chimney to the roof of the residence at Hanna and Holman street at 8 o'clock Friday evening. A call was sent in from box No. 174. The house is occupied by several families of foreigners who did not know anything about the fire until told by neighbors.

A. C. Dewitt, of Chicago, was here Friday and checked up on local revenue office. He found everything in splendid condition.

DR. RUSSELL TALKS TO BUSINESS MEN

Anti-Saloon League Founder Declares Liquor Traffic Must Go.

Dr. Howard Russell, originator of the Anti-Saloon League of America and at the present time associate general superintendent of the organization, spoke to about six hundred business and professional men of Fort Wayne, Friday evening, at a banquet and meeting in the hall of the city.

Dr. Russell discussed the economic advantage of temperance. S. F. Bowser presided and Everett Naftzger, of Union City, well known evangelistic singer, rendered several solos. The meeting was one of the largest gatherings of its kind ever held in Fort Wayne and was one of a series that are being conducted throughout the country by the league.

Dr. Russell's Address.
Dr. Russell said, in part:
"The Dupont Powder company has lately weeded from its pay roll all drinking employees. The powder mill is no place for an unsteady hand or a dim eye. Likewise the railroad companies have keyed up their restrictions during a series of years and sobriety is demanded both on and off duty. So with many of the great manufacturing industries. Efficiency and safety are imperatively demanded today, and to both so-

How to Quickly Stop Indigestion

Here's a Simple Recipe That Can Be Mixed at Home.

Here's something that is said to be the best thing in the world for indigestion, dyspepsia, heartburn, acidity, stomach gases, belching, bloating, distress after meals, heart palpitation, nervousness and other signs of a disordered stomach. Get at any good drug store two ounces, or about 50 cents worth of ordinary liquid-Marlax (concentrated) and an empty eight ounce bottle. Take these home, pour the concentrated Marlax into the bottle and add pure water enough to fill it. Take a teaspoonful before each meal and watch the result. If it fails to do you more good than anything you ever tried, you'll be a rare exception, for those who know of it say its effects are simply astonishing. When one can so easily obtain and prepare such a remedy at home and enough of it to last several weeks for only about 50 cents, it certainly seems a waste of money to experiment with uncertain patent medicines that cost twice as much and do no good. Marlax, being in liquid form, it is quickly assimilated by the stomach and has the advantage over the many so-called remedies in pill or tablet form.—Adv.

CREAM BREAD AT YOUR GROCERS

berly is the friend and drink the worst enemy. Every common observer understands this if there were no other excuse for national prohibition, and there are many other reasons. The advent of the automobile upon the highway is reason enough why every saloon should be wiped off the map of the United States.

"Common experience is now corroborated by the findings of science. The Carnegie institute within the past two years has declared that investigations carried on by Drs. Dodge and Benedict settles it finally that 'there is a decreased organic efficiency as a result of even moderate doses of alcohol.' The drinking workman is the first to fall sick and the last to get well; the first to have an accident and the last to be promoted; the first to die and the last to leave his family in comfort.

"Carlyle said: 'Give me, oh give me, the man who sings at his work.' The efficient workman comes from a happy and a sober home. Three hundred and fifty heads of families in Boston deserted their families and two hundred and fifty were drinking men. In the home inefficiency is extended into the coming generation by the drinking habits of the parents. A scientific temperance federation of Boston investigated twenty homes. Ten had abstaining parents and ten homes had drinking parents. I call the abstaining homes the homes on the hillside, and the drinking homes the homes in the valley. The hillside homes had sixty-one children; the valley homes fifty-seven. On the hillside five died in infancy; in the valley twenty-five. On the hillside six children only were diseased and deformed; in the valley, twenty-two.

"In the hillside homes were found fifty normal children; in the desolate homes of the valley, only ten normal children. Forty-seven of the fifty-seven children were literally 'damaged goods.'

"These and many more facts have led manufacturers and business men to take a greatly increased interest in recent months in the abolition of the saloon. I have had the privilege of meeting during the past two years in their offices or in lunch meetings similar to the present occasion many leading captains of industry throughout the United States. The first lunch meeting was at Pittsburgh. The business men present after full discussion of the facts, went forth to use their influence and the board of trade of the city of Pittsburgh shortly afterward endorsed national prohibition and the Hobson amendment. Similar meetings at Chicago were influential in helping to bring to pass the closing of the saloons on Sunday. A similar lunch meeting in Boston was one of the causes of the recent No-License campaign in Boston which showed a very great increase in the number of 'dry' votes.

In the far western states such meetings helped substantially toward the carrying of Washington, Oregon, Colorado and other states into the 'dry' column.

Originators of Campaign.

A group of national manufacturers and business men meeting at Atlantic City last July decided to request the Anti-Saloon League to carry forward similar lunch gatherings of manufacturers and professional and business men in two hundred of the most important cities of the country. This accounts for my presence here tonight.

"The men who sent me here requested me to tell you the plans of the campaign to complete the nation-wide prohibition of the liquor traffic. We call these meetings by the ringing title, 'See this thing through-recruiting rallies.' What is it we propose to see through? The answer to this question is, the nation-wide prohibition of the beverage liquor traffic. The second question of the hour, 'How do we propose to see this thing through?' The answer to this question is, bring up the reserves into the three battle lines of the Anti-Saloon League of America. What are these battle lines? First, the congressional campaign at Washington.

"By this campaign we must secure the enactment by a majority vote, of laws to weaken and cripple the liquor traffic such as we expect to secure from the present congress, namely, absolute prohibition for the Hawaiian Islands, Alaska and Porto Rico; and also for the District of Columbia, and our national capital by a two-thirds vote in congress. We expect to secure the admission of an amendment for constitutional prohibition to the states for their ratification. The second battle line is the co-operation of the National Anti-Saloon League with the state leagues in the various states as they make their fights for state-wide prohibition. The third battle line is the ratification of the national amendment by the state legislatures, one of which we hope will be the legislature which meets sometime in the near future at Indianapolis. By a campaign of education and by vote and the printed page we expect a ratification and the complete adoption of the national amendment by Merry Christmas, 1920."

ATTEMPTS A MIX-UP WITH OFFICER HILL

Fred Lehman Didn't Stop, Look and Listen Before Starting.

Fred Lehman, who states that he is employed at the Brookside farm, west of the city, tossed "safety first" to the discard and failed to stop, look and listen when Officer John Hill hove alongside in the alley between Columbia and Main street, where Mr. Lehman had bedded himself down with a course, Friday night. If Mr. Lehman had consulted the three cardinal precepts of safety and especially if he had looked, he might at least have deferred hostilities pending a second thought. Mr. Lehman is no great shakes as a man in the item of stature. Officer Hill is bigger than a box car, stronger than a team of bull elephants, good natured as a kitten, slow to anger and the wrong sort of man to provoke. Mr. Lehman was provocative. He resisted. He was going to have the matter out there and then. The argument was wholly one-sided as Mr. Lehman's mussy appearance in the city court Saturday sadly indicated. He loudly inveighed against his treatment and breathed threats. Judge H. Vawdland Kerr hung $5 and costs unto him and warned him against both trying to fuss up the biggest man on the police force and coming back into the court.

"Ever arrested before?" queried the court.

"Once over in Germany for 'raising Harry,' but not for anything else," admitted the prisoner.

Other City Court Cases.
Jim Ashley, a bald-headed barber, who claimed Huntington as his halting place, was fined $1 and costs for drunkenness. Tom O'Hern, who appears often, was continued on a drunk charge until Monday, when previous convictions will probably be placed against him and a term at the state farm doled out.

John Ora came all the way from Van Wert, O., where he is employed in the building work on the new postoffice, to purchase new uniform. He had $8 when he started, acquiring two 50-cent shirts, a sock and a cash balance of half a dollar. He went over for eleven days.

OHIO ROBBER IDENTIFIED.

For the authorities at the Ohio state prison in Columbus Detective Sergeant Joseph P. Brennan has identified from the records in the local identification bureau a prisoner just received at the penitentiary under the name of Thomas Gallagher as Thomas Kelly, arrested here last August on the Nickel Plate railway grounds for carrying concealed weapons. He spent twenty-five days in jail here for that offense. He was arrested and sentenced in Cleveland for robbery in connection of which he was shot through the jaw. The identification was perfect.

They Let Him Sleep.
H. T. Strayner, Gainesville, Ga., R. R. No. 3, was unable to sleep all night without getting up. "Sometimes only a few minutes after going to bed, I would have to get up, and I tried everything I heard of for the trouble. Finally I tried Foley Kidney Pills and after taking one bottle I believe I am entirely cured and I sleep soundly all night." Foley Kidney Pills tone up weak, sluggish kidneys, rid the body of poisons, give appetite, energy and refreshing sleep. Dreier Drug Co.—Advertisement.

J. S. Knox, of Cleveland, Speaks at Meeting of Quest Club.

J. S. Knox, of the Cleveland Advertising club, of Cleveland, O., delivered a most interesting address on salesmanship Friday evening at the regular monthly meeting and banquet of the Quest club. The speaker urged the merchant to see that his clerks are courteous and that when a customer comes into the store and buys something that they thank him and invite him back again. The address was helpful and was followed by a discussion in which various members of the club took part. The meeting was held at the Commercial club.

THE SENTINEL'S DAILY SCRIPTURE READING

Romans 6:1-14.

1 What shall we say then? Shall we continue in sin, that grace may abound?

2 God forbid. How shall we, that are dead to sin, live any longer therein?

3 Know ye not, that so many of us as were baptized into Jesus Christ were baptized into his death?

4 Therefore we are buried with him by baptism into death; that like as Christ was raised up from the dead by the glory of the Father, even so we also should walk in newness of life.

5 For if we have been planted together in the likeness of his death, we shall be also in the likeness of his resurrection:

6 Knowing this, that our old man is crucified with him, that the body of sin might be destroyed, that henceforth we should not serve sin.

7 For he that is dead is freed from sin.

8 Now if we be dead with Christ, we believe that we shall also live with him:

9 Knowing that Christ being raised from the dead dieth no more; death hath no more dominion over him.

10 For in that he died, he died unto sin once; but in that he liveth, he liveth unto God.

11 Likewise reckon ye also yourselves to be dead indeed unto sin, but alive unto God through Jesus Christ our Lord.

12 Let not sin therefore reign in your mortal body, that ye should obey it in the lusts thereof.

13 Neither yield ye your members as instruments of unrighteousness unto sin: but yield yourselves unto God, as those that are alive from the dead, and your members as instruments of righteousness unto God.

14 For sin shall not have dominion over you: for ye are not under the law, but under grace.

Looking at the Final Figures.

Official tabulation of the primary vote in Indiana has just been completed at Indianapolis, ten days after the casting of the ballots on March 7, and while the official canvass did not change the standing of any of the candidates, the results make an interesting study for the man who delights in revelling in political figures. The total first choice vote on president showed the following results for all the ninety-two counties: Woodrow Wilson, 160,423; Charles Warren Fairbanks, 176,078, showing that somewhat more than 15,000 republican ballots were cast than were deposited by the democrats.

The first choice total for Thomas R. Marshall, democratic candidate for vice president, was 154,466. There were no candidates for this office on the republican and progressive tickets. The first choice total for John W. Kern, democratic candidate for United States senator, was 161,931.

The first choice votes for the republican candidates for the senatorial nomination were as follows: Harry S. New, 97,118; Arthur R. Robinson, 23,825; James E. Watson, 89,847. The second choice votes in this race have not yet been tabulated because several counties have not made accurate returns and the state officials have sent back these returns for correction. In some of these counties, it seems, it will be impossible to send in correct totals on second choice votes since county clerks have reported to the secretary of state that the votes are in such condition that it will be impossible for them to make the corrections.

One of the most significant features of the official tabulation became apparent when the total vote for James B. Wilson, of Bloomington, progressive candidate for the United States senate, was shown to run ahead of that cast for J. Frank Hanly, of Indianapolis, the Edwin M. Lee candidate for governor on the progressive ticket. James B. Wilson's total vote in the state was 7,567, and that of Hanly was only 6,544.

John A. M. Adair ran far ahead of Leonard B. Clore in the democratic race for the governorship nomination, according to the official tabulation of the vote. Adair's total of first choice votes was 116,831, while Clore's was 42,906.

James P. Goodrich, of Winchester, outstripped both his opponents in the republican race for the governorship nomination. The vote of Goodrich was 123,342; that of Warren T. McCray, of Kentland, was 61,654, and that of Quincy A. Myers, of Logansport, was 24,047.

Nothing like even approximately accurate figures on the total cost of the primary to the counties of the state is yet available, and while it is practically certain that some of the ante-primary estimates were much too high, the real-figure on the expense is going to be a rather sizeable one.

Congress these days is supplying another impressive illustration of American unity in forwarding general plans for military preparedness. There has been a prodigious amount of debate and personal expression, but not only the resolution bringing up the total of the standing army to 120,000, men but the administration measures looking to better national defense as well as shaping themselves with practically no voice raised against them. We do a lot of disagreeing, a lot of harking back, a lot of viewing with alarm and a lot of appealing to the constitutional anchorage, but on the real show-down we can always be depended upon to pull together. That fact has again and again been made evident in the past, and it is the country's best guaranty for the future.

State Chairman Hays has finally announced his conclusion not to enter the lists for the second republican nomination for United States senator against Mr. Watson in the state convention. Mr. Hays is perfectly within his rights, of course, but a lot of fellows are going to feel that his decision has shamelessly defrauded them out of the delight of witnessing a rip-roaring political fight.

They have just expelled a member of the Massachusetts legislature for improper connection with certain lobbying interests in operation among the Bay state law-makers. Massachusetts doubtless thought it high time to supply some evidence that all the reformative effort in the country is not centered in Terre Haute, Ind.

Down at Jeffersonville Justice appears to have not only cast away the bandage from her eyes, but to have developed an amazing fleetness of foot. One man who "borrowed" an umbrella during a rainstorm has just been sentenced to ninety days in jail.

And another thing: An increase of more than one million dollars in Fort Wayne bank deposits during the past year is not to be sneered at.

Seeing Mates Cut Down All Around You Takes Fun Out of War, Says Australian

Average Man in the Line Feels No Hatred for His Enemy — Killing Other Fellow is Just a Part of the Game.

By Henry Clay

San Francisco, Cal., March 18.—"The Turks are good fighting men and good sports in their way. I have no hatred for them, even if they did kill a lot of my comrades. And I don't believe the average man feels any hatred towards his enemies—except, perhaps, the English and the Germans. Killing the other fellow is just a part of the game. The ordinary soldier fights for adventure or love of country or both. He takes his orders from higher up, where men are supposed to know the real reasons for war. If he is a man he doesn't whimper, but does his bit cheerfully. I have seen Turks and Australians kidding one another across trenches, seemingly like the best of friends. That is one of the peculiar things of war."

A good-natured, upstanding chap, his face bronzed by a desert sun, L. M. Chateau, one of the first Australian contingent into the famous Dardanelles campaign, said as much as we talked in the lobby of a hotel here. He enlisted at Sydney in the Light Horse Tropic of mounted infantry and saw thrilling service on the Gallipoli peninsula at Gaba Tepe and Pope's Hill, where the Turkish resistance proved fierce.

Chateau was half crazed and deafened by the crash of a high explosive shell from a Turkish gun.

He's a Lucky Dog.

"I am a lucky dog," said Chateau. "I can't figure out how I happened to escape when thousands of good lads went down. I can't tell you what war is like. No man can. To understand how fearful it is, as the game is played these days, you have to be in it yourself."

"In one charge 330 of us went over four lines of parallel trenches. The Turks fought like good men. When we were ordered to retire, there were only 27 of us left. In one gulch I saw thousands of Turks lying dead. After the charges the dead bodies would be piled up and hanging over the edge of our trenches. Later when artillery fire was opened on our position, you can imagine how pleasant it was in the trenches with these dead bodies blown down on us."

"I went into the war for adventure. So did hundreds of others. Rich men's sons went, too. We got our adventure, but we saw after a lot of fighting that it wasn't all adventure. It was grim work, but once there, a fellow does his bit because he knows it is his duty."

Hand Grenades Terrify.

"You think differently of the adventure part when you see your mates falling all around you. Hand grenade fighting is the worst. Of course, it's goodbye for one when a bayonet goes through him, but he doesn't stand a chance when a hand bomb hits him. They are about the size of a cricket ball. One of my mates from Sydney was hit on the head with one. His head was simply blown from his shoulders. That sort of a thing really takes the fun out of war, you know."

Australia has won her nationhood

in this war. The English used to look at L. M. Chateau in French during the Dardanelles campaign and as he looks in civilian clothes. The man at his side is looking through a periscope. Note the bandage on his head. He was wounded in a charge.

"Slightly wounded men keep on fighting," said Chateau. "The behavior of wounded men is splendid. I have seen lads with half their faces shot away ask for a cigarette. They get angry when ordered to hospital, insisting that 'some other poor cove is worse than I.'" down on us 'beastly Colonials,' but they don't now. It used to be a social ban for one to admit he was a Colonial. Not now. Our Australian boys have been treated royally in England and all the British know now that we can fight as well as they."

"The Australian and New Zealand troops are a free and easy lot and many of the funny stories about their comradeship with higher officers are true. We were a rough and ready bunch."

It was tough on the lad who tried to put on awash among us.

"I remember a day or two after we had landed, I saw a man standing near our camp. I walked up to him in a social way and said:

"Good day, lad. What are things like over here?"

"Oh, not so bumpy," he replied.

"I found out a day or two later that he was Gen. Birdwood, the commanding officer in my territory."

"Just to show you how willing to fight the sons of the rich are: One 'cove' near me said one day just before a charge, 'Well here goes 500 pounds a year shot all to hell!'"

"And he was right. He didn't come back."

THE COLONEL AT PLAY

(Grand Rapids News.)

Meanwhile, what is the colonial doing? Travelers returning to New York on the steamship Guiana, on which vessel Colonel Roosevelt sailed for British Guiana Feb. 11, say he is having the time of his life. Everywhere in the little islands of the Atlantic he is received by enthusiastic crowds, with bands playing, three banquets a day and black reception committees clothed in evening dress at 7 in the morning.

At St. Lucia came the climax, for at that British post the staid, frigid authorities even had to rescind an order forbidding passengers to disembark. It was this way. When the Guiana docked the port authorities sent word aboard that no passengers could land. But the captain of the Guiana was not to be bluffed. He sent right back the word that if none of his passengers could land, nobody in St. Lucia could come aboard to gaze upon the great Theodore. That did the work. Within half an hour the re-barring order was rescinded and the islanders swarmed aboard to bask in the Roosevelt smile.

It is a great trip for the colonel. Drinking in the hot spring sunshine of the tropics, he is toughening himself for the triumphant re-entry into New York harbor some day this summer, when he is to enact the role of Caesar refusing the highest honor of his party.

IN EXPERIMENTAL STAGE

(Indianapolis Star.)

It will be utterly unprofitable, of course, to ask opinions on the new primary law from those who are and have been unchangedly wedded to the old convention system. All such are exactly as loud in their complaints as they were before.

This experience is precisely what every state goes through with this sort of legislation. The first experiment is disappointing. Then there is the period of trial, improvement and perfection. Some friction that is attributed to the law itself will disappear of itself through familiarity with its use.

Something must be done, of course, to simplify the ballot. To discourage these enormous expenditures, to straighten out or remove this muddle over second choice votes. The law is much more likely to be amended than repealed.

There is not a particle more clamor against it today than there was against its enactment in the first place.

Such, at least, is the uniform experience of other states. Nobody who has tried direct primaries once is ever again contented to go back to the corrupt and oligarchic rule of boss-ridden conventions. Very few of these imperfections are beyond the reach of corrupt practice acts and the short ballot.

BIG TEMPERANCE RALLY IS PLANNED

A. C. W. Has Arranged an Extensive Program for Thursday Evening.

The Associated Christian Workers has arranged an extensive program for the big temperance rally to be given at the First M. E. church Thursday evening, March 23. A three reel motion picture entitled, "The Trials of Joseph in Egypt," has been secured from a house in Chicago and will be shown in connection with the program.

Several special musical features have been planned and each of the twenty-on societies of the city, which compose the association, will take some part in the program. This event promises to draw much interest and a record attendance is anticipated.

Preparations have already been begun for the big Fourth of July parade and celebration, which was voted an annual affair. Many novelties will be introduced in the program this year. The celebration this year will be held at Lakeside park.

Miss Estelle Graham, a bride-elect of Springfield, Ohio, who is visiting Miss Lillian Brinsley, of South Harrison street, were honor guests last evening at a party of twenty young women whom Miss Brinsley entertained. The amusement was the playing of several games while the serving of refreshments in the dining room, where a color scheme was prettily expressed in green and white.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Max Kraus, of West Wayne street, a sixtieth wedding anniversary celebration is taking place today. Mrs. Kraus' parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Wetzstein, formerly of Cincinnati, are the fortunate husband and wife who have lived to be well at eighty-five years of age and to attend the observance of the anniversary day that has been arranged for them by their children. Mr. and Mrs. Wetzstein have four children, besides their daughter, Mrs. Kraus, and all are here with their families for the wedding anniversary. The sons and other daughter are Mentor Wetzstein, of Cincinnati; Adolph Wetzstein, of San Mateo, Cal.; Leo Wetzstein, of Cincinnati; and Mrs. Samuel Appelbaum, of Columbia City. The grandchildren are Irma Appelbaum, Irene Appelbaum, Eugene, Adelaide and Mentor Kraus. There will be a dinner party at the Anthony hotel at 6 o'clock this evening, at which covers will be laid for forty-five. This evening Mr. and Mrs. Kraus will hold a reception in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Wetzstein and visiting guests at their home in West Wayne street, from 9 to 12 o'clock. A life-long friend who will be present and will also have the distinction of being the most advanced in years, will be Leopold Loeb, who makes his home with his daughter, Mrs. Louis Stiefel. There have been congratulations coming in at the Kraus home all day for Mr. and Mrs. Wetzstein. Relatives and friends have arrived from other cities to be present at this unusual anniversary affair and they include in addition to those named Mr. and Mrs. Sol Wetzstein and Mrs. L. M. Frank and daughter, Fanny, all of Cincinnati; Mrs. Pauline Sturm and Mrs. Sophie Fleischman, of Chicago; Mrs. Esther Freudenthal, Mrs. Carrie Adler and son, Norman, of South Bend; Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Well, of Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Puffer, of Kalamazoo, Mich. A luncheon that was given to honor the anniversary couple took place on Friday at the Anthony hotel and Mrs. S. Kraus and Mrs. M. Appelbaum were the hostesses.

Mrs. M. J. Shea, of 2025 South Harrison street, is entertaining over the week-end Mrs. W. S. Bowers, of Decatur.

The Children's Ward association will meet on Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock with Mrs. William Seidel, 2432 Hoggland avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. VanCamp have returned from a trip to Pontiac and Detroit, Mich., and are guests of their daughter, Mrs. Charles Bash, Jr.

Mrs. O. E. Maxwell and Miss Edna Maxwell have gone to Chicago to visit Mrs. Maxwell's sister, Mrs. L. H. Whitaker. Mr. Whitaker has just returned from a three months' trip to Florida.

Madame Josephine Mores, of Paris, France, who is at present in Indianapolis, is coming to Fort Wayne the middle of next week for a few days' visit with her aunt and uncle, Capt. and Mrs. Isaac Olay.

The name of Mrs. Herman Baral was accidentally omitted from the list of members of the Forty-third club in a notice of their recent meeting in yesterday's issue of this department of The Sentinel and those of both Mrs. Fred O'Brien and Mrs. Frank O'Brien should have been included.

Mrs. C. Sammie, of 320 Kinnaird avenue, was hostess for the Protective Home circle's Spring Luncheon on Thursday afternoon. In a contest Mrs. Starkov and Mrs. Middle won the prizes. Other ladies present were Mrs. Wirtz, Mrs. Bertha, Mrs. O. L. Higgle, Mrs. D. Overmeyer, Mrs. A. J. Ryan, Mrs. J. Beckman. Refreshments were served in a dainty manner.

Mrs. Charles Griffiths, of Cass street, was hostess for a pleasant gathering of the P. D. C. club on Thursday. Members of the club are Mesdames Charles Bentz, C. L. Baird, Theodore Biersdorfer, A. G. Hughes, Jack Palmer, Tom Havens, J. R. Geiger, E. B. Eckenrode. There were also two visiting guests, Mrs. Matthews and Mrs. Baird, both from out of town.

Miss Thelma Burton arranged a surprise party on her cousin, Miss Mayme Burton, on Friday evening at her home in Watson street. A merry time was enjoyed and the evening will be remembered with pleasure for a long time by those who had part in it, who were Hazel Baum, Ruby Wiebe, Eleanor Burton, Laura Wiebe, Alvin Seybold, Lucile Shively, Treva Marshall, Elissa Wiebe, Tom Prince, Robert Vachon, Clinton Barton, Martin Sternberger, William Dowell, Jerome Werstein and Hartley Burton.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. T. V. Michael, of Bever avenue, was the scene of a happy company on Friday evening, when Miss Ruth Michael, president of the Godeva Girls' Sunday school class of the First M. E. church, entertained the others of the class. After a business session, music, games and light refreshments were enjoyed. The class members and their teacher, Mrs. Stella Brecken Baker, are Misses Esther Neuber, Lillian and Hilda Leasure, Irene Ruble, Grace Orniston, Myrl Emrich, the hostess for the evening. There was one guest, Miss Margaret Goodfellow.

A number of friends pleasantly surprised Mr. and Mrs. Louis Dilling at their home in Weaver Park avenue at 6:30 o'clock on Thursday evening. It was the occasion of Mrs. Dilling's birthday anniversary and the young people gathered in the parlors where a sumptuous "pot-luck" supper was served picnic fashion. Mr. and Mrs. Dilling are great favorites among their friends, and this was one of many enjoyable affairs at their pretty home. There were present Mr. and Mrs. E. Stanley Gerig, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lamb, Mr. and Mrs. Alva Hughes, Misses Lela Fetters, Jessie Armstrong, Elsie Knapp, Elviah McGuire, Hazel Shoub, Lena Puckett, Boneta Kanaga and Mr. Sam Nobilet, Jesse Bond and Charles German.

One of the recent surprise parties that was the source of great pleasure to all participants took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gottlieb Boschet and Miss Agnes Boschet, both of whom celebrated their birth anniversaries. The usual order of merry games, music, refreshments and visiting was pursued and everyone present had the best kind of a time. There were present Misses Margaret Smith, Jessie Rousseau, Ellen Viola and Alice Griswold, Agnes Boschet, Mrs. Charles Poinsette and Messrs. Robert Rousseau, Frank Sullivan, Floyd and Jack Boschet, George Fritz, Oscar Faulkerson, Leroy and William Boschet, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Griswold, Mr. and Mrs. William Sovine, Mr. and Mrs. James Rousseau, John Boschet and Mr. and Mrs. Gottlieb Boschet.

Miss Margaret Goggin and Otto Boise combined efforts in giving a delightful party on Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Gebert in honor of their son, Earl, who that day attained the twentieth anniversary of his birth. The time was spent playing games and in the pleasure of music and dancing. The Goggin orchestra furnished the music and a buffet lunch was served. Those who attended this happy affair were Misses Esther Pivert, Marguerite Goggin, Louise Schaeffer, Clara Piepenbrink, Charlotte Krudolph, Frieda Kuehn, Ethel Billard, Lorinda Franke, Selma C. Heine, and Messrs. Elmer Koehlinger, Otto Bosse, William Hunk, Jack Hoffman, Henry Menze, John Ort, Clarence Lock, Louis Nasel, Clarence Fiegl, Earl Gebert, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gebert and Fred Heppner and Herman Koch, from Iowa.

Hoagland School P.T. Club.
The parent-teacher club of the Hoagland school will meet on Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. An interesting program has been planned which will include a talk by Rev. A. J. Folsom, an explanation of physical culture work by Miss Carrie Snively and drills by pupils of the seventh and eighth grades. A social hour will follow the program.

"THE BOHEMIAN GIRL."
Large Audience Hears Favorite Old Opera at Majestic.

The Boston English Opera company, with Joseph Sheehan as leading soloist, appeared at the Majestic theater for one performance on Friday. This beautiful opera is always a favorite in Fort Wayne—as elsewhere—and as Mr. Sheehan has been heard here two or three times before and won much deserved praise, the production was expected to rank among the very best of the season. However, the management of the opera company, in an effort to keep expenses down, carries no additional men for the orchestra, with the exception of a director. But six local men played at the performance here and for five of their being of the highest order of local musicians, the entire performance of the opera suffered somewhat as a result. For an adequate orchestra can cover defects in soloists or weak spots in chorus singing and thereby keep the general effect up to the point it should be. Mr. Sheehan appeared to be slightly hoarse, though that did not appear noticeable in "Then You'll Remember Me," which he sings very delightfully. Mr. Sheehan can act well, but he seemed indifferent in his work last evening. Arthur Deane, as the count, sang "With Heart Bowed Down" in a really artistic manner and his appreciation of his role was always evident. Philip Fein, as the count's nephew, makes a young and dapper youth with a sense of humor and his voice, while not big, was always pleasing. Mirth Carmen, as Arline, displayed a sweet voice of considerable power and the acting of Elaine De Salomon, the gypsy queen, was one of the markedly good things of the performance. Robert White, as Devilshoof, was always good, and he gave the performance considerable life. The chorus, though small, was splendidly drilled and equal to much more of a demand than it had. The street scene lacked the aerobatic performers seen in a former production of the opera and there was a looseness about the performance that was keenly disappointing to people who paid high prices for seats or who heard the opera for the first time.

PUPILS' RECITAL.

The pupils of Miss Gertrude Schick gave their sixteenth recital on Friday evening in Packard hall before a good sized audience of relatives and friends, who received each number with enthusiasm. The pupils all played with expression and excellent rhythm and especially worthy of mention was the work of Miss Esther Schild, who played Greig's "On the Mountain," and that of Miss Anita Walbaum, who played Weber's "Allegro di Brauma." Miss Schick and Miss Pauline Schust closed the program by playing St. Saens' "Evening Reverie" and the French Military march arranged for two pianos. Miss Irene Jones, a pupil of Mrs. Edith Nichols, Baile, sang, and Raymond Zieroff, a pupil of Gaston Baile, played several violin numbers very well. Of special interest were the original compositions that had a bearing at the recital. These pieces were written by pupils of Miss Schick's harmony class and were an agreeable surprise to the audience and most gratifying to Miss Schick. A waltz for violin and piano, written by Miss LaVerne Williams, was played by Mr. Zieroff; a rondo by Miss Gladys Jones was played by Miss Esther Schild, and a song by Miss Florence Henline, was sung by Miss Jones.

The next attraction of the Morning Musical society will be the great violinist, Mischa Elman, who is to appear at the Majestic on Friday, March 24. This is to be the big star attraction of the annual artist recitals which the Morning Musical society presents to its members and the public every year.

The Business Women's club will meet at the V. W. C. A. next Monday evening. Miss Flora Wilbur will talk regarding the pageant to be held in Fort Wayne in June. All business women are invited to this meeting.

NO FUSS OR FRILLS FOR THE SMALL GIRL'S FROCK.

BY BETTY BROWN

The small person must be dressed simply—Fashion insists on that. No lacy fluffs for little sister even on party dresses, but you may go just as far as you like with hand embroidery. This is the edictment forth by Mame Becker, the sketched, I made in her studio the other day, proves how much elaboration may be put upon a "simple little frock." With hand-embroidered pink voile and bands of fillet lace, Mame Becker has made a quaint little Empire frock for "dress up" wear, but the cunningest thing about it is the hand embroidery. Equipped of the children's fashion world, which times it.

War Changes Ideal of Woman's Beauty

She still smiles, because it is her business to help keep London in good cheer, but the noted actress says the "smiling beauty" has gone out of fashion. "The war has changed English ideal of beauty," she says. "The fluffy, pretty-pretty girl no longer appeals to us. The war beauty, the woman of repose and sweet resignation is the woman England now calls beautiful."

90 DAYS IN JAIL, $200 FINE.
Wealthy Farmer Muicted on Charge of Drawing Deadly Weapon.

Richmond, Ind., March 18.—Alfred Underhill, who was convicted in the Henry county circuit court on a charge of drawing a deadly weapon on John Weidenbach, a farmer of Wayne county, and sentenced to ninety days in jail and fined $200 and costs, is a Richmond man. Underhill is the owner of twenty-five or more pieces of property here, and is also owner of a farm near Richmond. He has been conspicuous in recent years as a result of numerous difficulties in which he has become involved. As a result of an altercation with Weidenbach he was fined in police court here. Ninety days in jail and a fine of $100 was the penalty. He appealed to the circuit court and then took a change of venue to Henry county.

Underhill gained notoriety two years ago when he blew up the waterworks main of the city water company while blowing up stumps on his farm. As a result the city was without fire protection for two days. Underhill is under bond and it is said he will appeal to the supreme court from the Henry county verdict.

MADE ADAMS' MOTHER DEAD.
Salt Lake City, Utah, March 18.—Mrs. Anna Smith Kiskadden, mother of Maude Adams, the actress, died here late last night. Miss Adams, who cancelled her New York theatrical engagements in order to be at the bedside of her mother, was with her. Mrs. Kiskadden was born in a log cabin near Salt Lake City in 1848. She was an amateur actress while a girl and made her professional debut in the Salt Lake theater stock company in the role of Grace Otis in the "People's Lawyer," on July 25, 1865. She was married to James H. Kiskadden.

Mrs. Kiskadden retired from the stage eight years ago and since that time has lived in Salt Lake City.

Washington, March 18.—The house military bill is President Wilson's own bill, Chairman Hay, of the military committee, informed the house today when debate on the measure was resumed under the ten-hour rule.

"I may say," he said, in reply to a question, "in broad language, that this is the president's bill; that he thoroughly approves of it."

General debate on the bill was continued today with prospects that it would not be passed by tonight, as had been expected. When the house met today less than half of its set schedule of ten hours of general debate remained to be completed.

After concluding general debate, however, numerous amendments were presented as well as many five-minute speeches made, so that little, if any, hope of passing the bill by tonight was entertained. A final vote may not be reached before the latter part of next week.

It had been planned to hold night sessions in an attempt to get through tonight, but this was given up after it was seen that no organized opposition to the bill was in evidence on the floor of the house and after announcement that many amendments would be offered. Several members of the military committee were prepared today to propose changes in specific sections.

The outstanding fact thus far developed in the debate is that Representative London, of New York, socialist, is the only member to oppose military preparedness as a national policy. More than two score speeches have been made, the vast majority of which were in favor of the bill.

ARCHIE AMOS GOES TO JEFFERSONVILLE

Bluffton, Ind., March 18.—Archie Amos, of Fort Wayne, the young man who tried to realize his dreams of well-to-do bliss and his ambitions for a business life by the wholesale issue of fraudulent checks on Bluffton banks and tendered in payment to Chicago mail order houses for merchandise, was taken to the Jeffersonville reformatory today by Deputy Sheriff Albright to serve the sentence of one to five years imposed on him by Judge W. H. Eichhorn in the circuit court. Amos, since his sentence, has seemed anxious to get to the reformatory and begin his term. He expects to gain a parole at the end of a year by good behavior. The young man pleaded guilty in the circuit court and with great frankness detailed his plans for using fraudulent checks to obtain merchandise from Chicago, expecting to sell the goods before his crooked work could be discovered. His parents, Policeman and Mrs. William Amos, of Fort Wayne, were in court at the hearing. Attorney W. C. Ryan, of Fort Wayne, appeared for the lad, and appealed to the court for leniency.

SUSPECT ILLEGAL RESORTS

Muncie "Drys" Protesting Against Frequent Cases of Drunkenness.

Muncie, Ind., March 18.—Though saloons have not yet reopened here and druggists who are said to have been selling liquor illegally, are badly frightened since the state board of pharmacy revoked the licenses of five registered pharmacists a few days ago, arrests on intoxication charges continue to be the principal feature of city court proceedings. One morning this week eight men faced Judge Ralph S. Gregory in city court on charges of drunkenness. It is common belief, therefore, that some illicit liquor resorts still are running. The "drys" who were defeated in the recent local option election say the brewing companies are responsible for the existence of "tigers." Agents for the brewing companies assert, on the other hand, that they are not knowingly supplying illegal liquor resorts, and attribute drunkenness to the illegal sale of whiskey. Legal saloons can not be reopened in Muncie until April 4.

RID STOMACH OF GASES, SOURNESS AND INDIGESTION

"Pape's Diaprepain" ends all stomach distress in five minutes.

You don't want a slow remedy when your stomach is bad—or an uncertain one—or a harmful one—your stomach is too valuable; you mustn't injure it with drastic drugs.

Pape's Diaprepain is noted for its speed in giving relief, its harmlessness, its certain unflinching action in regulating sick, sour, gassy stomachs. Its millions of cures in indigestion, dyspepsia, gastritis and other stomach troubles has made it famous the world over.

Keep this perfect stomach doctor in your home—keep it handy—get a large fifty-cent case from any drug store and then if anyone should eat something which doesn't agree with them; if what they eat lays like lead, ferments and sours and forms gas; causes headache, dizziness and nausea; eructations of acid and undigested food—remember as soon as Pape's Diaprepain comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. Its promptness, certainty and ease in overcoming the worst stomach disorders is a revelation to those who try it.—Advertisement.

KISSING PAPA GOOD-BYE AS HE STARTS AFTER VILLA

ANOTHER DUBBOROUGH PICTURE FROM THE MEXICAN BORDER

An Earnest Plea Addressed to My Fellow Citizens

A number of high-minded Americans have incorporated in New York as "The Citizens' Committee for Food Shipments." Their object is to send milk to the suffering babies in Poland, Austria-Hungary and Germany. An appeal for aid having been sent out by this committee and brought to the attention of the members of the congregation of Emmanuel Lutheran church, a considerable amount of money was raised for this noble purpose. In addition to this, the Lutheran Children's Aid society of Indiana and Ohio has voted quite a large sum of money for this cause. All this money has been sent to Charles L. Schurz, the treasurer of the citizens' committee. On the 8th of this month, the executive chairman, Edmund cow Mach, wrote me as follows:

Dear Friend:
As a contributor to help relieve the condition of the babies in the central empires we feel that you will be interested in knowing the progress we are making in trying to get the right to ship condensed milk and milk powder to Germany, Austria-Hungary and Poland, with official assurance that it will not be stopped in transit.

The most logical way to accomplish this is through the kindly offices of the state department at Washington. We have stated the case clearly to President Wilson and Secretary of State Lansing. Mr. Lansing has yet to indicate that he has brought any pressure to bear upon the representatives of Great Britain to allow milk to go through.

Congressman Emerson, of Ohio, introduced a resolution calling upon the secretary of state to ask the allied powers to allow milk products to go to the babies in the central empires.

This resolution is now before the ways and means committee. A letter written by you and addressed to your senators and especially to your congressman telling them that you are interested in the Emerson resolution, will help us greatly.

The babies need milk. We can only get it through by arousing public opinion. You can help by writing to your congressman and by getting your friends to write to him. Congressman are elected to do things for the citizens in their districts, so do not hesitate to write him at once. If he is the right kind of a congressman he will be just as glad to get milk to the babies of the central empires as he is to help the babies of France, England or any country where babies are suffering.

Please send us the answers you receive. Very sincerely yours,

Edmund cow Mach,

Executive chairman.

On this letter I base my request, and I feel that my request is fully justified since the American Red Cross has agreed to take the distribution of the milk among these suffering babies into its own hands. Thus the entire administration of this benevolent undertaking is under the protection of the stars and stripes. My request is this: Write to your congressmen and ask them in the name of love and compassion to work for the adoption of the Emerson resolution. Surely the honor of our country and the dictates of humanity demand that our government should use its influence in order that the citizens of this country whose hearts have been touched by the plight of these poor babies may not be prevented from carrying out their humane plans.

That the distress of these little children is heart-rending may be seen from the words of Judge Ben Lindsey, of Denver, as they were reported by the New York Sun:

"More than 1,000,000 persons who never shouldered a rifle or heard the sound of cannon," said Judge Lindsey, "have died in Germany as a result of this war. I am told that more than one-half of those were babies. In many towns and cities of 30,000 or 40,000 in Poland there is not a baby alive under three years, and in many places not a child under ten years, so terrible has been the demand for milk."

Judge Lindsey told of traveling 1,000 miles in ten days in Germany, of the splendid food which he got at remarkably low prices, and of the apparent abundance of all the necessities of life, except milk and its derivative products. "I saw no signs," he said, "that the adults were suffering by the blockade of food supplies, but I did see many signs that the baby population was affected by the lack of milk."

"One of the most gripping scenes I ever witnessed, and one that I shall carry with me to my dying day, was the sight one day of a long line of mothers with tiny babies in their arms, waiting to be supplied with milk. I saw the splendid sanitary equipment and other arrangements for handling the milk bottles and curing for the milk, but I saw no milk. The supply for the day had given out and still there were hundreds of mothers left in line who must pray for milk on the morrow, for milk to keep their babies alive. I saw the tear-stained faces of those mothers as they turned away, not knowing whether the little bit of life in their babies could be sustained until the morrow."

"There were scenes that made one's heartstrings tighten and made one want to get out and fight for the babies. It made one feel as if this war had degenerated into a war against babies, the poor, helpless things who have had nothing to do with the war and yet who must suffer. The Bible says something about the millstone that should be tied around the neck of a sinner, but I say that the great nations of the world that refuse to permit milk to go to the babies of any country should be weighed down by such a millstone."

"Everybody ought to be for the babies," continued Judge Lindsey with emphasis. "We plead for equal opportunities for the babies of all the nations. Never shall I forget the sight of the hundreds of women gathered in a room, who, having suckled their own babies, were nursing the babies of others, in the hope of saving these children from starvation until another day could bring new supplies of milk from the dairies."

"Those are the things that bring a gulp to a man's throat."

"We are trying to send milk to Germany, because in the territory controlled by the central powers, especially in Poland and Galicia, a great many babies are suffering and likely to die for want of just that milk."

"In our efforts to send this milk to the most innocent of non-combatants, we are meeting with opposition from the allies, and that is odd, when we remember how England and France and their friends have protested that, in contradistinction to the policy of Germany, they would never, never, hurt a hair on the head of an enemy's child, nor ever, on grounds of military expediency, resort to a policy of frightfulness."

In conclusion, I would urge you once more to write to your representative in congress. You would not let a little child die upon your door-steps for the want of a cup of milk. To write a letter to your congressman will cost you less than the price of a cup of milk, and your letter may be the last one needed to set in motion the machinery which will lift the blockade sufficiently to let the milk get through.

I have tried to make you hear the cry of the hungry children in Poland, Austria-Hungary and Germany; may I not hope that in the kindness of your heart you will act upon my request and write? Let us forget, do it now!

OSSIAN NEWS.

Ossian, Ind., March 18.—Dr. I. N. Hatfield, of Bluffton, was in Ossian Thursday visiting with his mother, Mrs. Ann Hatfield, and his aunt, Mrs. Sarah Wilson.

The ladies of the U. B. church are making arrangements to hold an Easter bazaar on Thursday, April 20th, in the basement of the Presbyterian church. They will also serve a chicken supper that same evening.

The N. M. G. club was most pleasantly entertained at the country home of Mrs. Josephus Caston. The ladies were "motored" to the Caston place by John Woodward in the township school wagon. To roll call each lady responded with an Irish joke or story. The hostess conducted several contests. The pink and white candy hunt was won by Mrs. Clyde Hanna, and the animal contest by Mrs. Ferguson. Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows:

Mrs. A. C. Ferguson, president; Mrs. G. M. Way, vice president; Mrs. F. P. Quackenbush, secretary; Mrs. Frank McDowell, treasurer; Mrs. M. E. Spencer, press reporter. On Tuesday evening, March 28, the club will have an April Fool party at the home of Mrs. Quackenbush and the husbands will be guests. Mrs. Caston then served nine refreshments to the following: Mesdames M. E. Spencer, A. C. Ferguson, G. A. Bowman, F. P. Quackenbush, E. T. Hawley, John Hanna, J. V. Goshorn, John Woodward, Frank McDowell, G. M. Way and Mrs. Bertha Hoover and Mrs. Charles Caston, of Saratoga, who were guests of the club.

A. S. Elzey made a business trip to Montpelier Friday.

Miss Jennie East has returned home from Liberty Center, where she had been for a couple of weeks, caring for Mrs. James Prantz, who has been very critically ill.

Mrs. Frank K. Baker spent Friday visiting in Fort Wayne.

Miss Edith Hoover was in Fort Wayne Thursday to see her brother, L. C. Hoover, who is suffering from tubercular trouble. Mr. Hoover, who formerly lived in Ossian, is now confined to bed most of the time and is not improving any.

Mrs. Charles I. Weirich was hostess for the P. S. C. Square club Thursday evening. The ladies enjoyed a social time with their needlework and Mrs. Weirich served delicious refreshments. Those present were Mesdames Hazel Wilson, Oda Henline, Lavern Timbrook, Maud Swihart, Bessie Richey, Emma Vananda, Carrie Melching and Mame Poffenberger.

Mrs. Ellis Dishong entertained the U. B. Ladies' Aid Thursday afternoon. A pleasant social afternoon and dainty refreshments were enjoyed by Mesdames Joseph Elzey, William Parker, James Elzey, William King, John Caston, Lewis Hissom, Hanna Woodward, William Burns, Emory Burns, Frank Clark.

CHILD'S TONGUE BECOMES COATED IF CONSTIPATED

When cross, feverish and sick
give "California Syrup

Children love this "fruit laxative," and nothing else cleanses the tender stomach, liver and bowels so nicely.

A child simply will not stop playing to empty the bowels, and the result is, they become tightly clogged with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sour, then your little one becomes cross, half-sick, feverish, don't eat, sleep or act naturally, breath is bad, system full of cold, has sore throat, stomach-ache or diarrhoea. Listen, Mother! See if tongue is coated, then give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the system, and you have a well, playful child again. Millions of mothers give "California Syrup of Figs" because it is perfectly harmless; children love it, and it never fails to act on the stomach, liver and bowels.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt. Advertisement.

U. S. AIR SQUADRON IS TO GET ITS FIRST REAL TEST IN MEXICO.

Capt. Foulois, in charge of the United States air squadron.

San Antonio, Texas, March 15.—Uncle Sam's air corps is to get its first real test in the invasion of Mexico and war officials are interested in the part the flying squadron will play in the chase over the mountains after Villa. No American aero corps has ever had actual military service.

Machines were sent to Vera Cruz and there has been aerial scouting along the border, but this is the first real experience for the "fourth arm" of the service.

Capt. Benjamin D. Foulois, commanding 10 officers who comprise the flora of the squadron, with 80 troopers, completing the detachment, have prepared for departure.

Of the officers, several participated in the fight from Fort Sill, Okla., last November, when the squadron was transferred to Fort Sam Houston. They are Capt. Foulois and Lieutenants J. E.

Carberry, T. S. Bowen, I. A. Bader and C. G. Chapman.

Others in the squadron are Capt. T. J. Dodd and Lieutenants H. A. Barge, W. G. Gorrell, W. G. Kilmer and R. W. Willis.

Capt. Foulois was with Orville Wright in the first cross-country flight in America of any consequence—that from Fort Myer, Va., to Alexandria, in 1909.

The squadron is underequipped as its full complement should be 20 flying men. The equipment, in addition to the eight aeroplanes, consists of 20 heavy motor trucks and five motorcycles, the latter for the rapid transportation of gasoline and parts to crippled machines.

Biplanes equipped with motors of from 80 to 100 horsepower are used. Each machine weighs about 1,350 pounds and will carry 450 pounds, or an observer with each pilot.

Twenty-five aeroplanes and a quantity of ammunition will go forward with the motor trucks, it is understood.

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL

The BIG line, the latest novelties, the lowest prices, SURE to please you.

YES. We do PAPER HANGING, do it right and charge no more than other stores.

Wall Paper is a side issue in one corner of most stores, we sell nothing else. We are specialists, and if in doubt what to select, we can give you suggestions that are worth something. If one man sells better wall paper than others at the same price or the same quality at a lower price, there will be a beaten path to that man's door. The people of Fort Wayne and surrounding country have been making this path to our door for the last 45 years and we ask you to help make a new one to our present location, opposite Palace Theater.

At top: Miss Ruby Kentfield and Miss Blanche Skinner

Miss Blanche Skinner and Miss Ruby Kentfield over in Hawaii. They reached here the other day on their way back to Chicago, where they will tell all their girl friends of the wonderful discovery. Miss Skinner is the daughter of J. E. Skinner, of Sears, Roebuck & Co., and Miss Kentfield is the daughter of a Chicago publisher.

"We learned in Honolulu that in a part of Hawaii the young folk rely on the old kahunas to guide them to happy marriages," said the girls in explaining their discovery. "The kahunas are old witch doctors and people used to think that they could prevent or overcome all evil."

"Anyone wishing to learn if he is marrying wisely submits a sample of his hair and also a wisp from the head of

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago, March 18.—European hints of peace possibilities brought about fresh declines today in wheat market here. Opening prices, which ranged from 1/2 to 1/4 lower, with May at $1.06 1/2 to $1.07 1/2, and July at $1.05 to $1.06 1/2, were followed by a slight rally, but then a down turn. Closing prices were nervous, 1c to 1/4 1/2 net lower, with May at $1.06 1/2 and July at $1.05 1/2.
Corn weakened with wheat. After opening 3/4 to 1/2 down, the market showed but little power to rally. The market closed steady at 1c to 1/2 net decline.
Oats took the same course as other cereals.
Higher prices on hogs gave firmness to provisions.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, March 18.—Pressure was directed against some of the more active issues, particularly the war group, at the outset of today's trading, and continued with more or less effect to the end. American and Baldwin Locomotives and the Motors and Metals as well as a few more obscure stocks yielded one to almost three points. These declines were partly counterbalanced by the strength of coal stocks, Norfolk & Western marking a new record on its advance of 2 1/2 to 12 1/4. Fertilizers and Distilling issues also rose appreciably and oils were again active at marked gains. A new low quotation of 7 1/2 for marks excited comment in banking circles. The closing was irregular. Bonds were steady.
Irregular tendencies were indicated by the early course of prices in today's market, some substantial advances being partly offset by less material declines. Norfolk & Western was the chief feature, rising 1 1/2 to 12 1/4, a record quotation in connection with rumors of an early increase in the dividend. Crucible Steel and Texas company were among the other strong issues at gain of one to two points. American Zinc fell a point and Mexican Petroleum yielded a substantial fraction, soon recovering, however, to above yesterday's high figure. Elsewhere changes were mostly unimportant, secondary quotations manifesting a lower trend.

THE MONEY MARKET.

New York, March 18.—Mercantile paper, 26 3/4¢; sterling, 60 day bills, 4 1/2¢; demand, 4 1/2¢; cables, 4 1/2¢; francs demand, 5 1/2¢; cables, 5 1/2¢; marks demand, 7 1/2¢; cables, 7 1/2¢; kronen demand, 12 1/2¢; cables, 12 1/2¢; guilders demand, 4 1/2¢; cables, 4 1/2¢; lire demand, 6 1/2¢; cables, 6 1/2¢; rubles demand, 3 1/2¢; cables, 3 1/2¢; bar silver, 57¢; Mexican dollars, 43 1/2¢ government bonds, steady; railroad bonds, steady.

consequently all fears for the safety of the colonists have been removed. While the expedition has passed peacefully thus far into Mexico and the Carranza officials have shown every indication of both their willingness and ability to avoid friction, the tension along the Rio Grande has by no means relaxed. It is felt there that the real test will come when fighting with the Villista bandits actually starts. The lengthening lines of communication of the Americans, it is pointed out, is a tempting bait for raids by guerrillas. The refugees who through the border towns are especially insistent that the first bloodshed will be the signal for serious trouble. However, thus far the border is very peaceful.

REFUSAL RAISES DOUBT.

Pershing May Not Insist on Entering City of Casas Grandes.

San Antonio, Tex., March 18.—Gen. Pershing's reported refusal to permit the American troops pursuing Francisco Villa to enter the Mexican town of Casas Grandes revived doubt at Fort Sam Houston of the full co-operation of the de facto forces. The announcement of Gen. Pershing, commandant at Juarez, that American troops had arrived at the outskirts of Casas Grandes and planned to ### Business Suspended.

Agreeable to a proclamation issued by Mayor W. F. Keller, of South Bend, and Mayor Ralph Gaylor, of Mishawaka, business in the two cities was suspended during the hours of the funeral.

Throughout the morning several thousand of the senator's friends passed by the funeral bier, which was surrounded by a wealth of floral tributes, including remembrances of President Wilson, Vice President Marshall, Gov. Ralston, United States senators, representatives in congress, fraternal organizations and countless friends. Immediately after the funeral the congressional and state delegations returned to their homes by special trains.

PRIZES ANNOUNCED IN SENTINEL HORSESHOE CONTEST

MERCHANTS PRESENT VALUABLE PRIZES TO BE GIVEN CITY'S BEST PITCHERS

Prizes in The Sentinel horseshoe pitching contest to be held the latter part of next month are announced as follows:

First Prize, singles—To be announced later.

Second Prize, singles—A Two $ Tog hat, presented by Two $ Tod.

First Prize, doubles—A $5 umbrella, presented by Kaplan & Greenbaum.

An $8.50 sweater—Presented by Kratzsch & Schroeder.

Second Prize, doubles—A high grade flash lamp by Fort Wayne Sporting Goods company.

Fifty tickets to the Grand theater.

In addition there may be special prizes offered at a later date.

Entries in The Sentinel horseshoe contest are coming in faster each day and by the time the contest is to be pulled off there undoubtedly will be hundreds of players lined up. Players are requested, for the sake of convenience, to register early, and blanks are to be found on this page. The rules governing the contest will be published in Wednesday's Sentinel. They have been gone over and O'K'd by a number of the city's most expert horseshoe pitchers, and although there are slight differences of opinion, the rules adopted were chosen because they came more nearly to the general understanding than did any others.

JACK SHEEHAN TO MANAGE WINNEPEG.

Jack Sheehan, former Fort Wayne third sacker, has been signed to manage Winnipeg in the Northern league. Sheehan went big here. He was taken on by Milwaukee toward the end of last season, and had planned to play in the American association city this summer. However, the Milwaukee management saw managerial ability in the young chap and got him the job as boss of the Brits.

FEDS ISSUE DEFI TO ANY "CITY TEAM"

But Bar Out of Town Players Who Are Not Members.

The Lyceum Federal basketballers Saturday morning issued the following challenge:

In order to decide the basketball championship of the city for the current season the Lyceum Federals hereby challenge any city team to engage in a game or series of games for the title, the games to be played the week following the Lyceum's state championship contest Saturday, March 25.

The statement has been made repeatedly that the Federals were claiming the championship of the city, and, with a view to settling whatever doubt may have arisen on that score, the Lyceum wish it understood that no such claims emanated from their headquarters. The team has been content to let the question of supremacy remain unsettled until a series of games with city players participating should decide whose claims were to be honored, and to this end our defi is issued. Should this challenge go unaccepted the Lyceum will claim the city championship.

We feel that attention should be called to the fact that the Lyceum team is the only first-class organization in the basketball field this year whose players are Fort Wayne boys, and to the further fact that the Fed players are members of the Lyceum Athletic association, a bona fide organization, whose principal object is the promotion of athletics among the young men of the city. Several other teams purporting to represent Fort Wayne organizations have been hiring out of town players to fill out their lineups (in most cases players who have regular positions on other teams), and the Lyceum deny the right and propriety of these teams to enter a city title series. Should any organization desire to enter its own players or combine with any other organization to put a city team on the floor, the Lyceum Federals stand ready to play for the championship of Fort Wayne. Respectfully, J. H. M'BENNETT, Manager, Basketball Department Lyceum Athletic association.

The management of the St. Mary's team announces that it will answer the challenge of the Fed and will dispute the right of the Federals to insist on "players who are members of the clubs they represent." According to them, Miller of the Fed, last year was a member of the St. Mary's Athletic club, and Vonderhaar has no right to the claim that he is a Lyceum member because he was a Precious Blood church member. The St. Mary's claim that they can take their players into their club on the same basis the Fed took theirs in, and that at least two Fed players are outsiders and professionals to the same extent the St. Mary's are professionals.

SAINTS MEET WORLD BEATING CHICAGO WEST SIDE Y. M. C. A. TEAM TONIGHT

The St. Mary's five is on its marks for a regular go tonight when it runs into the Chicago West Side Y. M. C. A. Browns. The Browns are coming loaded with some of the best men in the Windy city, and the Saints will use their regular line-up against them.

The Chicago team has by far the classiest aggregation that has appeared here this winter, and defeated the Lyceum Fed in such style that the south sliders have no inclination for the return match. The St. Mary's took the Chicago boys on because the Fed refused to play a city title series and hope by comparison to show that they put up a better game than the Fed.

The St. Patrick's Acolians and the St. Paul's Nationals will meet in the preliminary in the city's amateur title clash. Seats for nearly 2,000 people have been installed at the Concordia gym, and the game ought to be a great one, with one of the largest houses of the winter.

The preliminary starts at 8:15 and the big game an hour later, and the place is the Concordia gym. Ritter will referee the big game and Miller the preliminary.

FRANK MORAN HAS ANOTHER BIRTHDAY

Fighter Receives Many Congratulatory Messages Wishing Success.

New York, March 18.—Frank Moran who is to meet the world's champion heavyweight in a ten-round bout here one week from tonight, is 29 years old today. He received many congratulatory birthday messages expressing wishes for his success. Moran took matters easy yesterday but was early on the road this morning for his regular run of over four miles. He will box five or six rounds this afternoon in addition to his usual gymnasium work but wishes to take on a few pounds in weight before the day of the contest. Today he weighed 262 pounds. Willard, after continuing himself to light exercises and six rounds of boxing yesterday, was out this morning for a run of three miles. He is in splendid condition and confident that Moran will not cause him much trouble. This afternoon Jess will take on three of his sparring partners for two rounds each, and will ask them to follow with an extra round apiece. He says he will have no difficulty in getting under 250 pounds, and shows excellent effects of his work so far.

Mars has no rain or clouds.

INDIANAPOLIS TEAM GATHERS ON MONDAY

Reports at Louisville and Starts South for Camp.

Indianapolis, March 18.—Members of the Indianapolis team are to report in Louisville next Monday preparatory to their trip south for the early spring training. The players will depart from Louisville early the next morning and will arrive in Albany, Ga., which has been selected as the training camp, on March 22. The club will remain in Albany until April 3, when it will break camp and gradually work north.

April 5 and 6 will be spent in Nashville where the Indians will play two games with the Volunteers. Two practice games with the Pittsburgh Nationals are scheduled to be played here on April 8 and 9 and then the team will go to Bloomington to practice with the baseball squad of Indiana university for four days. The last of the practice season will be spent in Terre Haute in a two-game series with the Central league club of that city on April 15 and 16.

Manager Jack Hendricks will take the following men with him to Albany: Pitchers—Willis, Schardt, Aldridge, Rogge, Conzelmann, Kaiserling, Lawson, Riley.

Catchers—Gesselt and Stevens. Infielders—Leary, Metz, Moore, Grandall, McMillan, Mitchell, Derrick and Bronkie. Outfielders—Butcher, Joseph Kelly, Jas. Kelley, Cole, Wickland and Riley.

ST. PAUL LINES UP SEVENTEEN GAMES

St. Paul, Minn., March 18.—Seventeen games will be played by the St. Paul American association team on its training trip this spring. Manager Mike Kelley said today. Fourteen of these contests have been arranged and for the remaining three dates, April 12, 13 and 14, games are being sought with teams at Paducah, Ky., and Fulton and Cairo, Ill. Kelley also gave out the roster of the 1916 Saints already signed or who have signified their intention of signing.

Reporting at Fort Smith, Ark., the third week in March, the Saints will remain at their training camp there until April 3, when they leave for Little Rock for the first games of the following training schedule:

April 4 and 5, Little Rock, Ark.; 6, Milwaukee American association team at Pine Bluff, Ark.; 7, Jackson, Tenn.; 10 and 11, Memphis, Tenn.; 15 and 16, Evansville, Ind.; 17, Terre Haute, Ind.; 18, 19 and 20, Little Rock, Ark.

Except for the Milwaukee team, local aggregations will be encountered in all practice games.

Two more pitchers will be added to the following list of players, given out by Manager Kelley today:

Pitchers—Finneran, Niehaus, Upham, Grouch, Glpe, Benton and Lefield.

Catchers—Glenn, Marshall and Berger.

Infielders—Dressen, O'Leary, Berghammer, Nash, Smith and Holt.

SPORT DOPE

There has been some talk of late of the Friars going into the building to be erected where the bus barn is. If they do their gymnasium and basketball floor and all the gym equipment planned should make the club so popular that a foe large enough to pay for the upkeep could be charged. There are some who feel that a Y. M. C. A. would kill the enterprise, but even if one were built it is a safe bet the Friar gym would hold its own.

The 4,000 bowlers gathered for the A. B. C. meet at Toledo ought to make great headway against Villa if the dodo ball were legalized.

The St. Paul's girls by defeating the New Haven Cardinals the other night proved that they are pretty well in a class by themselves for the Cards have been their only title contenders in this section.

The bill to legalize boxing in Kentucky fell flat, thereby limiting sport in the blue grass country to horse racing, draw and three-fingers.

Joe Choynski—Willard to win. Don't look for K. O.

Jim Jeffries—Moran hasn't a chance to stop Jess.

Bob Fitzsimmons—Willard has every advantage. He'll win.

Tom Sharkey—Size don't count. Moran will score K. O.

Sam Harris—Moran for mine. He carries the punch.

Billy Roca—Willard is not in condition. Moran has chance.

George Considine—I can only see Willard.

Fort Wayne Prepares for Coming of Vast Throng of Methodists Soon

North Indiana Conference of Methodist Episcopal Church Comes to Ft. Wayne March 29 to April 2 After Lapse of Forty-two Years--Bishop McDowell to Preside Over Sessions of Six Hundred Preachers and Laymen--Conference Was Organized in Fort Wayne in 1844--Something About the Big Gathering

Fort Wayne will entertain the biggest church gathering in the state during the week of March 27, when the seventy-third session of the North Indiana Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church will be held in this city. It will be the first time in forty-two years that Fort Wayne has had this honor, the last Methodist Episcopal conference having been held here in 1874.

The annual conference of the Methodist Episcopal church is a big event in which Methodists throughout the entire northern part of Indiana and extending as far south as Richmond, are greatly interested. It is at these conferences that the pastors are assigned and every Methodist is vitally concerned as to who his next pastor is to be. The entire business of the year is transacted and plans for the ensuing year are outlined.

The Methodist Episcopal church is a wonderful organization. Not only is this true in a religious way, but its system of government is regarded as one of the greatest of any religious body in the world.

True, the Methodists play politics, but it is the clean and wholesome kind. The political activities of the members in trying to get this or that particular pastor to retain the one they already have, adds interest to the church and makes its members all the more active and alive to their responsibilities and obligations.

Prominent Speaker is on Program

PROF. LYNN HAROLD HOUGH, D. D., Who Will Deliver the Evangelistic Address.

Organized in Fort Wayne.

The North Indiana conference was organized in Fort Wayne, October 16 to 21, 1844, with Bishop Vaughn presiding and Matthew Simpson as secretary. Matthew Simpson later became a bishop and was one of the most distinguished of the Methodist church has ever had. No church ever produced a greater or a more polished orator. Simpson M. E. church, in this city, is named in memory of him.

Four conferences have been held in Fort Wayne. After the organization of the conference in 1844 it did not meet here again until September 22 to 28, 1852, in the old Berry street M. E. church, which stood on the ground now occupied by the Anthony hotel. The conference came to the same church April 10 to 15, 1862, and the fourth time in this city at the Wayne street M. E. church, April 1 to 6, 1874.

Sessions of Conference.

The various sessions of the North Indiana conference since its organization have been held at the following places:

Change to the Spring.

The conferences for the first few years were in the fall, but in 1836 this was changed and since that time they have been held in the spring.

The conference comprises six districts classified as the Fort Wayne district, Goshen district, Logansport district, Muncie district, Richmond district and Wabash district.

There are five Methodist Episcopal churches in Fort Wayne and they all united at the last conference, held in April, in extending an invitation to meet here in 1916, which was accepted. To entertain a conference with such a large membership is no small undertaking. Local members of each of the five churches, however, and others have opened their homes to take care of the 600 to 700 visitors that will be here. The visitors will be given their lodging and breakfast free.

Bishop William F. McDowell, D. D., who will preside over the conference and who will assign the pastors for the ensuing year, will be entertained during the conference week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Doud, 523 West Wayne street.

PASTORS OF THE FIVE FORT WAYNE METHODIST CHURCHES WHO WILL ENTERTAIN CONFERENCE.

REV. D. H. GUILD, First Church.

REV. H. L. OVERDEER, Simpson Church.

REV. C. CLAUD TRAVIS, Wayne Street Church.

REV. T. M. HILL, Trinity Church.

REV. F. H. CREMEAN, St. Paul Church.

Where Committees Meet.

The various committees will meet at the following places:

Cabinet sessions at the parsonage of Wayne street church, 711 West Wayne street.

Committee on general qualifications at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Froese, 536 West Wayne street.

Statistical committee at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Askew, 800 West Wayne street.

Committee on conference relations at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Coverdale, 1014 West Wayne street.

Conference secretary and his assistants will have their office in the study of the church.

Conference treasurer and his assistants will have an office in the Old National bank.

Conference board of stewards will have an office in the First National bank.

Several Changes Expected.

Several changes in the local Methodist churches are expected. It is said Rev. Hill will probably leave Trinity church and Rev. Cremean St. Paul's church. Where they will be assigned and who will take their places here, of course, is not known.

While the congregation of the First M. E. church of Muncie is making a strong bid for Rev. Travis, of the Wayne street church, and will come to the conference prepared to put forth every effort to secure him, the Wayne street congregation is not ready to give him up. He has expressed the wish to remain here another year. Rev. H. L. Overdeer, who has served the Simpson church for one year, will be returned, it is thought.

Mentioned for Superintendent.

Rev. Guild of the First church, is being prominently mentioned for district superintendent to succeed Rev. J. A. Beatty, who has served as superintendent of the Fort Wayne district for six years, the limit under the Methodist rule. Rev. Beatty is certain to be transferred as is also Rev. C. E. Line, superintendent of the Muncie district. He has served for a period of six years. No other changes are contemplated among the district superintendents, who are as follows: Rev. J. A. Beatty, Fort Wayne district; Rev. Raymond J. Wade, Goshen district; Rev. B. S. Hollopeter, Logansport district; Rev. Charles E. Line, Muncie district; Rev. Somerville Light, Richmond district; and Rev. M. S. Marble, Wabash district.

Fairbanks Is Coming.

Among the distinguished visitors who are coming will be Hon. Charles W. Fairbanks, former vice president of the United States and prominently mentioned for the republican nomination for president. He will address the conference on Wednesday afternoon. Hon. Winfield T. Durbin, ex-governor of Indiana, and A. B. Cline, of Bluffton, are on the program.

An admission fee will be charged on Friday evening when Bishop McDowell will lecture on "The Life and the Bible." A musical entertainment which promises to be one of the treats of the conference will be given by the Wayne street church quartet, composed of Mrs. Clara Zellars Bond, Miss Ethel Doud, Earl Thompson and Clint Wilcox. The money realized on this night will go to help defray the expenses of the conference.

Auto Tour Arranged.

Through the courtesy of the Fort Wayne Real Estate exchange the conference guests will be taken for an automobile tour of the city on Saturday afternoon. Bishop Joseph C. Hartzell will speak Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the First church and at 8:15 at the Wayne street church. The conference love feast on Sunday morning will be in charge of Revs. J. K. Waltz, J. B. Cook and W. S. Stewart. The ordination services will be held at 3:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon, in charge of Bishop McDowell and the district superintendents.

Sessions at Wayne Street Church.

The conference proper will be held in the Wayne street church. The sessions of the lay electoral conference, the National association of Local Preachers and the Association of Preachers' Wives, Widows and Daughters will be held in the First church. Other meetings will also be conducted in the First church as shown on the program.

On Sunday, April 2, many of the churches of Fort Wayne will be supplied by Methodist ministers, who will be here in attendance at the conference. Bishop McDowell will conduct the service at the Wayne street church and deliver the sermon. Memorial services will be held Sunday afternoon. Rev. C. B. Work will deliver the memorial sermon. On Sunday evening services will be held at both the First church and the Wayne street church, when the REV. J. A. BEATTY, Fort Wayne District.

REV. M. S. MARBLE, Wabash District.

THE BISHOP'S GREETING

Bishop William F. McDowell, D. D. LL. D., who will preside at the Fort Wayne session, sends his most affectionate greetings to the Conference and this old English homily as a key note for the session of the Conference and for the year:

"Therefore, dearly beloved, let us not forget this exceeding love of our Lord and Saviour. Let us confess Him with our mouths, praise Him with our tongues, believe on Him with our hearts, and glorify Him with our good works. Christ is the Light; let us reveal the Light. Christ is the Truth; let us believe the Truth. Christ is the Way; let us follow the Way. And because He is our only Master, our only Teacher, our only Shepherd and Chief Captain, let us become His scholars, His soldiers, His sheep, His servants. * * * Let us receive Christ not for a time, but forever; let us believe His word not for a time, but forever; let us become His servants not for a time, but forever, considering that He hath redeemed us not for a time, but forever, and will receive us into His Heavenly kingdom, then, to reign with Him, not for a time, but forever."

anniversaries of the board of education and Freedman's Aid society will be celebrated. The session will end on Monday, April 3, at which time the assignments will be announced.

The ladies of the Wayne street church will serve dinner and supper to the delegates each day at the West Jefferson street church of Christ.

Local Committees.

The local conference committees follows: Program and assignment of places to delegates; district superintendent of Fort Wayne district and the pastors of the Fort Wayne churches.

NATIVE OF LAGRANGE DIES AT 76

Lagrange, Ind., March 18.—Daniel Harding, seventy-six years old, is dead on the old Harding farm homestead, a mile south of Lagrange, in Bloomfield township, where he was born.

Mr. Harding leaves two daughters, Elsie and Jennie, both at home, and one sister, Mrs. Eliza Draggoo. Mr. Harding was the son of Curtis and Amy Harding, who were among the earliest of the pioneers of the county, coming from the east and settling on the farm where their son died long before clearings had been made and while the Indians were yet following the old trails through the unbroken forests.

NEWS OF FORT WAYNE'S NEIGHBORS

ALBION CAPITALIST DIES.

Richard L. Stone, Native of County and Veteran of War, is Called.

Albion, Ind., March 18.—Richard L. Stone, a native of Noble county, a veteran of the civil war, widely known as a merchant, stock buyer and capitalist, and one of the most prominent citizens in this region, is dead at his home here following a prolonged illness. Bright's disease was the immediate cause of his death. He had been unconscious practically all of the time for the last few days of his life. Mr. Stone was born in 1841 in Noble county, and was just past 74 years old. His parents were among the early pioneers of the county. He enlisted in company N, Second Indiana cavalry, early in the civil war and served three years and two months, participating in many engagements. At the close of the war he came to Albion and not long afterwards engaged in the drug business, which pursuit he followed until about four years ago. He also had been for thirty-five years engaged in the grain and seed and livestock business. In all of his business activities he was capable and successful and amassed a fortune. Mr. Stone was twice married. His first wife, Miss Anna Matthews, who died twenty years ago, and in 1906 to Martha Hitler, who passed away two years ago. By his first wife he was the father of five children—a daughter, Fannie, who died in 1903, and the sons, Clarence D. and Harry D., both now residing in Chicago, and Merle T. and Frank W., who are residents of Detroit. The funeral will be held at the late residence of the deceased in this city Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, in charge of the Albion lodge of Odd Fellows, of which he was a pioneer member. Rev. O. W. Bowen will conduct the services.

DEKALB VETERAN PASSES.

Auburn, Ind., March 18.—Joseph Lamm, aged 73 years, for sixty-five years a resident of Dekalb county and a civil war veteran of the Eighty-eighth Indiana volunteers and former postmaster at Auburn, died at his home in this city Friday afternoon. Creeping paralysis was the cause of death. Mr. Lamm was born in October, 1841, in Columbiana county, Ohio, and was brought to Dekalb county by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Levi D. Lamm, in 1850, the family settling at Newville. With his regiment he participated in many of the important battles of the civil war and in July, 1864, he was seriously wounded in a skirmish. He reached the rank of lieutenant. After the war he went to Illinois, where for a time he followed the trade of a mason, and was married there to Malinda Carndiff. They came here in 1874. Mr. Lamm engaged in the mercantile business, until 1876, when he was appointed postmaster, serving until 1882.

FIRE LOSS AT FARM HOME.

Columbia City, Ind., March 18.—Hamm Batz, of Etna township, lost his smokehouse and summer kitchen when both caught fire and burned to the ground. Mr. Batz was smoking his summer's first pipe and also had his pipe in the smokehouse. He started the smoke fire and went about his other work, later going to the Fisher-Bowling sale near his home. While at the sale the smokehouse caught fire and was burning when notified from the Fisher farm. Mr. Batz and others ran to the scene of the fire and upon arriving there found that the summer kitchen was also on fire. Both buildings were burned to the ground, although Mr. Batz and his neighbors saved the greater part of the goods stored in the summer kitchen. Mr. Batz figures that he lost $100 worth of meat and lard in the fire outside of the loss of the two buildings.

THINKS FIRE PUSSY'S NOISE

Huntington, Ind., March 18.—The central fire department made a run to the home of George Brown, 832 North Lafayette street about 8:30 o'clock in the evening, and quelled a fire which was blazing merrily when the teams arrived. The pantry and cellarway were in flames. The firemen made quick work of it and in a few minutes all signs of fire had disappeared. The damage was not great although the blaze had gained good headway. Mr. Brown stated that while he was reading he had heard a scratching and a crackling for about twenty minutes but thought it was a cat on the roof of the adjoining summer kitchen. It was not until he smelled smoke that he grew suspicious and discovered the fire.

INSANE MAN ARRESTED.

Wabash, Ind., March 18.—Becoming violently insane and stating to Claude Weimer, of Vernon, that he owned the stock in Weimer's barn, an unknown stranger was picked up by Sheriff Coble after he had been sent for by residents of the vicinity who had become alarmed at the stranger's actions. When taken to the jail, the only knowledge that he would impart was that his name was "Puddin' Tane." From papers found in the wild man's possession it is thought that his name is James Teeter with residence at Lagrange. Later Sheriff Coble received word from the sheriff of Grant county, saying that Teeter lives at Roseborough, that county, and that a search for him had been begun early yesterday.

HEAVY DOCKET FOR COURT

Hartford City, Ind., March 18.—The session of the circuit court which is to start in this city on March 20, will be one of the heaviest which has been on docket for the past several terms, according to the prospects at the present time, there already being 66 cases on file, many of which are unusually heavy. The prospects are that several of the cases will have to be continued until the June term as the March term will only be in session four weeks. The jury has been ordered to report on the second Monday of the March term.

DRIVES OVER FIRE HOSE; FINED.

Huntington, Ind., March 18.—Fred Herran was fined $1 and costs, amounting to $6 in the police court for violating the fire ordinance by driving over the fire hose with his automobile Wednesday, when the fire department was called to the residence of Dr. N. W. Scott, on Market street.

KILLED BY A BUZZ SAW.

Roy O. Geesman Meets Shocking Death in Huntington County.

Huntington, Ind., March 18.—Roy O. Geesman died at 7:35 o'clock Friday evening at his home three and one-half miles southwest of Huntington on the Andrews road. His skull had been fractured in the morning by a piece of a buzz saw that broke while he was working near it. Mr. Geesman was helping buzz wood on his father's farm, and was off-beating or taking the pieces of wood away from the saw as fast as they were cut. After the accident he was taken to his own home, which was not far distant. He was thirty-one years, nine months and six days of age. He was born to Samuel F. and Olive Geesman June 11, 1884, and married Prudence Fulton September 5, 1904. The widow and two children, Sterling A. and Beatrice Louise Geesman, survive him. Mr. Geesman was a member and financial secretary of the Pleasant Grove U. B. church, where the funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. W. A. Settle in charge. Burial will be in Mt. Hope cemetery.

FARMERS' CLUB ELECT

Grabbill, Ind., March 18.—At the second meeting held in the Lee high school building, the organization of a farmers' club, began at a meeting February 24, constitution and set of by-laws were adopted and the following officers elected: President, G. W. McComb; vice president, J. A. G. Warner; secretary, T. D. Conrad; treasurer, C. C. Page. The following soliciting committee was also appointed: David Nounswander, A. H. Steiner, Alvin Kessler, J. C. Kryder, Garie Bates and Homer Deventer. Hereafter, this organization will be known as the Cedar Creek Agricultural society. This society will hold its next meeting on Tuesday evening, April 4, County Agent Clarence Henry will be present and deliver an illustrated lecture on "Treating Oats for Smut."

HAS FOOT CRUSHED IN WOODS.

Columbia City, March 18.—Denver Ott, of Smith township, son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Ott, had his right foot badly smashed on Friday while assisting his father in the woods. The two men were cutting logs and had just felled a tree and were getting off a log. When the log fell to the ground it rolled toward young Ott and his right foot was caught. He was released by his father and assisted to the house. Dr. Otto Grisher, of this city, was called and he went to the Ott home and the young man was placed under the influence of an anesthetic and his foot was freed. Several of the small bones of the foot were broken and the flesh badly torn.

HARTFORD CITY MAN HONORED

Hartford City, Ind., March 18.—A. G. Lupton, of this city, was chosen, Thursday, as the president of the Hoosier Automobile association, to take the unpaid term of Fred J. Willis, who has acted in that capacity for some time. Mr. Willis has found that it is impossible for him to keep up the work with the automobile association and take care of his other business at the same time and for that reason, circular letters were sent all over the state to the various auto clubs asking them to name the new president. Mr. Lupton was notified only Thursday, of their decision. The Hoosier association is closely allied with all of the motor clubs of the state.

WANT 5 CENT TELEPHONE RATE.

Churubusco, Ind., March 18.—April first is the date set for the physical reduction of the rate of the Farmers' Mutual Telephone company lines, whose headquarters is at Columbia City. The Churubusco company has petitioned the commission to institute a five cent toll between Churubusco and Columbia City lines, the same to be paid by the subscribers and patrons of said companies using in connection therewith the lines of the other company. It is further desired that the companies shall publish the proper tariff governing such service, the same to become effective April 1st.

CHURUBUSCO TO BE CENTER.

Churubusco, Ind., March 18.—The Lincoln Highway Bus line is under plans to make Churubusco the transfer center for cars intending to other points. One line is to extend to Meridian and Wolf Lake, with a possibility of extending to Ligonier. Another line is under consideration to be extended to Albion. And still another line is under consideration to reach Columbia City by way of Collins or Tri Lake, and at Columbia City connections will be made for Huntington, South Wayne and other points. The Lincoln Highway Bus line is now planning to put on a large truck bus this summer that will carry two dozen or more passengers.

CLOSE DURING FUNERAL

Montpelier, Ind., March 18.—Funeral services over the remains of the late Mrs. William Chasney were conducted from the M. E. church, Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, the Rev. J. C. Bills officiating. Mrs. Chasney had been ill for over two years with a nervous breakdown and had received treatment in some of the best hospitals in the state but without avail. During the funeral hour, Friday, the business houses were closed. Other than the husband, no immediate relatives survive.

TEN-CENT JUMP IN OIL

Montpelier, Ind., March 18.—Another increase of ten cents in the oil market has been announced from the Ohio Oil company's headquarters in this city. The price of oil has now jumped to $1.58, while both North and South Lima were affected by the rise and are now $1.72. The price of crude in this territory is now higher than at any previous time and present indications are that the market will continue on its upward course for some time to come.

LAGRANGE PIONEER DIES.

Lagrange, Ind., March 18.—Frederick Frupir, after three weeks of illness, confining him to his room, died here at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Henry E. Reyher, on East Michigan street. Mr. Frupir, who was in his sixty-eighth year, was born in Germany. He came to the United States in 1872, locating at Sturgis, and about twenty years ago moved to Lagrange. He leaves a widow and four children, Mrs. Reyher, Mrs. Guy S. Wuthrich and Franz W. and Leland K. Frupir, the latter a dental student at Louisville, Ky.

EMMETT MARTIN

DRAINAGE AND SEWER EXPERT. FORT WAYNE.

San Francisco, Cal., March 17.—Sons of wealthy men have gained the reputation—perhaps unjustly—of being gay, reckless youths, who scorn work. David Steinmetz, 16, son of D. H. Steinmetz, a Sonora, Cal., banker, repudiates such a reputation.

He toiled for weeks in his workshop making an automobile with his own hands. When he finished the machine "rambled right along" just like a factory car. Young Steinmetz started for San Francisco, in his home-made car. He covered 30 miles of the trip in it.

"Then a careless driver bumped into me and I had to take another car," he said.

AT THE MAJESTIC.

Thursday evening, March 23.—Forbes-Robertson in "Passing of the Third Floor Back."
Friday evening.—Morning Musical presents Mischa Elman.
Coming—"Daddy Long Legs," "Nobody Home," John Drew, David Warfield.

FORBES-ROBERTSON NEXT

Comes Thursday in "Passing of the Third Floor Back."

The human element of personality is a great factor in stage success. In the case of Forbes-Robertson, who makes his farewell appearance at the Majestic next Thursday evening, it seems to be a dominant part of his work, combined, of course, with technical perfection and genius of a degree not possessed by any other actor of this generation. One has heard from players of the old days that an actor's personality must have nothing to do with the part he is playing; that he is only an actor who can most successfully play the exact opposite of himself. This is the academic theory of "character acting." Of course, the half-truth is obvious. It represents the weariness induced in audiences by handsome persons who merely, in the stage phrase, "bring their bodies on." As a matter of fact, of course, a great actor includes a multiplicity of selves, so that he may play many parts, yet always be playing himself. Beyond himself, no artist, whatever his art, has ever come.

Forbes-Robertson is a unique personality. No other living actor could have made the success of "Passing of the Third Floor Back" because no other actor possesses the same qualifications. This is very emphatically shown in an incident of the play, which can never be forgotten by those who witness it. The denizens of the boarding house exploit their weaknesses and their foibles. One after another, they demonstrate their meanness, their pettiness and spite, and after the whole gamut is run, silently the Passerby enters. Tall, slight, ascetic, with distinction, benevolence and sincerity portrayed in every look and gesture, Forbes-Robertson stands surveying the scene. The contrast is so great, the benediction of his gracious personage so intensely felt, that many people have involuntarily shed tears before he speaks a word.

This is a tribute of which any artist might well be proud. And yet this distinction follows Forbes-Robertson throughout the play. It is this which renders it impossible for any other actor to represent the character—at any rate until Forbes-Robertson is forgotten.

MISCHA ELMAN FRIDAY

Latest Press Comment on Noted Violinist Coming to Majestic.

Some of the most recent press comment on the work of Mischa Elman, who is presented at Majestic next Friday evening by the Morning Musical, follows:

Evening Post, Chicago, Feb. 28.—Mischa Elman has talent for comedy with the violin that is unique. The opening number for his concert was the Nordini concerto in E Minor, and he played the first two movements well when he came to the last movement, allegretto mosso, there was a perfectly delicious note that crept into the music. It was something of joyous that at once suggested a merry-making, with dance, jests and laughter. There was the spontaneous feeling of peasants entertaining themselves with their folk-dance, with the heartiness which grows close to the soil and is apt to lose its savor when brought into the drawing-room. A trace of uncouthness, a hint of exuberance, yet all done with a good will that wins a sympathetic smile of good nature.

Chicago Examiner, Feb. 28.—Prima donna of the Violin! Mischa Elman, the prima donna violinist, played in Orchestra hall yesterday afternoon. Prima donna violinist because the whole manner and appeal of his playing is lyric, because the tricks with which he decorates his very serious art those of Patti, he played as an approach to a high note.

Evening Journal Chicago, Feb. 28.—Elman has not always made a fine first impression as he did when he came on and astounding: his interpretation on roller skates closes this evening with two shows at the New Palace. It is a gloom eradicator of unquestioned power.

Harry Beresford Coming. Mr. Harry Beresford, America's greatest character actor, is to appear on the bill for the first four days of the week. Mr. Beresford's 1916 vehicle is the comedy of youth and springtime, "Twenty Odd Years," a story filled with natural humor, and a vein of pathos with now and then a heart clutch to add zest to the lighter moments. Mr. Beresford's splendid ability as a delineator of old man types has placed him high in the firmament of the stars of the American stage.

Minnie Allen, the female jack of all entertainment trades, is a singer, dancer, impersonator, musician, composer and magician and in addition makes seven costume changes in her brief skit. Brooks and Haven, a pair of dusky entertainers, recently presented a comedy singing and dancing act at the Chicago Palace and "cleaned up" the bill.

Madame Dore's Beaux and Belles, a dignified musical ensemble with eight artists offering it is another feature of the coming bill. The madame's act, "Great Moments in Grand Opera" will be pleasantly recalled by Palace habitués as an introduction for the Beaux and Belles. Nevins and Gordon, whose "Typewriter and a Type" was one of the attractions the second week of the theater's existence, and Jack Buckley, contortionist, complete the bill.

AT THE TEMPLE.

"A DAUGHTER OF ERIN"

Closes at Temple Tonight. "Why Girls Leave Home" Next.

With big houses accentuating their efforts, and Irish airs recalling the fact that it was St. Patrick's day, both performances of "A Daughter of Erin" at the Temple yesterday, won new laurels for the Temple players, and new admirers for one of the sweetest stories of Irish life ever written. The home of the O'Grady in Borneo, with characters representing the true hearted Irish people, free from the shame of society, was presented in scenes which won applause. Shiela O'Grady, a daughter of the old sod, is a role which gives Miss Ethel Hamerick, the leading lady, an opportunity for the display of a charming personality, coupled with a brogue and sense of loyalty and justice that even her marriage and beautiful home

Majestic Thursday Evening in "The Passing of the Third Floor Back."

In London has not been able to overthrow, and the fact that she is Irish, and proud of it, complicates matters when she is introduced to superficial London society folk. The scenes in the Lavender home in England, the wharf at Liverpool and the outpost near the naval prison in the same city, followed by the exciting climax in the prison cell, must be seen to be appreciated. Miss Zula Ellsworth, as Mrs. Lavender, one who poses as a tyrant in petticoats, with Marcus Aurelius and scientific acting and living as her greatest fads and eccentricities, but who turns out to have the biggest and kindest of hearts, has a part which never fails to win applause. Miss Ellsworth's cleverness and real worth has never been more clearly demonstrated since her arrival in Fort Wayne than in this act.

With the performances this afternoon and tonight, the bill at the Temple will change with the great dramatic success, "Why Girls Leave Home," as the attraction for the first half of next week.

AT THE ORPHEUM.

A NOTED CHILD ACTOR.

Matty Roubert at Orpheum in "The Waif"—Kitty Gordon Monday.

Matty Roubert, probably the most gifted child actor in motion pictures, and a prodigy whose grasp of dramatic values is equalled only by that of his old and far more experienced contemporaries, appears at the Orpheum theater today in a visualization of the appealing comedy-drama, "The Waif." A story of youth and love, it abounds in moments of tender sentiment and reaching pathos.

Monday will find Kitty Gordon and her famous back at the Orpheum in "As in a Looking Glass," a spectacular drama which affords the celebrated stage beauty opportunity to wear a glittering array of gowns valued at $65,000. Tuesday and Wednesday marks the debut of Hamilton Revelle and Barbara Tennant in "The Price of Malice."

WILL CELEBRATE PATRONAL FEAST

Tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, in honor of St. Joseph, solemn high mass will be celebrated at St. Joseph's Catholic church by the pastor, Rev. Anthony Petrilli, who also will deliver the sermon in Italian.

The first low mass will be at 8 o'clock. The altar has been nicely decorated and a fine, delightful musical mass has been prepared for the occasion. Miss Elizabeth Moritz, the organist of the church, will direct the choir, the members of which are Mr. and Mrs. Landolfi, John B. Petrilli, Mrs. Sperandio, Misses Cecelia Moritz, Nellie Burke and Josephine LaRosa.

At 3 o'clock in the afternoon there will be the vespers and the benediction of the blessed sacrament.

EXPERTS TO LIGHT BIG PAGEANT STAGE

How the Lighting Effects Will Be Handled During June Celebration.

The problem of handling the electrical lighting effects for the immense stage on which the Fort Wayne historic pageant will be presented for three nights in June will be placed in the hands of experts in this branch of stagecraft. Members of the centennial committee will spend some time in Chicago, investigating the methods of concerns who make a business of lighting outdoor theatrical productions, and will select the one which seems best suited to the requirements of the Fort Wayne event.

Strong shielded light will throw a general light over the stage area, these lights being hidden behind the foliage which will be so placed as to complete the stage picture. At either side of the stage will stand a broad, high column. Concealed within these columns will be the operators of the spotlights which are required to center the attention of the audience upon individuals or groups.

The concern which handles the stage lighting will also have charge of the general illumination of the seating area, the dressingrooms and the other features connected with the pageant itself.

Prize for Poster Idea. The pageant committee states that within a day or two an announcement will be made concerning the offering of a prize to the person providing the most acceptable idea for an official Centennial poster. Everyone should begin to give thought to a design for a poster to advertise the big event. Particulars of the contest will be made public as soon as the details can be worked out. No one but residents of Fort Wayne will be allowed to contest.

MRS. NESBIT'S WORK WILL BEAR FRUIT

Ft. Wayne Will Be Cleaner and More Beautiful City This Summer.

That Fort Wayne will be a cleaner and more beautiful city this summer than it ever has been in the past as a result of the series of lectures by Mrs. Josephine L. Nesbit, of North Hampton, Ohio, is confidently expected. Mrs. Nesbit closed her campaign in Fort Wayne Friday evening with an illustrated lecture at the Harmon school. Superintendent Justin N. Study presided at the meeting and expressed himself as delighted with the interest that had been taken by the children in the schools and members of the parent-teachers' clubs in Mrs. Nesbit's work.

At the Lakeside school, Friday, buttons were presented to those boys and girls who were awarded them for their work last summer in the school garden contest.

About four hundred pupils of the Clay school and many adults attended the meeting at the First M. E. church Friday afternoon. Mrs. Nesbit, with the aid of pictures showed what had been done in other cities in beautifying back yards, alleys, streets and home surroundings. In all her lectures she has emphasized that beautiful home surroundings is a very important factor in developing health and morality.

Mrs. Nesbit left Saturday morning for her home in North Hampton, Ohio.

JITNEY SAME AS REST.

Harrisburg, Pa., March 18.—Individuals, firms and corporations operating automobiles or other vehicles on jitney service must obtain certificates of public convenience from the state public service commission before they can engage in any public service, according to a decision of the commission here today. The decision places the jitney on the same plane as a railroad, trolley line or other commerce carrier.

DEPOSITS INCREASE IN FT. WAYNE BANKS

Interesting Figures Are Shown in Bank Statements.

Some interesting figures have been compiled showing the splendid financial condition of Fort Wayne's banking institutions. During the past year the deposits in the four national banks of the city have increased $1,193,349.76, while the deposits in the trust companies of the city have increased $803,137.07. The total deposits in the banks during the year ending March, 1916, amount to $15,278,636.87, as compared with $14,175,280.11 the previous year. The total deposits in the trust companies was $9,649,095.94, as compared with $8,444,958.87 the previous year. Other figures follow:

Total increase in deposits in both banks and trust companies, $1,906,486.83.

THIRTEENTH INSTALLMENT

SYNOPSIS.

Little Helen Holmes, daughter of General Holmes, railroad man, is rescued from imminent danger on a scenic railroad by George Storm, a new boy. Brown to young womanhood, Helen saves Storm, now a fireman, her father, and his friends, Amos Rhinelander, financier, and Robert Seagrue, promoter, from a threatened collision. Safebreakers employed by Seagrue steal General Holmes' survey plans of the cut off line for the Tidewater, fatally wounding the general and escape. Her father's estate badly involved by his death, Helen goes to work on the Tidewater. Helen recovers the survey plans from Seagrue, and though they are taken from her, finds an accidentally made proof of the survey blueprint. Storm is employed by Rhinelander. Spike, befriended by Helen in his turn, saves her and the right-of-way contracts when Seagrue kidnaps her. Helen and Storm win for Rhinelander a race against Seagrue for right-of-way. Helen, Storm and Rhinelander rescue Spike from Seagrue's men. Spike steals records to protect Rhinelander, and Storm and Helen save Spike from death in the burning court house. Vein in Superstition mine pinches out. Seagrue sells it and sells it to Rhinelander. The mine is relocated.

A FIGHT FOR A FORTUNE

A bright morning sun beat down in winter warmth on the Superstition mine. Near the mouth of the tunnel stood Amos Rhinelander, now sole owner of the property, giving orders to his foreman. At the loading platform not far away George Storm was bantering with Helen Holmes. It was the day after her hazardous flight down the aerial railway, but she looked as refreshed and charming as if she had never known the meaning of the word trouble.

George Storm, her companion, stalwart and young, was disputing with Helen for the possession of a pocket mirror he had fished from her vanity bag, when Rhinelander approached. "I am afraid I am de trop here," he said dryly, looking from one to the other.

Helen flushed the least bit. "Why, not at all," she disclaimed. "We were only waiting for the team to come back from Valley."

"And you found it easier to wait together," continued Rhinelander, unabashed. "However," he went on, sparing the manifest embarrassment of the young couple, "I've something to say to each of you."

They looked at him questioning. He held two papers in his hand. "Helen," he continued, "yesterday completed, I think, pretty thoroughly, my title to the Superstition mine. I never expect to get any stronger claim on a piece of property than I now have on this. Unless," he added, quizzically, "to my lot in the home cemetery after I occupy it permanently. In fact"—his face lighted with a smile—"it looked awhile yesterday as if I shouldn't have any real use for that even. I certainly thought, George," he said, speaking to Storm, "while we were trapped in the tunnel, the Superstition mine itself would be our last resting place. But while we were relocating that big vein you, Helen, were getting without the loss of a minute the help necessary to bring us out alive."

"That is one reason," he went on, deliberately, "why I have decided over night to convey to you, little girl, with my compliments and best wishes, a certificate for one-third the capital stock of this property." He handed her a paper. "Here it is."

"George," he turned to his assistant—"you, too, have stood by me at every turn of the road since I went into this cut-off fight. You lost your job with the Tidewater line through sticking to me. I could have got you reinstated—you know that, of course, as well as I do. But there was a little selfishness, I admit, in my not doing so. I felt you could be of more aid to me on the front; and my expectations have not in a single instance been disappointed."

"I don't expect to spend all my life in this country. I shall have to leave behind me, when I go East, someone to represent my interests and to guard them. The great wealth that has come to me in this property has come almost over night. I wasn't suffering for money before I owned it. But I want the man who stands out in this country, for the interests of Amos Rhinelander to have a substantial monetary backing outside his care of my affairs. This is why, George, I am presenting to you in this certificate, a second one-third of the capital stock of the Superstition mine. Now," he exclaimed, putting up his hands to shut off the protests and expressions of gratitude voiced by his companions together, "I don't want to hear a word further about this from either of you. All Helen and I will ask from you"—he was speaking to Storm—"is to see that our dividend checks are mailed to us promptly."

A man came up to Rhinelander with a letter. He opened the note and read:

Dear Mr. Rhinelander:

Please tell Helen Holmes that Leary, known likewise as Lefty (but whose real name was Hyde), has confessed he killed her father.

The warden says that maybe I will be paroled about the 16th.

SPIKE.
Rhinelander read the note aloud very slowly and distinctly. For a moment the three were silent. Rhinelander handed the letter to Helen. She stood deeply moved.

Seagrue, in his apartment, was still chagrined over the loss of what he had believed to be a worthless mine, but which had already become known all over Nevada as the richest gold-bearing property on the great Superstition range. He had not yet abandoned his hope of recovering through some clever trick the property that he had parted with for what now seemed a paltry sum, and his mind was set on regaining control of it. He was now studying the bill of sale that signified his loss of the property. He presently took up a pen and wrote out a dispatch:

Amos Rhinelander, Superstition Mine:

Quarterly payment Superstition mine due tomorrow.

SEAGRUE.
Storm and Helen were with Rhinelander when the telegram was handed to him at the mine. Rhinelander showed it to his companions.

"I think I will draw the money from the bank and go to town with it in the morning," said Rhinelander, studying the substance of the message.

Helen intervened: "Let me go with you," she exclaimed, "and I can start Spike for the mine when he leaves the jail. I should hate to see him get mixed up with any more crooks when he gets out." Rhinelander assented, and writing out an answer to Seagrue's message, read it to Storm before he gave it to a messenger:

Earl Seagrue,
Albamarle Apartments
Oceanside:

Will make payment on time. In on the morning passenger.

RHINELANDER.
Seagrue received the prompt answer without much elation. He continued thoughtful, and as Adams, his servant, was leaving, called him back, asked for his hat and coat, and, accompanied by the man, left the apartment.

Directing his steps up street, Seagrue made his way to a quarter of the town less noted for its attractiveness than for its reputation as a haunt of men of doubtful character. Having reached the vicinity he desired—a shabby and deserted side street—he looked about to see whether he was observed, and, perceiving no one, started down an obscure alley. He knocked at the door of a weather-beaten house standing close to the street. A man opened the door. Seagrue, followed by Adams, went inside.

"Ward," said Seagrue, addressing the scowling occupant of the room, "I've got a job for you."

The man addressed as Ward, a swarthy, beetle-browed adventurer, scrutinized Seagrue silently at the intimidation.

"I know you're sore," continued Seagrue, "at the way the last job went," he added, recalling the incident of the stealing of Rhinelander's pay roll. "But that wasn't your fault or mine."

Ward, without answering, continued to regard him askance. Seagrue unfolded his idea to the hardened crook and the promise of ready money and enough of it—whether he succeeded or failed—finally enlisted him.

"You and Adams, here"—Seagrue nodded toward his servant—"can handle the thing without any meet them and stopped them for examination. A few curt questions and equally voluble answers did not satisfy the plain-clothes men, who, after some discussion, insisted that the suspects should accompany them to the station.

Ward's mouth fell when he heard the order. Uselessly he tried to convince the detectives that he and his friend knew absolutely nothing of the hold-up in question. To the station they were compelled to go and there were held in cells until the sergeant could send out a man to bring in the victim of the hold-up for their further identification.

To complete Ward's chagrin, the precious handbag was checked in under the sergeant's desk.

On reaching the hotel to which Rhinelander had taken Helen, she suggested that while he made his payment to Seagrue, she would go to the safety deposit vault—Rhinelander himself was president of the Safety Deposit Vault company—and place their securities away before starting for the jail to intercept Spike when he should be released. In parting they agreed to meet again at the hotel.

Helen went directly to the vault, which she reached just in time to make her deposit of the stock certificates in Rhinelander's box; the watchman was closing the cage when she came out to go to the penitentiary to meet Spike.

It was a long drive, but once there she was not kept long in suspense. In the warden's office she awaited Spike, who, greatly changed, presently entered the room.

Rhinelander had found Seagrue in his rooms. Without wasting words, the two set about the business in hand. Seagrue showed the agreement thus feloniously abstracting their own property that the watchman saw them. He turned in an alarm. At the police station where it registered, the sergeant called out the men and they started on the jump for the bank.

Helen, in the interval, had taken the securities from the box and showed them to Spike. As they turned to leave, the watchman, re-enforced by the officers, pounced down on them. Helen, desperate over the situation, upbraided the watchman.

A wordy discussion followed. But Helen and Spike were started for the station, where more development had already taken place. The victim of the hold-up, in response to the sergeant's message, had arrived, and on having the suspects, Ward and Adams, paraded with others before him, was unable to identify Seagrue's retainers. In fact, he distinctly declared these were not the men that had eaten all his free lunch and robbed him.

The chief, refusing to be satisfied, continued to ask questions. His instinct concerning criminals, seemed to tell him that this pair were crooks, and, if not answering to one charge, should justly be held to await another. While this was going on in the office of the chief, Helen and Spike were ushered, with the complaining watchman, into the booking room. Helen demanded the use of the telephone and in spite of the serious charge lodged against her something in her bright eyes or her demeanor satisfied the sergeant she was no criminal and he handed her the phone from his desk. She called Rhinelander up at Seagrue's rooms.

When the bell rang, Seagrue told Rhinelander to hind end of a long freight train was rapidly pulling. Ward and Adams headed for it, and, outdistancing their pursuers, sprang for and gained the nearest box car. It drew away with them as Helen, Rhinelander and Spike ran up too late.

Pulling themselves into the empty box car, Ward and Adams were well pleased with their escape. But they were not yet done with their pursuers.

Farther down the line, at a Santa Fe crossing, a Tidewater passenger train had slowed, and for this Helen, Rhinelander and Spike made. But the excitement and speed were telling on Rhinelander, who was not in the class and training of his companions. He weakened. Spike stopped to help him along. In that brief interval Helen made the side of a coach as the Tidewater passenger train picked up speed. Her companions could not overtake her, but Rhinelander hastily chartered a passing automobile and away he went with Spike after the two trains. It was a triangular race, but the passenger train, on a parallel track, gained rapidly on the freight.

Helen had already climbed to the coach roof, and, with both trains running, she watched the gap lessening between the passenger and the freight that bore the two thieves on the adjoining track. As she found her own train rapidly overhauling the other, she made up her mind what to do. The moment her coach pulled abreast of the last box car in the long drag she jumped from the top of the coach to the top of the freight car, landed safely, regained her feet and looked over the side of the train for the men she was after.

Within the box car where they had taken refuge, Ward and Adams were trying to open Rhinelander's bag. They had succeeded in negotiating the lock when, to their consternation, Helen, through the open sidedoor, swung down and in on them from the roof. The thieves jumped to their feet. But before Adams was up, Helen had knocked him over again, and as Ward jumped at her, she managed to shoot out her foot at the handbag. By a fortunate chance she kicked it cleanly out of the car. Freeing herself from Ward's clutches with an energetic blow, she sprang to the door herself and jumped after the bag from the fast-moving car to the ground. As soon as she could regain her feet she ran back to search for her hard-won prize.

Adams, when Helen pushed him over, had struck his head against an iron bar and he lay on the car floor almost unconscious. Ward turned to him the minute Helen was gone. "Wake up!" he shouted. "We've got to get out of here."

"What's up?" demanded Adams, groggily.

"We're left, man. Shake yourself and get out of here before you get pinched."

Waiting their chance when their train slowed down in passing the next station the two men jumped out of the box car. Down the line Ward saw the bridge they had passed when Helen sprang from the car. "That girl can't be very far off yet," he muttered. "She may be hunting for the bag. If we get there quick enough, we can get hold of it ourselves."

Helen, running fast as she could, searched the right of way keenly. Help was nearer to her than she was aware of. But she had eyes for nothing beyond her search and, finally, hardly a stone's throw from the bridge itself, she saw the bag lying on the gravel.

The nearest station was to the north. Helen began to retrace her steps, thinking to telephone or to get somehow in touch with Rhinelander from there. Hastening on, she heard her name called, and, looking up, was astonished to see Spike waving his hand at her from the bridge just ahead. He and Rhinelander, following the train in the machine, had seen her spring from the box car.

She started to run forward to join Spike. But Ward and Adams had come up. Seeing Helen approach, they hid and when she passed them, they seized and overpowered her and dragged the bag from her hands.

Not without stout resistance on her part. She fought the two with blows and screams, and Spike, hearing the commotion, ran to where he could slip over the side of the bridge and drop to the tracks. Shouting loudly as he scrambled to his feet, he ran to where Ward and Adams were fighting Helen, who had again got her hands on the bag. But when Spike reached the scene the encounter was short.

Ward, the more powerful of Seagrue's men, engaged him furiously, and, as a boxer, would have put him out, had not Spike clenched and slammed the big fellow heavily to the ground. He jumped at Adams before Ward could come back and the two crooks, seeing the game lost, took to their heels.

Spike turned to see what damage had been done to Helen. She had the bag safely in hand and they started together to join Rhinelander. He was waiting for them eager-eyed.

The bag was now committed to Spike for safekeeping, and Rhinelander headed the car for the city in an effort to reach Seagrue's quarters quickly with the payment. Burning the tires all the way into town, he pulled up with a jerk before Seagrue's apartment and the three, alighting from the car, hastened up to his rooms.

Seagrue, expecting the return of Ward and Adams with their loot, caught his breath when he faced Rhinelander and his escort at the door. Rhinelander he could account for. Helen, he was not at a great loss to account for; but to see the craning neck, square jaw, straight nose and cold-gray eyes of Spike in the twilight of the hallway was too much for even Seagrue's poise. When they pushed their way in upon him, he made hardly any attempt to resist. "I—I wasn't looking for you," he stammered.

Rhinelander laughed. "No! I understand. However, it's all right. A couple of your men, Seagrue, had this bag in hand"—he held up the leather grip for Seagrue's inspection—"to bring to you." Rhinelander's eyes were sparkling with the zest of victory. "They were detained, Seagrue," he went on, enjoying to the full the consternation of the breathlessascal before him. "In fact, the two met with a little accident." He nodded toward Helen as the little accident, herself. "The police are looking for the pair now," explained Rhinelander, jestingly. "But we thought it only neighborly to bring the bag in, ourselves. Especially since you seem to consider that our title to the Superstition mine rests on your receiving the actual cash today for the second payment."

While speaking, Rhinelander had gone to the table, thrown the bag open and was tossing the packages of currency out. "There's your money, Seagrue—twenty-five thousand dollars. Count it, Seagrue, and give me a receipt."

The Moment Her Coach Pulled Abreast of the Last Box Car, She Jumped.

trouble. If you can't do it, you'll be paid anyway. But if there's any possible chance, I want to see you separate Rhinelander from his money for twenty-four hours."

"There's no time to lose," muttered Ward, picking up a railroad time table. "Are you ready to go, Adams?" Adams nodded. Seagrue supplied both plentifully with money and the two left together.

Ward and Adams, proceeding to the station, boarded an outgoing passenger to intercept the train from Las Vegas which should bring Rhinelander to Oceanside. Learning from the conductor where the down train would be flagged, they left their own train at a convenient station and buying tickets back, boarded the Las Vegas passenger when it stopped.

In the observation car, Rhinelander, seated with Helen, was watching the landscape through the window when Seagrue's men coming in paid for seats not far away.

In his lap Rhinelander held a small bag, and from the care with which he retained it, Ward surmised it might contain something of especial value.

Ward, while he sat studying out a scheme to take a chance on the proposition and at least get the bag into his own possession, presently spoke to Adams: "The train stops twenty minutes at Clinton Junction," he muttered to his companion. "We can get hold of a bag there something like Rhinelander's."

No further words were needed to convey his meaning. The moment the train pulled into Clinton, Ward and Adams hurried off uptown to a leather goods store. Breaking precipitately in on the proprietor, they pulled and hauled his stock about with small sense of responsibility. Evidently they wanted a bag, but they seemed to the shopkeeper hard to suit. It was only after much searching and many hard words that Ward's eye lighted on something such as he was looking for.

The diner had been put on and luncheon called. Rhinelander, taking Helen, started for the dining car closely watched by Ward. No sooner had the two seated themselves at a table than Seagrue's men following took seats directly behind them. Rhinelander placed the hand bag at his feet. Ward made no move until Rhinelander became occupied closely with the bill of fare. While he was trying to tempt Helen with the various delicacies offered, Ward put his foot carefully out, slid Rhinelander's bag away with his toe and, unobserved by the hurrying waiters or the busy diners, pushed the dummy leather bag into its place.

The knaves then coolly ordered their luncheon, ate it—somewhat hurriedly—and left the dining car ahead of their victim.

When slackening speed warned Ward and Adams that the train was nearing Oceanside, they were in no hurry to start out. In fact, they lagged noticeably in their movements and Helen and Rhinelander left the station and took a taxicab uptown without noticing the change of bags that had been played on them.

And just at this juncture blind chance itself took a hand in the little game. Two city detectives in plain clothes had come to meet the train and were refreshing their memories by reading a description of two hold-up men expected on it. Scanning the faces of the incoming passengers for such a pair as would fit their search, the detectives noted Ward and Adams getting slowly out of the coach, while the pair did not quite suit the description, the officers, on general principles, crossed over to and Rhinelander, placing his handbag on the table, opened it to take out the money. Inside, he found an odd-looking package and thought that Helen must have wrapped the currency up differently after she had taken it from him. He unrolled a bunch of newspapers—astonished at the situation—but could find nothing inside them that looked like currency. The money was gone.

He turned to the telephone. Spike and Helen had reached the rooms at the hotel when Helen heard the ring of the telephone. She answered the call. Listening, dumfounded, she did not tell Spike what she heard, but with her face somewhat blanched and Rhinelander's words ringing in her ears, she hung up the receiver. "Get the stock from the safety deposit box," he had directed, "and I will use that as temporary security until I can replace the money."

In the interval, Rhinelander was trying to satisfy Seagrue. He told him he would have ample security there for the payment within half an hour. Seagrue only smiled. And while Helen and Spike were hurrying from the hotel, Rhinelander, worried somewhat by Seagrue's peculiar expression, told him he would give his personal check for the amount.

Seagrue shook his head. "No, Mr. Rhinelander," he said slowly, "that won't do. I must have legal tender, and have it today, or our contract doesn't go."

Helen, with Spike as her strange escort, reached the bank only to find it closed as she had feared. The watchman, despite her appeals, refused them admittance. But a little obstacle such as that was not a serious deterrent to Spike. He had defied the law too long to be balked now in the interests of justice and fair play. He had been a malefactor with the law against him; he brushed aside all scruples now in taking the role of a benefactor with the law still against him. The watchman had his way. "If the case is as bad as you say," Spike muttered to Helen, "we've got to do something."

Helen shook her head despairingly. "It may mean millions, Spike," she exclaimed. "What can we do?" In her distress she clasped her hands. "Do," echoed Spike, scornfully. "Go in and open the box and get your property—there's nothing else to do."

"But how?" cried Helen, wide eyed with perplexity.

Spike tossed his head. It was set high above a pair of swinging broad shoulders and whenever Spike shook his head in that way, Helen knew some suggestion was coming. He bent forward, and pointed his finger at her to emphasize his words. "You put the stock in the box, didn't you?" She nodded a half-frightened assent. "That," he continued stiffly, "was your business. Now, you want to get it out, don't you?" She nodded once more. "That," he declared with much positiveness, "is my business."

A moment later, at the side of the bank, Helen, frightened to death, followed Spike through an unguarded door. He led the way hastily and stealthily to the vault and Helen, with her key, opened Rhinelander's box. It was while they were answer it, and from Helen at the station the latter learned of the plight she and Spike were in.

No explanation that Helen and Spike could make moved the desk sergeant in any degree. He had directed the officers to take the two to separate cells when a commotion was heard in the hallway and Rhinelander dashed into the room. In the twinkling of an eye the aspect of everything changed. In Rhinelander, the conscientious watchman recognized the president of his own safe deposit company, and when the great transportation magnate rushed up to Helen to extend his sympathy and nodded, as an old acquaintance, to Spike, the humble watch dog of the safe deposit vault gasped. He waited just a minute, and in an auspicious lull in the conversation between Rhinelander and Helen, Spike standing at attention, the watchman pushed into the group to ask whether he had made a mistake.

"No mistake at all," said Rhinelander heartily and reassuringly, and to the watchman's great relief. "You did exactly right. You didn't know these people. They had no business in there. But they were there not only to get my securities out of a box, but to get me out of a box!" The watchman stared. "So"—Rhinelander turned to the sergeant in explanation—"there's really nobody to blame, sergeant, except that your men and you have a box of cigars coming from somebody and it might as well be me as anybody else."

The sergeant scratched his head. "This is the queerest mix-up I ever struck," he muttered, perplexed.

At Rhinelander's suggestion he sent for the chief. The moment the latter appeared everything was made right.

Within his own room the chief had a knotted problem. He had been trying in every way to extract some damaging admission from Ward and Adams, but unable to do so, had reluctantly dismissed the pair, satisfied that it justice had her due the two would be behind the bars.

Just outside the police station, Helen and Rhinelander—Spike listening—were conferring as to what should be done in the awkward emergency facing them. How could they now save their property from Seagrue's eager clutches? They moved away together slowly, just as Ward and Adams, having got the real handbag from the Sergeant, walked out of the station. The two men encountered the halting and perplexed trio. Rhinelander's roving eye fell on the bag as Ward passed him. He cried out and pointed. Ward and Adams turned nervously. "Stop, thief!" yelled Rhinelander, making for them.

Seagrue's men recognized their victim. Away they dashed, Helen and the two men after them at top speed. Across a city street a block away the

BIG FACTORY

Wells Brothers Company
Awarded Contract by General Electric.

After compiling figures and comparing the bids of the eight big contracting firms seeking the contract of erecting the factory building on Wall street for the General Electric works, General Manager F. S. Hunting decided that the bid of the Wells Brothers Company, of Chicago, was the lowest and most satisfactory and the contract was awarded to that firm.

The building is to be completed and turned over to the General Electric company by September 1 and the representative of the contractors stated that the work would be finished within the time limit and possibly some weeks earlier. Office work on the big job has already commenced by the Wells Brothers Company and next week dredging and other tools necessary will arrive on the grounds and a big force of men be put at work.

The contract involves only the main factory building and does not include the two smaller buildings which will also be erected the coming summer, but which have not been fully planned.

The proposed building will be located on the south side of Wall street, a short distance west of Broadway. It will be 427 feet long, 75 feet wide, five stories and a basement and will be of reinforced concrete construction, with brick veneer, presenting the pleasing effect possessed by the new storehouse building which was dedicated last Tuesday night. It is intended for factory purposes and when it is completed the big plant will undergo many changes in the location of departments. The factory is now inadequate to the demand for machinery space and to help until the new building is up and equipped, one of the floors of the new storehouse building will be equipped with machinery.

This contract is the greatest in floor space area and in the quantity of construction material used ever let in Fort Wayne, except possibly the Allen county court house, and with its completion the local plant of the General Electric company will double its floor space. When it is equipped and in operation, the General Electric company will be the largest employer of skilled and common labor in Fort Wayne. It will have upwards of 5,000 men on its shop payroll.

The Sentinel described the proposed building in detail about a month ago. No change in the design has been made since.

TWENTY-EIGHT YEARS OLD.

Division 18, G. I. A. to B. L. E., to Celebrate.

Next Tuesday, Friendship division No. 18, Grand International Auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, will be twenty-eight years old and the anniversary will be celebrated at the hall at 1018 Calhoun street. Former celebrations of the anniversary of the division were open to the public, but the coming event will be participated in by the members of the division and their husbands only. The program will commence with a dinner at 5:30 o'clock, which will be followed by a musical and a general good time. There are some of the charter members of No. 18 living in Fort Wayne and they will be present at the celebration.

LABORER BADLY HURT.

William Gable, of 334 French avenue, who is employed in the boiler department of the Pennsylvania power plant, sustained a most painful injury shortly after 1 o'clock Friday, when he was struck by a belt which parted at the place of connection. One of the metal connecting parts tore the calf of his leg badly and was found embedded in the flesh when Dr. Budd VanSwearingen, the company's surgeon, was dressing the wound. One of the bones of the leg was also slightly fractured. The injured man was taken to the Lutheran hospital.

JOHN WELDEN DEAD.

John Welden, for many years chief clerk in the master mechanic's office of the Pennsylvania Chicago Terminal division, died last Thursday and was buried at Chicago this afternoon. Mr. Welden was 72 years old and had been on the pension roll two years. He was the brother of Major Frank Welden, for many years chief clerk in the local Pennsylvania master mechanic's office, who died during the administration of George F. Puffer as master mechanic of the Western division. Some of the local Pennsylvania men who knew John Welden for many years went to Chicago to attend the funeral.

G. E. EMPLOYEES TRANSFERRED

Some transfers of the employees at the General Electric works have been made and more changes are to take place in a few days. Earle Watterson, who was formerly with A. L. Hadley, of the engineering department, has been transferred to the construction department, under L. C. Yapp; Christian Starkey, formerly with Frank Walburn, of the transformer department, has been transferred to the production department, under E. E. Miles; and Fred Penbleton, an electrician, has been transferred from Foreman W. H. Shultz's department to the production department under Gus Kaiser.

INCREASING THE EQUIPMENT

ual motors and two steel lathes to the equipment. The motors and one of the lathes have already been installed and the other lathes will arrive next week. The company received the largest single order for factory products this week of its history and the fifteen men employed at the plant are working full time. The company makes paring, bread and butchers knives at present, but will soon add other cutlery. Ed Phelps is the manager.

RAMEY AT ST. JOSEPH HOSPITAL

Brakeman O. J. Ramey, of the New York Central, who had a foot crushed while at work on the line in Michigan, as been brought to the city and is now at St. Joseph hospital, under the care of Dr. J. M. Dinnen. His foot was badly injured, but will come out all right, Dr. Dinnen says. Mr. Ramey is a member of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, the members of which will be pleased to hear of his improvement.

TWO EMPLOYEES INJURED

Miss Irma Schultz, employed in the small motor department of the General Electric works, under Foreman P. A. Neuman, had the palm of her right hand and the wrist painfully burned when she came in contact with a live wire a few days ago. Leo Byanski, of the commutator department, had the tendon and artery of his left wrist severed just above the hand of the thumb when his hand was caught in a milling machine. Dr. F. J. Schulz, the company's surgeon, attended both of the injured ones.

HAS RETURNED TO MADISON

J. W. Durfee, an electrical engineer who came here several months ago to help out in the disposal of the Madison shop's machinery, has returned to that city. He has become interested in poultry raising and has a large poultry yard at Madison, which will receive his personal attention hereafter.

FUNERAL PARTY HERE TONIGHT.

The senatorial party which accompanied the remains of the late Senator Shively from Washington to South Bend and attended the funeral at the latter place will pass through Fort Wayne at 9 o'clock this evening, their special train running just ahead of the Pennsylvania limited.

Frisked for a Gun When I Went Over to Mexico to See the General, Says Correspondent Starmont

Juarez Metropolis of Mud Walls and 'Dobe, is Place of Six Shooters, Spies, Guards and Evil Glances—Everyone is Going—No One Coming.

By LEON STARMONT,
Special correspondent on Mexican border for Daily Sentinel.

Juarez, Mexico, March 18.—Mexico is all smiles, when you look it in the face. Only you mustn't have newspapers in your pocket and your left arm must be carried gingerly because of the vaccination mark that makes it mythically sore.

You take a car in El Paso for Juarez, the border metropolis—on the Mexican side—of mud walls and flat roofs. At the international bridge across the attenuated rivulet that is the Rio Grande, an American sentry paces. On the Mexican side, a Mexican sentry boards the car.

"Vaccination certificate?" You make a wry face and point to your left upper arm. The newspaper in your pocket must be surrendered to the guard.

He smiles. You smile, too.

LEON STARMONT
Special correspondent for Daily Sentinel, now on Mexican border.

F. H. Hilker, of the Nickel Plate, ten days ago, continues to disable him, though the wounded hand is improving and will soon be well.

Engineer John Moore, of the Nickel Plate, who recently purchased the property at 1307 West Wayne street, is now moving his family into it and has been having off to assist in the work.

Col. James Fry, assistant state auditor, called at the Pennsylvania offices this morning to see the men with whom he was associated in railway work a few years ago. Business for the adding department brought Colonel Fry here.

H. A. Busch, air brake instructor of the Pennsylvania Northwest system, and James Leach, of the motive power department, have returned from an inspection trip over the Erie and Ashtabula divisions.

Supt. B. H. Hudson and Chief Clerk C. H. Tonsing, of the G. & L., have returned from Grand Rapids, where business for the company detained them several days.

Nickel Plate Fireman H. C. Chapman, who was married a week ago, is still out enjoying the honeymoon. His fellow railroaders have planned a warm reception for him when he shows up for work.

Nickel Plate Fireman G. E. Hunsaker is kept from his work on the Nickel Plate by the illness of his wife.

R. O. Shorer, D. R. Bauerle and F. W. Pappert are off duty for various reasons.

Nickel Plate Engineer L. R. Larimore and Fireman James Hardwick, who have a preferred run, with headquarters in Stony Island, are laying off, and Engineer M. Robbins and Fireman O. Snyder are filling their places.

A. Hasler, A. Stoeck, Charles Volz, G. Bugert and H. A. Hopp, of the Pennsylvania car shops, are off duty on account of sickness. Mr. Volz will be seventy years old in April and will then be placed on the pension list.

General Foreman M. J. Meldrum, of the Nickel Plate round house, is sitting up and will soon be out bending to business as usual. He has been sick a week. Mr. Meldrum resides at High street and St. Mary's avenue.

E. J. Bandler, of the Pennsylvania valuation department, is in Lafayette and Purdue to spend a couple days with friends. A. B. Scheckley, also of the valuation department, will spend Sunday with relatives in Decatur, Ind.

V. A. Grams, assistant Wabash ticket agent for the past two years, has been transferred to the Detroit office of the company in a similar capacity. Alfred Bornstein, who has served as relief assistant ticket agent here on several occasions, will succeed Mr. Grams.

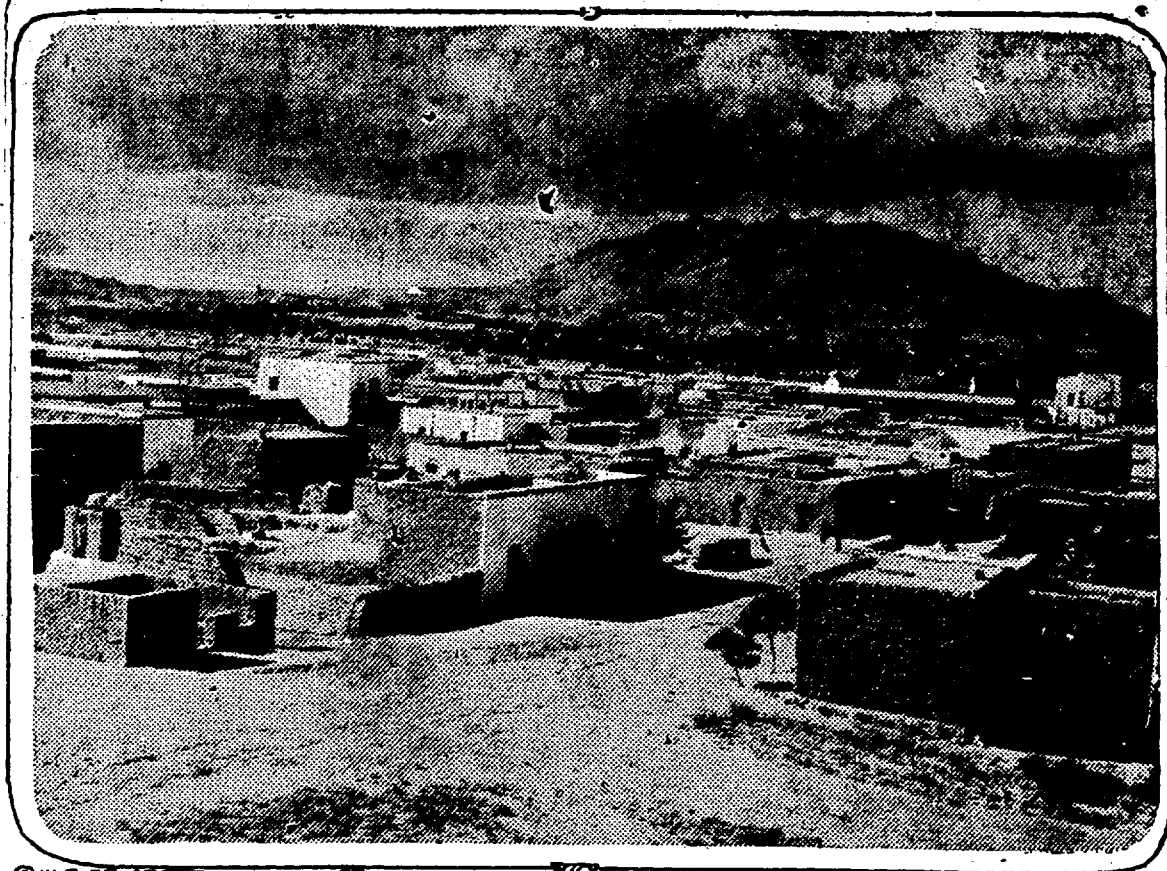

A card from Foreman B. F. Sarver, of the Pennsylvania boiler shop, who with his wife has been in Florida two weeks, states that they are about to go to Cuba. Mr. and Mrs. Sarver are having a pleasant trip and it is doing much good in restoring her health.

W. J. Quillian has been transferred to the Chicago offices of the Pennsylvania, to take up work in the freight department. He was chief clerk to Division Freight Agent E. T. Wood for six years and he will be succeeded by R. E. Hensel, from the office of the general western freight agent at Chicago.

Fred Eggeman, for two years with the Buckeye Casting company, at Columbus, Ohio, has resigned to take service with another company. Mr. Eggeman was with the Pennsylvania motive power departments several years before taking the position with the Buckeye Casting company.

Conductors E. J. Grummon and R. J. Walker and Brakemen W. P. Shirolock, J. D. Stapleton, T. J. Conner and W. C. Handley, of the Nickel Plate, are laying off for various reasons.

Conductors C. F. Hardwick and L. M. Walker, and Brakemen R. T. Vercilly, D. R. Brown and W. S. Brown, who had been off duty

MUCH SMUGGLING GOES STEADILY ON

Dutch Soldiers Unable to Seal Up the German Border Line.

The Hague, Feb. 25.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press).—The Dutch minister of war, reporting in the second chamber of the Dutch parliament, says that 36,979 persons were prosecuted for smuggling goods into Germany last year. Forty thousand soldiers were employed to prevent smuggling, but because of the 600 miles of frontier they had to patrol, many of the smugglers were able to do a brisk business with the people across the border. The wives of the smugglers are many and the ingenuity which they bring to their trade, it is said, would fit them for all the higher reaches of diplomacy.

Leather was smuggled inside barrels of mussels, balls of rubber inside the outer shells of onions and bags of meal got up to represent sleeping babies were sent over the border. Hundreds of thousands of the frontier population were after the beginning of the war, engaged in the lighter forms of the proscribed traffic. Bribery of the frontier guard is said to have been the method tried most frequently.

The strip of country along the various frontiers is now declared in a state of siege and the military commanders order the whole life of the community. They have resorted in some regions to banishing all undesirable persons. The number thus deprived of their right of residence last year is 1,297.

A bill passed recently limits supplies for the border towns to quantities that were normal before the war.

The authorities carry out the anti-smuggling laws in a most drastic way, realizing that the traffic was endangering the country's overseas supply by awakening the distrust of the allies.

FAR NORTH HAS ITS "BATH HOUSE JOHN" AS WELL AS CHICAGO.

"Bathhouse John" and daughter at the door of bath hut on Pribilof islands, Alaska.

Seattle, Wash., March 17.—When Russia sold Alaska to Uncle Sam many years ago she threw in "Bath House John," of the Pribilof Islands, for good measure.

"Bath House John," who has never forsaken his humble calling to middle in politics, as did his Chicago namesake, is nevertheless an important factor on the islands.

He tends the hut in which the native Aleuts perform their ablutions each week before going to church. Cleanliness is a necessary prelude to godliness in the Pribilof, for no worshipped would think of appearing at his church without first having cleansed his body.

With several hundred natives to serve in his capacity as bath monopolist, you can understand how busy a man is John!

He's held the important, not to say influential, post for more years than most of his island neighbors can remember.

The Pribilof Islands jut up from the Bering Sea, off the west coast of Alaska and are the famous rookeries of the seal which the government has taken under its protection. The natives, who are virtually government pensioners because the islands are a federal reserve, give valuable assistance in carrying on seal and fox operations. "Bath House John" is regarded as an elevating influence by Uncle Sam's representatives there. May the keys he carries never grow rusty!

Somebody fires a six-shooter. You look behind you, involuntarily. The cat-footed Mexican at your elbow is NOT smiling.

You make up your mind that you won't look around again. You'd rather have them smile.

The car to El Paso is crowded. Coming over it was almost empty.

"There's lots of traffic across to Texas," the conductor tells you.

"But there are darn few coming this way!"

LETTERS FROM A CORRESPONDENCE SCHOOL ACTOR BY A. H. GIEBLER

DEAR DAVE:
Well, Dave, I didn't lose my job, like I told you I might because of me and Strongheart having that fight and him losing his teeth. He's got a new set of teeth and looks as good as new, and I am a bigger movie actor than ever. They just turned that scenario of the school-teacher play around so that it fits the way the fight turned out, and it's all right, and Mr. Crossland and J. J. Murphy got the owners of the Occidental Film Company, which is the name of our company, to let them put on another bunch of actors to make comic pictures with lots of riding and rough stuff in them, and I am going to be the star actor in that company.

Of course, I ain't a hero actor like I want to be yet, and play lover parts and doctor parts and things like that, but I am head actor all the same, and I'm going to get $50 a week, every Monday night, which is pay day, only they don't call it pay day, they call it the ghost walking, when we get our money.

Lucy is going to be the leading girl actor in our company, and Nellie Standish, her real name ain't that, it's Mary Soper, the little red-headed girl that was one of my wives when I played wild man—she is going to be what they call the onegenew, and play the parts that ain't leading parts, but almost, and Miss Marney, the old maid actress, will do the mother stuff and old woman parts.

Ain't that pretty good pay for being a movie actor, Dave? I'll have a lot of money left after I get my board paid and pay for my washing, won't I?

You tell Lufe and Thorn how much I am making. I guess they won't make fun of me now. Thorn will say that beats working around a soda fountain in Price's drug store, and Lufe will say: "I wish I was making it instead of hanging wall paper and painting signs for old man Jones."

Strongheart, he wasn't very mad at me about that fight. He says: "Well, Rube, you are some man, when you get started, ain't you?" And we shook hands, because we can't be working together in the same studio and be mad at one another, can we?

And listen, Dave, I've found out how I can be as big an actor as Charlie Chaplin or H. B. Walthall, and all I'll have to do is to pay a man here $25 a month and he'll get my name in the papers all over the country. He's what they call a press agent, and he'll write pieces about me and send them to all the papers, and pretty soon I'll be making $55 or maybe $60 a week.

This here press agent, he put nearly all of them big actors in the movies on the map just by writing about them in the papers, and I said:

"What will you write about me?" And he says: "Well, I'll write a little piece like this: 'Mr. Thomas Boggs, the newest star to shoot across the movie firmament, was shocked the other day whilst in a restaurant to see some rude people eating pie with their knives.'"

I said, "That wouldn't shock me none, because I eat pie with it if you don't use your knife. I've always eat it that way."

He says: "Well, then, we will turn it around and say that Mr. Thomas Boggs, the newest star to shoot across the movie firmament is not a bit affected by the enormous salary he receives from the Occidental Moving Picture Company, and is so democratic that he eats pie with his knife."

I said, "Well, that's all right." I never voted the Democratic ticket but three times when old man Jones was elected, but that don't make no difference if he wants to put that in. He says I had ought to get another name besides Boggs. That ain't romantic enough for an actor, and I told him about the one I got from that correspondence school that teaches movie acting by mail, Clarence Clavering. Lucy made me quit using it because she said it was a sissy name, and he is going to pick me out a good name, and that will be five dollars extra.

Another man, came to see me that takes pictures of all the big movie actors. He said not to tell the press agent about him, because he is awful mad at him for putting some big actors on the map by making pictures of them, want you to buy a thousand souvenir spoons with your name on them, so that everybody will have your name in their mouths, or some come-on game like that."

"But I'm not as big a fool as I look," I told him, "and I won't bite on any scheme like that."

He said: "Well, be careful. As soon as they find out you are making fifty a week they'll be after you."

But if one of them grafters tries to sell me any fakes I'll tell them where they get off at.

We made some scenes in one of them pictures with me in it as the star yesterday, and as soon as I got through this letter to you I'm going to write to Mabel and tell her how I was I got her picture back from that man that must have stole it from her, because I know Mabel wouldn't give her picture to nobody as long as she's going with me, and writing me letters the way she does.

It was sure funny the way I come to get that picture, Dave. J. J. says if I keep on they will have to change the name of this movie company to the Accidental Moving Picture Company instead of the Occidental, because I am all the time having so many accidents. I said I thought that's what the word meant all the time, but it don't mean that. Bennie Steinbush says the world is divided into two halves, and one is called the Oriental like Egypt, where the Arabs and them Oriental dancers we used to see at the street fair at Terre Haute come from. The part that is called the Occidental is Indiana and California and Omaha, and this country where we live.

This here play is wild Western stuff, and I am the Lone Bandit of Dead Tree Gulch, and I hold up a stage coach. There is a man out here who has got some sure enough stage coaches that used to be used before there was any railroads, and they are all shot full of holes where the robbers have held them up so many times, and they rent these coaches out to movie companies who want to make hold-up stuff.

J. J. rented one of them, and we all went out to the location to make the pictures. When we got out on the road a piece J. J. says:

"Here is a good place for the hold-up," and he told me and Joe Dixon to get off with one of the cameras and we'd rehearse the action.

You put on your mask," he says, "and when we come around the bend with the stage you jump out and pull your gun and holler 'hands up!' Lucy shoots you from the stage coach, and when girls will get stuck on me from seeing me act in the pictures, and want my photo, we will tell them to send 25 cents to pay for stamps, and it will cost only 2 cents, and I'll make a lot of money."

So I am going to give him fifty dollars as soon as I get my first two pay days, then I'll have two of them working for me and neither one will know it, and they will both work their heads off to see who can make me a big actor first. Pretty slick, eh, Dave?

J. J. Murphy says: "Tom, have any of them grafters got after you yet?"

I said: "What kind of grafters?" And he said: "Fakers that will try to sell you a scheme to make you famous. They'll and we take you on board and she discovers that you are her childhood sweetheart, and she makes us all promise not to tell if you'll agree to reform and not to be a hold-up man any longer," and stuff like that.

Well, Joe Dixon and me got off, and pretty soon here comes the stage coach licketty split, and I jumped out in the road and said 'hands up!'

I thought there was something wrong right away, because that driver didn't look like Bennie Steinbush dressed up like a stage coach driver, and he jerked them horses back to quick they almost set down in the road, and all of the people come piling out of the coach, and a man with specks on cussed me awful, but they all held their hands up, and I didn't know what to do. Then they saw Joe Dixon with the camera, and knowed it was movie stuff, and they all laughed, and one man said: "You had me going, young man, you sure look the part; you would have made a good haul off of me if you had been a regular bandit," and he took out a pocketbook and it was full of money.

A picture dropped out of it and I saw it was Mabel's picture, and didn't say nothing, but I picked it up when he wasn't looking. I bet he's been back there at home, Dave, and broke into Redden's photograph gallery and stole that picture of Mabel they had stuck up on the wall, because Mabel is such a pretty girl I guess anybody would want to have her picture.

While we were talking, J. J. and the other actors come along in the regular stage coach, and J. J. knowed the man with specks on and he and them other folks had just hired the

The man with specks on was Mr. Patterson, a rich man who owns lots of stock in two or three movie companies, but he don't own none in ours, but J. J. says my mistake gave him a chance to get acquainted with Mr. Patterson and maybe they can get him to buy a lot of stock in our company and then we can build up a great big studio like some of the companies that have about a hundred actors working for

FLORENCE LAWRENCE

MISS FLORENCE LAWRENCE, the first motion picture actress to become a star, has gone back to the Universal Company, with whom she started out as leading woman player when that company was organized. Miss Lawrence first became famous when she was with the Biograph Company, when the players' names were not given in the cast of characters.

But when her name did become known she was the most talked of screen actress of the day.

At one time a story got out that she had been killed in an automobile accident, and so many telegrams and inquiries poured into the studio for verification of the story that the film company sent her out on a tour of the principal cities of the United States, and she appeared in a St. Louis Theater and definitely proved to a large number of eye-witnesses that the story of her death was false.

The reason for Miss Lawrence's retirement from the screen for a time was that she had been injured while working in a photoplay. A particular scene, one of a burning building, where she had to save Matt Moore's life by dragging him down a flight of stairs, was the cause of all the trouble. She had to drag him down three times before the scene could be photographed correctly, and after the play was finished it was discovered that she had injured her back.

For many months she lay on her back, trying to regain her strength. By living a wholesome, carefree life on her farm not far from New York City, she has become perfectly well, although she has been warned that she must be careful. Then Miss Lawrence has been very busy at being married.

"Oh, yes," she says, "I'm married still, but I'm not working at it any longer. Staying home all day with 'household cares' to occupy my time, and being ready in the evening with a cheery smile to slay home some more, does not appeal to me as an ideal existence. I'm going back where I can do some real work, not mere puttering, that third-rate intelligence can be trained to do."

them all the time, and pay more wages than they do now, so maybe I'll get more than fifty dollars a week right away.

Lucy says I must not get my head all swelled up over my big wages, and I told her I would never do that, and think I was better than any boy else, and I asked her how much they was paying her, and she said:

"Oh, I am running Mary Pickford an awful close race in work, but my salary isn't quite as high yet, they only give me thirty-five a week, but that's better than fifty on the road or with the tent, for half the time we didn't get it, and it takes an awful lot to live on the vodvil stage or with a circus."

When we got back from the stage coach scenes the other company that Strongheart is star of, was not there, but Miss Madeline Miles was, and she wanted to tell me something. They had been telling it around that she and Strongheart was married, and I thought she was going to jump onto me for telling, when I didn't do it, and I said:

"If you think I told about you being married, you are mistaken," and she said: "No, that's not it. I told that myself. I just want to show you something."

She took me to her dressing room and opened the door, and I peeped in, and there was the prettiest little boy you ever saw, Dave. He had just come from San Francisco on the train, and was tired, and she had put him to sleep on a trunk.

"Don't you tell, Tom," she told me. "I'm going to surprise Frederick with him."

After a while when they all came back, she went into the dressing room and come walking out with that little boy, and he saw Strongheart, and run up to him, and tried to climb up his leg, and Strongheart seemed kinda dazed until after you are sure it will not be used by The Diamond from the Sky people.

MRS. L. J. T. M.—The term costume play, as applied to moving pictures, is very elastic. It usually means, however, any play where the characters require elaborate dress, such as a play of the colonial period, or one depicting scenes in foreign courts. The winner of The Diamond from the Sky contest will be given wide publicity in the press. You will have no trouble in learning the lucky person's name when the contest is decided. There is very little market just now for one and two reel plays. The makers all declare that they are coming back, however. The rejections you quote sound very familiar. We have read hundreds of them, and they may mean everything or nothing. Studios have girls who attend to returning rejected plays to writers. The girl simply incloses a copy of whatever form of rejection slip the company uses. A studio may return a play that they would not buy under any consideration with a form slip expressing deep regret, and, on the other hand, they may think your work promising, but cannot take the time to give any other than a stereotyped reason. Studios often accept plays that they have rejected months before. The studios consider that they are dealing with professional writers, and no real writer pays much attention to a rejection. He simply looks over the play to see if it needs rewriting or copying, starts it off again, then writes another play or so while he is waiting for a check or another rejection. Certainly do not quit because of a few rejection slips.

ANSWERS REGARDING PHOTOPLAY WRITING

N. A. B.—It is impossible to give an idea as to the value of your plays. The studios are the only places that set values, and the best thing to do is to keep on sending them out. If they do not sell at the first two or three places, read them over; you may see what is wrong and be able to correct it. If a play does not sell, try to rewrite it. Many fine subjects have been made out of weak ones by giving them different treatment. You will probably not hear from your Diamond from the Sky sequel until the winner has been decided upon. As we understand it, you are not at liberty to submit the idea contained in your sequel

SULTANA

the Meanest Animal in Captivity

IT WAS under the protection of her mother that Sultana, a recent gift to the zoo, had her first glimpse of the great outside world, and no debutante ever received more painstaking attention at the hands of her mother, or more careful and wise advice, than did Sultana.

She was hardly 6 months old, but she was much larger than her sister, and, while not quite as large as her brother, she was stronger on her legs than he was. Also it had seemed to her watchful mother that Sultana displayed more aggressiveness than did her brother and sister, and aggressiveness was one of the traits she wished to cultivate in her children.

Her first care was that they should be able to go out into the world and make their own way, and earn their own living by their strength and ferocity. She was not concerned with their mating, and she gave that no thought at all. That would come about in time. It was for her to teach them to battle with the world. When they had learned their lesson they would leave her to shift for themselves, and in due time would find their proper mates.

In the first few months of their lives, Sultana was one of triplets—they had kept close in the shelter of their home. Far back in the jungle it was, a sort of cave in the side of a huge ravine, a ravine made by the wash of the torrents which swept down from the near-by hills in the rainy season. You would never find it unless you accidentally fell into it. You could pass within an inch of its mouth and could not tell the small opening from the dense mass of jungle which surrounded it.

It was carefully concealed, not so much from the gaze of man, for man never ventured near that ravine, but from the gaze of other wild animals. When they were a month or so old their mother used to take them out to play in the sunshine, which for an hour or so each day beat down into the ravine.

Then later she took them with her one day to a sort of clearing in the jungle a half mile or so away. Very carefully did the mother guide them along, cuffing each one which tried to stray from her side, and noiselessly and carefully forcing her way through the thick vegetation, with her body bent close to the ground, so that the leaves above hardly stirred at her passage. Every movement breathed caution, and the little ones were impressed with it.

Then they reached the clearing. Gently the mother flattened herself on the ground and peered out. It was but a small space, a few hundred yards each way, bare of trees, where the undergrowth was not so thick, and where the sunlight shone brightly. Sultana heard a queer chattering, and, curiously, she stuck out her head from the protecting shelter. Instantly there was a yell, followed by a chorus of quick cries, and a score of monkeys made a dash for the near-by trees.

The mother tiger made one quick bound after the fugitives, but they had taken the alarm in time and had scurried into the trees about the clearing, where they screamed defiance at the huge animal below and at her cubs, who had come dashing behind her. The tigress stood beneath a tree, on the lower branches of which, just out of her reach, a half dozen indignant

Sultana on the tip of her tender nose, and she let loose a scream of rage which startled the monkeys into sudden silence and caused her mother to spring a dozen feet up the trunk of the tree.

But tigers seldom climb trees, and, besides, this was a small one, which offered little hold for the huge claws, and in a moment she dropped back on the ground and began licking the wounded muzzle of her offspring, purring caressingly the while. Other monkeys swung from tree to tree and assembled above them while Sultana's brother and sister gazed at them in wonder.

The tree had a number of dead limbs and branches on it and suddenly the monkeys began throwing these down upon their enemies. Again Sultana was hit, and this time above her right eye, and the pain was nearly as bad as that caused by the first blow. Several of the missiles also struck the mother and the other cubs, and they beat a hasty retreat, pursued by their tormentors' shrill cries of derision.

Sultana was now more than a year old and was nearly grown, but still she and her brother and sister remained with their mother.

One night the mother took Sultana on the longest trip she had ever made. It was into a wonderful country, and finally, from a low hill, they saw the lights of a village. Sultana paused in terror. The lights were far away and she had never seen anything like them before. Her hair bristled and she stood tense and rigid, but her mother rubbed up against her reassuringly. Then suddenly the mother sniffed toward the lights. A light wind was blowing from that direction and in a moment Sultana, for the first time, sensed the odor of man, which in after years she was to be nauseated with. But she knew, even then, from her mother's attitude, that it was something to be dreaded, and she sniffed and caught the odor which she was never to forget.

She and Sultana slept through the day, while the other cubs hunted in the jungle near by, one of them catching an unwary bird, and the other a hare. That night the mother tiger and Sultana again went forth to where they had left the half-eaten carcasses of the stolen cattle.

As they drew near the place the mother sniffed suspiciously several times, and once she stopped for nearly fifteen minutes. Sultana also lifted her head and sniffed, but smelt nothing unusual save the dead carcasses of the cattle, and so, after a while, they moved forward. When they got near the place they stopped again, and then the mother glided forward, and pounced on one of the carcasses.

Sultana, a dozen feet behind her, paused suddenly and threw up her head. She had caught the odor of man, which she knew instinctively did not belong there, and in the same moment there was a frightful roar and crash, a dozen streaks of fire burst forth from a platform in a tree almost over where the carcasses lay, and Sultana dashed back into the jungle, never stopping until she reached the family den. But her mother never returned.

And then before a week had passed Sultana's jungle life ended.

She had been very cautious about going out since that last event, and it was not until hunger drove her that she went to the clearing one hot day and caught a monkey. But she was not too frightened to eat the monkey in plain view of the other monkeys, who knew her well and hated her, and who sat, shrieking and chattering at her as she calmly swallowed their relative.

She knew there would be no chance of getting another monkey for a few days, for, after each killing, the monkeys would go away for a day or so, and on their return would be extraordinarily cautious for awhile.

When it became dark she ventured forth again, sniffing suspiciously now and then, but not catching that human odor again. But there was another odor, a pleasant one, that of a goat, and on several occasions Sultana had enjoyed goat's flesh. She made her way toward this. The odor led her to the jungle clearing.

Now Sultana had never known of a goat to visit this clearing, but she did not stop to wonder about this fact. She only knew that she was hungry, that there was safety near home, and that there was a goat within striking distance. A bright moon illuminated the clearing, and as Sultana glided through the underbrush she heard now and then the plaintive bleating of the goat. It was in a pit, a freshly dug excavation, which Sultana had never seen before but she did not stop to speculate on this.

Also, the pit was partially covered with limbs of trees, laid over a network of loose poles. She tore at these until she had made a sort of opening and then peered down into the depths. The pit was about 15 feet deep and she saw the terrified goat huddled in one corner of it.

Sultana leaped lightly down through the opening she had torn in the pit's covering. Quickly pouncing on the goat, she was soon enjoying a full meal. When she was gorgeously full she looked about her. She stood on her hind legs and dug her claws into the smooth, perpendicular walls of earth, in an effort to climb up. Once she got up a few feet and then fell back again. Then she bounded as high as possible with outstretched paws, but could not reach the pit covering.

Later she was housed in a nice comfortable cage in a zoological garden and here she remained for several months. Now and then she would be seized with fits of dull slumbering rage, and very quickly she was marked by the keepers as dangerous. More than once, while she was lying up against the bars of her cage, she would strike quickly and savagely at some keeper who passed near her cage, and soon they all kept a wary watch upon her.

And now Sultana, after a wearisome and roaming life, is settled in a huge cage with monkeys yelled at her, and the hair on the back of her neck rose as she snarled at them. Then she suddenly turned, and with one cuff of her huge paw knocked Sultana a half dozen yards away.

The cub, startled, regained her feet, just as her brother bounded to her side and gave her a few more cuffs, and gradually Sultana had it beaten into her pretty head that she had committed a faux pas, which had deprived them all of a monkey dinner and spoiled their first hunt.

It was just the same as if some mother had introduced her daughter to society, and at the debut party the young miss had insisted on flirting outrageously with some good-looking young fellow with no prospects. In such a case, probably, the society mother would not be the debutante's ears, but she would feel all the same, and would confine her to a few well-chosen remarks. The only difference between the parlor and the jungle is that the feelings always are unrestrained in the latter, whereas in the parlor they are only sometimes unrestrained.

But, at any rate, Sultana learned her lesson, and she always remembered it. And while she was learning her lesson an incident occurred which made a lasting impression on her. The monkeys screamed and yelled with laughter while Sultana was being cuffed, and then, as the tiger mother left the clearing with her youngsters, one old monkey tore off a piece of dead branch and hurled it down on them. It struck denly and threw up her head. She had caught the odor of man, which she knew instinctively did not belong there, and in the same moment there was a frightful roar and crash, a dozen streaks of fire burst forth from a platform in a tree almost over where the carcasses lay, and Sultana dashed back into the jungle, never stopping until she reached the family den. And now Sultana, after a wearisome and roaming life, is settled in a huge cage with white tiled walls in the St. Louis zoo out in Forest Park.

The United Railways bought her, together with some other animals, from a circus and presented them to the city.

She still hopes to seize a keeper's arm some day, but most of all she loves to lie at the front of her cage and peer through the bars at the chattering monkeys at the other end of the animal house.

And then, she has day dreams of a monkey, escaping from his cage and coming over for a little sociable visit to her.

The wind blowd so in our midst last Monday that the wash of several which was hangin on the line was blowd all over town. Gid Skillings red undershirt was blowd clean on top of the church spire where it stuck and is yet. Gid says it can stay there for all of him being as it would be with a person's life to clime after it and he'll try and wether thru the rest of the winter with the undershirt he has on.

Several in our midst who was on the sicklist last wk. is up and about, but others have tuk their places.

Ab Woodruff kild a pig last wk. and has been sellin it out to the nabers who desires pork. If you desire pork see Ab.

LANDS END
Ab Gookins started in to grease his harness recent, but run outen harness grease and had to use a lb. or 2 of his wife's butter to finish up with. Ab says butter aint to bad to grease harness with.

A flock of wild geese passed over our midst recent.

There is a wild plenty of apples in our midst this spring, but that's nothing like every spring.

Rufe Atkins says he'll be glad when warmer wether comes so as he can risk getting a hair cut without ketching a cold being as he aint had a haircut sinist early last fall and it's most long enuff to braid.

Wait Perkins & wife had their old dominecker rooster for dinner last Sunday. This is turrible welcome news to the nabers being as that rooster allus crowd & waked everybuddy up sharp at 2 a. m. every morning.

Mrs. Hen Jordan is very bizzy at present with her housework, sewing, 75 hens to look after, milking 11 cows and a three muthin' old baby.

These is all the news we can think of at the present time and if they appear praps we will send some more at some period in the fuchure. LUCIFER.

Uncald for Letters
Eph Higgins our accommodatng P. M. wishes us to state in the Bugle that there is several uncald for letters at the Bingville P. O. address to the follering persons, viz to wit, namely, as follers:

Gus Witherspoon, Enos Dodds, Miss Mary Whiteley & Sam Snyder.

Being as these is the names of persons who formerly lived in Bingville and then moved away to other parts and being also as their present whereabouts is unknown to Eph or ennybuddy else in this vicinity and sinist Eph got sick & tired havin the letters layin around he tuk the liberty tother day of openin them in his official capacity as P. M. of Bingville & publick servant of the U. S. Government so Eph makes the contents of the letters publick in the Bugle thinkin praps them they was addressed to might see it as follers.

Gus Witherspoon—Letter from your brother Henry, who is out in Iowa. Henry is well & hopes you are the same. Henry would like to see you well enuff but he dont want to see you sufficient to send you the money to buy a R. R. ticket.

Enos Dodds—Your letter was from a firm over to the co. seat who wishes you would call and settle for that last gal. of licker you purchased promising to pay the wk. follering and that was 2 yrs. ago.

Miss Mary Whiteley—The letter to you was from some soft galoot over Hardscrabble way by the name of Eph Pepper who writ two pages tellin how much he loves you and will die if you dont marry him. If you git this word in time to save his life guvurn yourself accordin.

Sam Snyder—The letter to you was from your wife who says you had no rite to run off and leave her to support four children and unless you send her some money by return mail she'll send the sheriff after you. A word to the wise is sufficient, Sam.

Personal Breefs
Pay up your subscriptions To the Bugle & don't be a titewad. If you cant pay All you owe us, pay what you can. A half a loaf, or even a bite is better none.

Sam Skinner has a beeling in his ear which akes him so that he cant scarcely sleep at nites. Sam says he wouldn't wish evil on ennybuddy, but if ennybuddy else than him had that beeling in their ear it would be a good eal more satisfactory to him.

Zeke Snodgrass is the only person we know in our midst who has enny apples left. Zeke has a half barrel of Baldwins and is so sparin of em then he never gives enny to his nabers and when he etes enny himself he etes the cores. While trying to swallow a apple core tother day it stuck in Zeke's throat and he would of choked to death if his wife hadn't been present and poundd him on the back. It seemd to be that this is carryin economy too far.

Old Jim Wheeler who lives a bachelor existents doing all his own cooking washin & mendin made a trip to the co. seat last wk. & bring home a box of what is cald "Bachelor buttons." They go on a person's pants or coat a good eal like a rivet & no needle & thread is necessary. Jim says they're turrible handy to have on hand in case of a emergency specially for a person who dont harbor a wife like he does.

Mrs. Lem Brown wife of our expert carpenter says her husband is so bizzy doing odd carpenter jobs for everybuddy else that he aint got time to do a few things in that line around the house. Well, Mrs. Lem, you know how it is—they say it's the shoemakers wife who allus has to go barefooted.

Miss Phoebe Hilderbrand, our fashionable dressmaker is giving fits to several wimmen hereabouts who is having new spring duds made. Among them is Miss Amelia Tucker who Phoebe is making a new dress for, but Amelia has asked Phoebe not to make the particler dress publick. We persoon Amelia desires to a pear in church one of these days in her new dress as a surprise to everybuddy.

Subscribe for the Bugle before the 1st of the month and then it will be offer your mind and you wont haft to do it at that time. P. S.—In case you subscribe kindly pay cash in advance—no others need to apply being as we have enuff of the other kind as it is.

Ame Hilleyer one of our most respected citizens while setting by the fire smokin in his slippers tother evg. accidentally stept on the cat's tail and the cat clawd his foot through his sock. Then Lem jump up and kicked viciously at the cat, but mist the cat and his slipper flew off his foot and struck Mrs. Hilleyer who was nitting right in the face knocking out one of her front teeth and cracking her upper plate cald across. Now she will haft to buy a new upper set. That was a purty expensive kick for Ame.

Hen Weathersby, prop. of our general store, has had about 12 doz. eggs on hand in the store ever sinist early last fall which there aint been no call for and being as they have been setting not far from the stove we persoon most of em is purty ripe by this time. Hen paid on an average of 20 cts. per doz. for same, and when Snide Petersby askt Hen how much he would take a doz. Hen said he would take 3 cts. per doz. and welcome. Well Snide bought all of Hen's eggs at this price and peddeld em to the co. seat where he sold em for 30 cts. per doz. as strictly fresh eggs. Snide returned home full of joy and licker and has been braggin around town ever sinist about how smart a business man he is. This may be but we calklate Snide will steer clear of the co. seat and also of them he sold the eggs to hereafter.

Hank Dewberry's hound dog has run off somewheres agin and Hank has been askin every person he met if they had seen ennythink of his hound but they haddent. This aint the 1st time Hank's hound has run off and we wouldn't klank the hound if he never did come back. If Hank had of give the dog enuff to ete to keep his sole & body together it wouldn't of run off in the 1st place.

Ab Witherspoon down to the Snake Creek sawmill last wk. lifted a bigger log than ennybuddy else present could lift and got a crick in his back & has been laid up ever sinist. What does it amount to even if you kin lift a bigger log than tother feller if you haft to git a crick in your back doing so? Personally we would rather not be so strong and have no cricks.

Eph Higgins desires us to a nounce to the general public that it's no use for folks to pester him for molasses because they cant git none until later in the season. It aint as if Hen diddnt have no molasses on hand becuz he had nearly haft a barrel, but it wont run at the spigot this cold wether except jest a little trickle and it takes nearly 2 hrs. for a gal of molasses to dribble outen the barrel. Last time Hen tried to draw a gal. for Mrs. Cy Hookins he drew up stairs leavin the jug to fill up and never thort about it until the day follering and by that time there was molasses all over the cellar floor. Hen figgers he wasted 4 or 5 gals. and it made him so mad that sinist then he's refused to draw molasses for ennybuddy. Hen says his customers will haft to wait until warm wether comes after they can git enny molasses from him.

These is about all of the "Personal Breefs" we can think of at this sitting.

Turrible Breezy in Bingville
Old Dad Henderson says he aint never past thru a March when the wind blowd so much and so wicked as it has blowd in Bingville sinist the 1st of the month and we calklate that Dad voices the general sentiment of the entire community on this question.

The wind blows in so meny different direckshions during the day that the big gold fish wether vane on top of Hen Weathersby's store keeps buzzin around like a squirrel cage. When a person stept out into the st. the wind is liable to neerly take their breath away and blow their hat offen their head and carry it over into the next township like a not.

Carryin a umbreller is outen the question altogether, being as there is several has been turnd insideout in our midst in the past two wks. Wes Woodruff says he's been keepin his hens pend up being as he's afraid if he lets em out that the wind will blow the feathers all offen the poor critters. Everybuddy will be awful glad when March is past & went and April comes onct more.

Ad Claims the Game
Ad Stringer and Bige Barker had a awful cold game of checkers down to Hen Weathersby's store tother evg. They set down to play at 6 p. m. and it was nip & tuck betwixt em until long about 8 p. m. when Ad got two of Bige's checkers at onct and got into the King row besides.

After this Bige seemd to kind of lose curridge and, after he had lost a couple more men, he kind of went to shift in his chair and blamed if the checker board diddnt tip and spill all the checkers onto the floor which broke up the game being as they couldn't remember where they was on the board after they was spilld.

Ad got mad and accused Bige of spillin the checkers on purpose but Bige denide it and said if they haddent of been spilt he would of beat Ad all to thunder.

Boys & Girls Take Notis!
It has ocured to me that it would be a good thing for everybuddy concerned if I was to advertise that I would take the young folks of Bingville & vicinity including boys and girls out on a straw ride of a evening now and then in my big houndd with two horses.

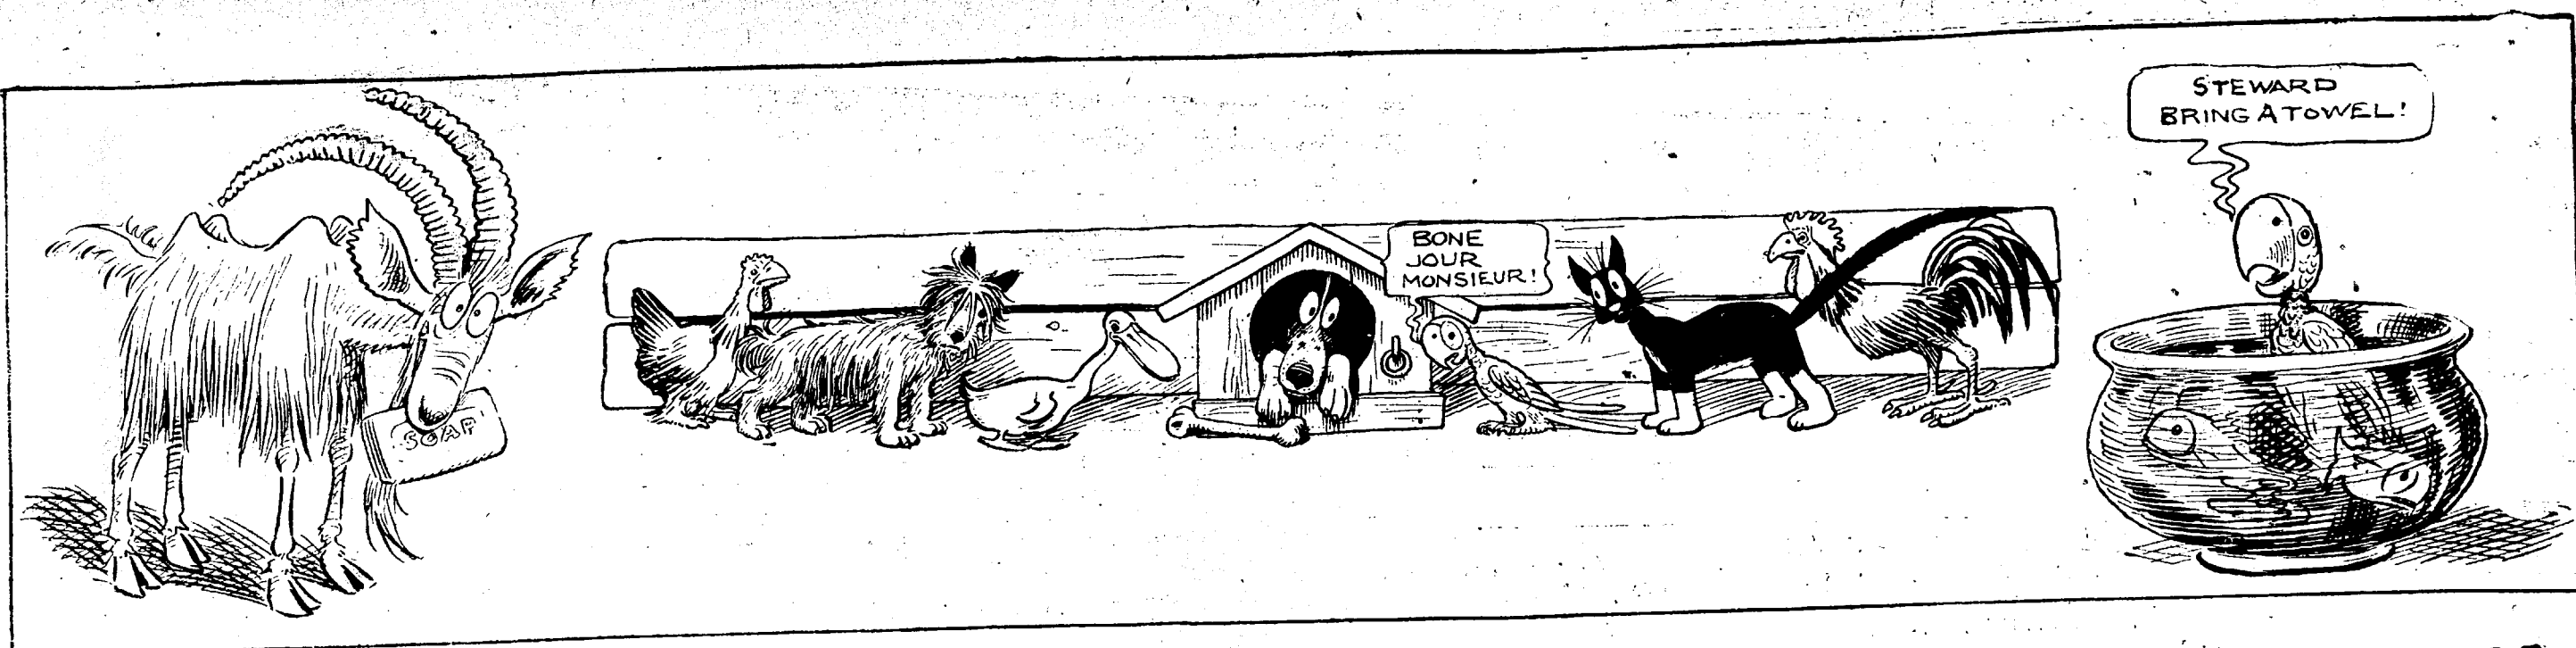

For this reason you are hereby invited to go. All you yung folks has to do is to get together and decide what evg you desire to take a merry straw ride, then come to me and inform me of the fact how meny of you there will be in the party so I can guvurn myself accordin.

I will furnish the sled and the horses and the straw but you must furnish your own robes and blankets. What is nicer than to go on a straw ride with your heat girl when the sledd is as good as it is now. The sled may be cold but you ort to manage to keep warm if you boys and girls set up enny enuff to one another.

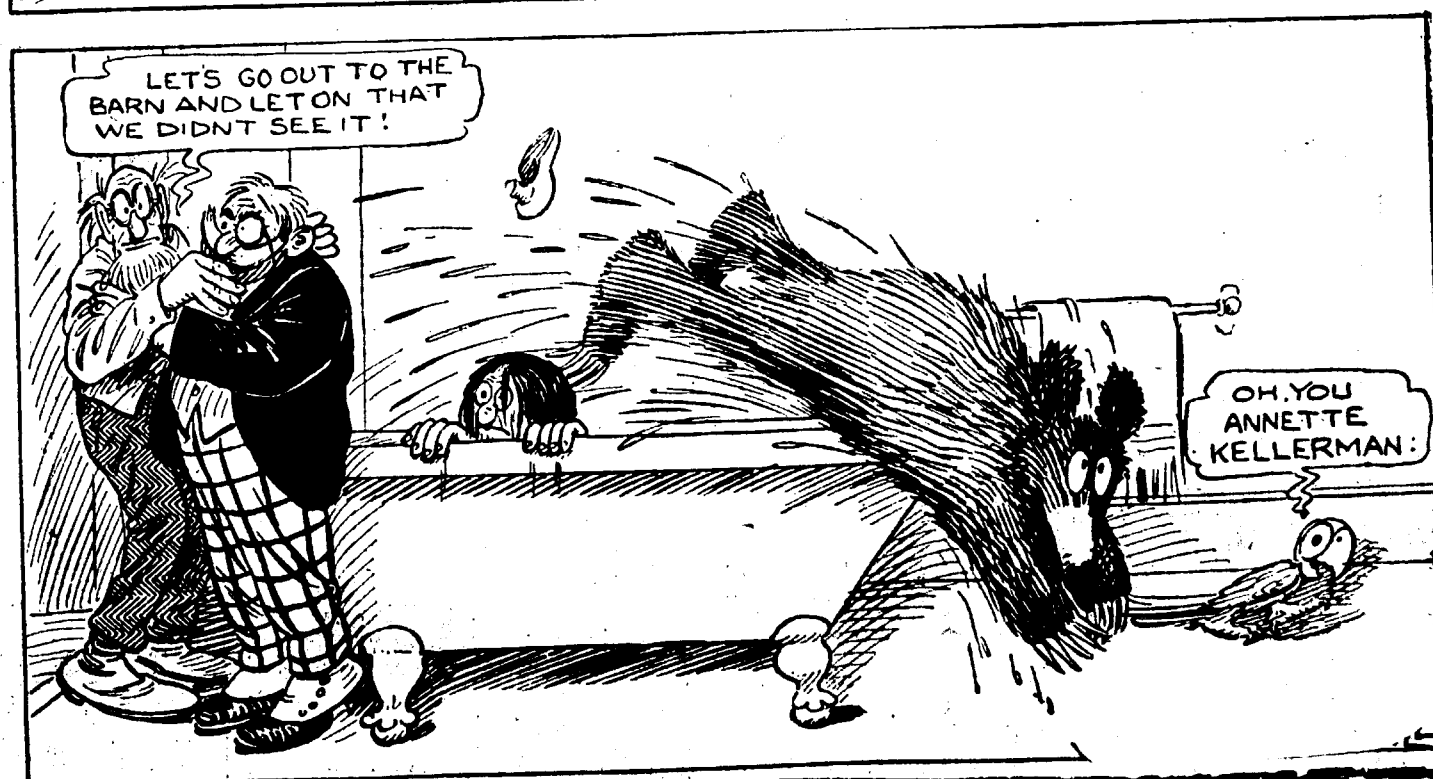

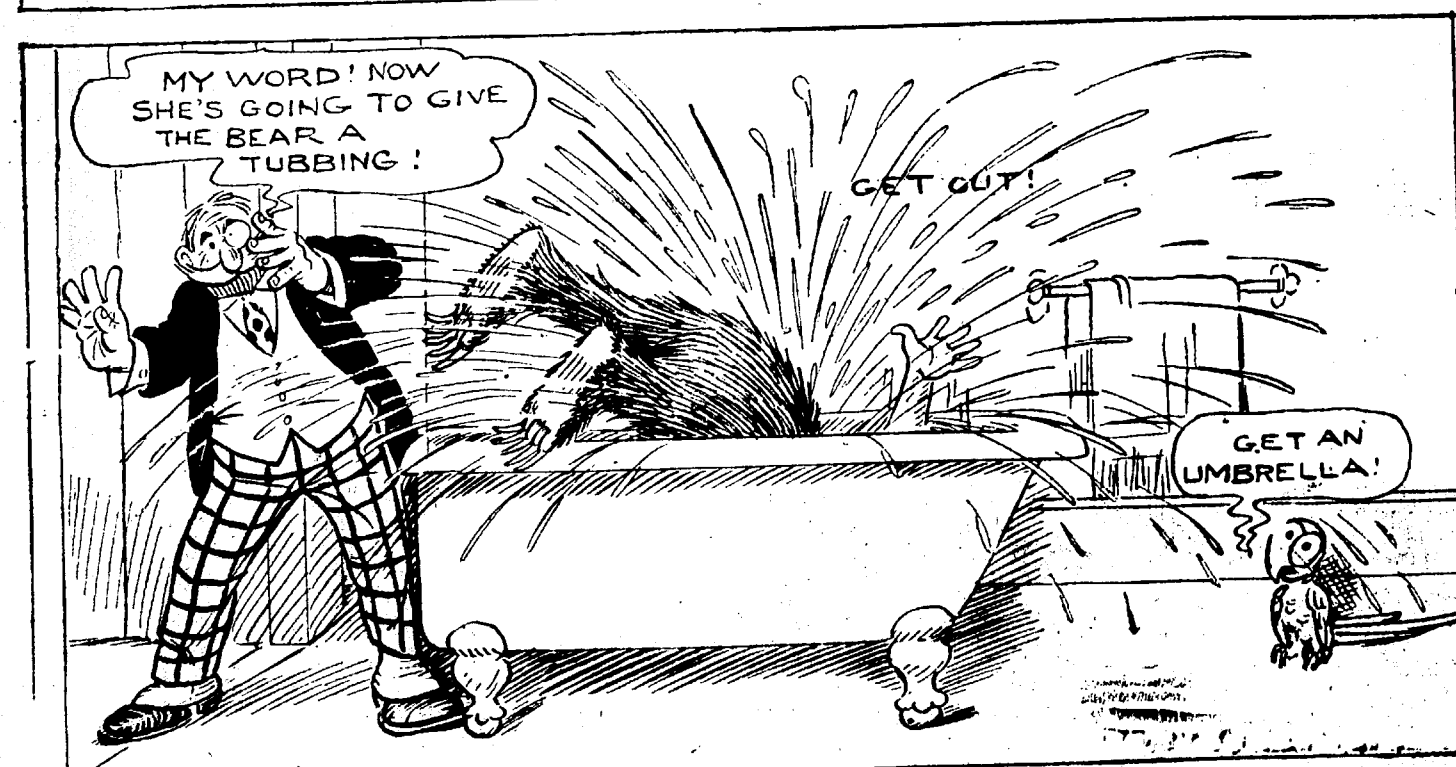

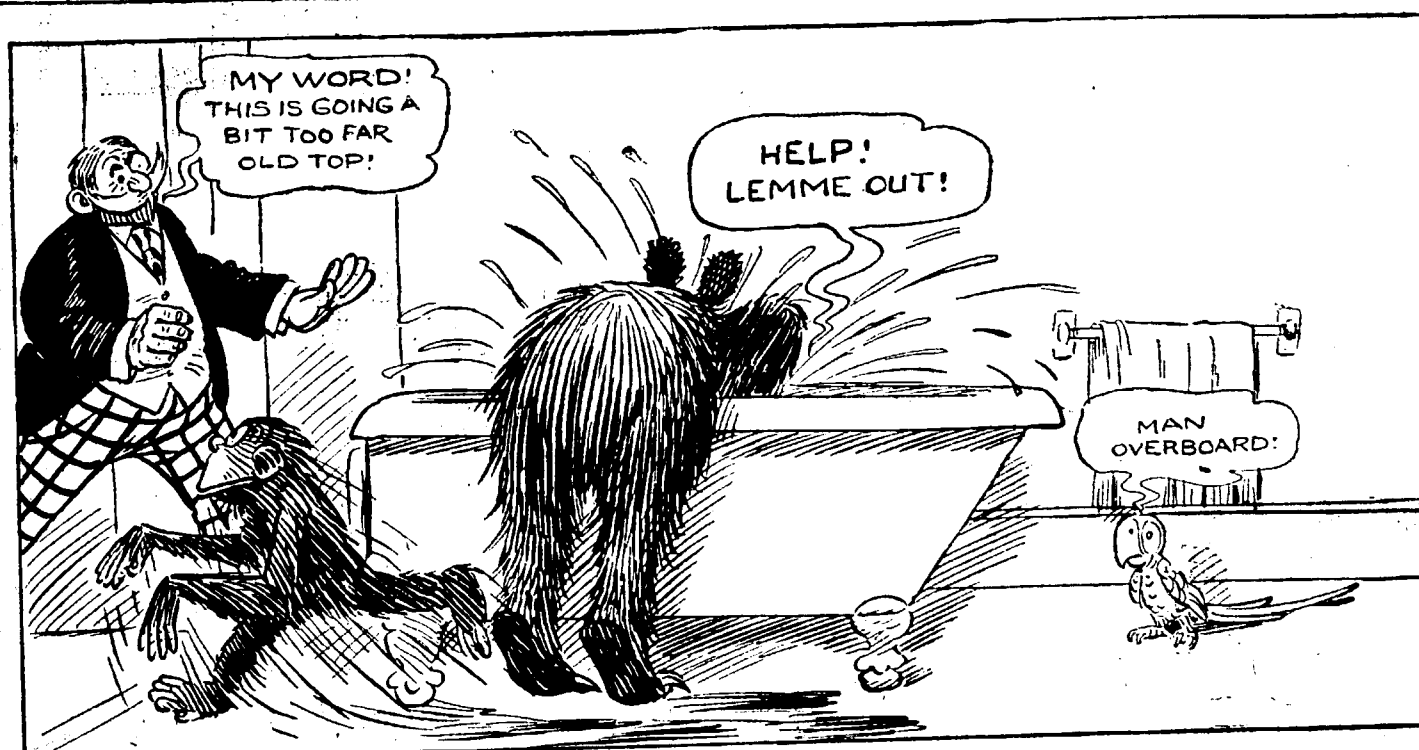

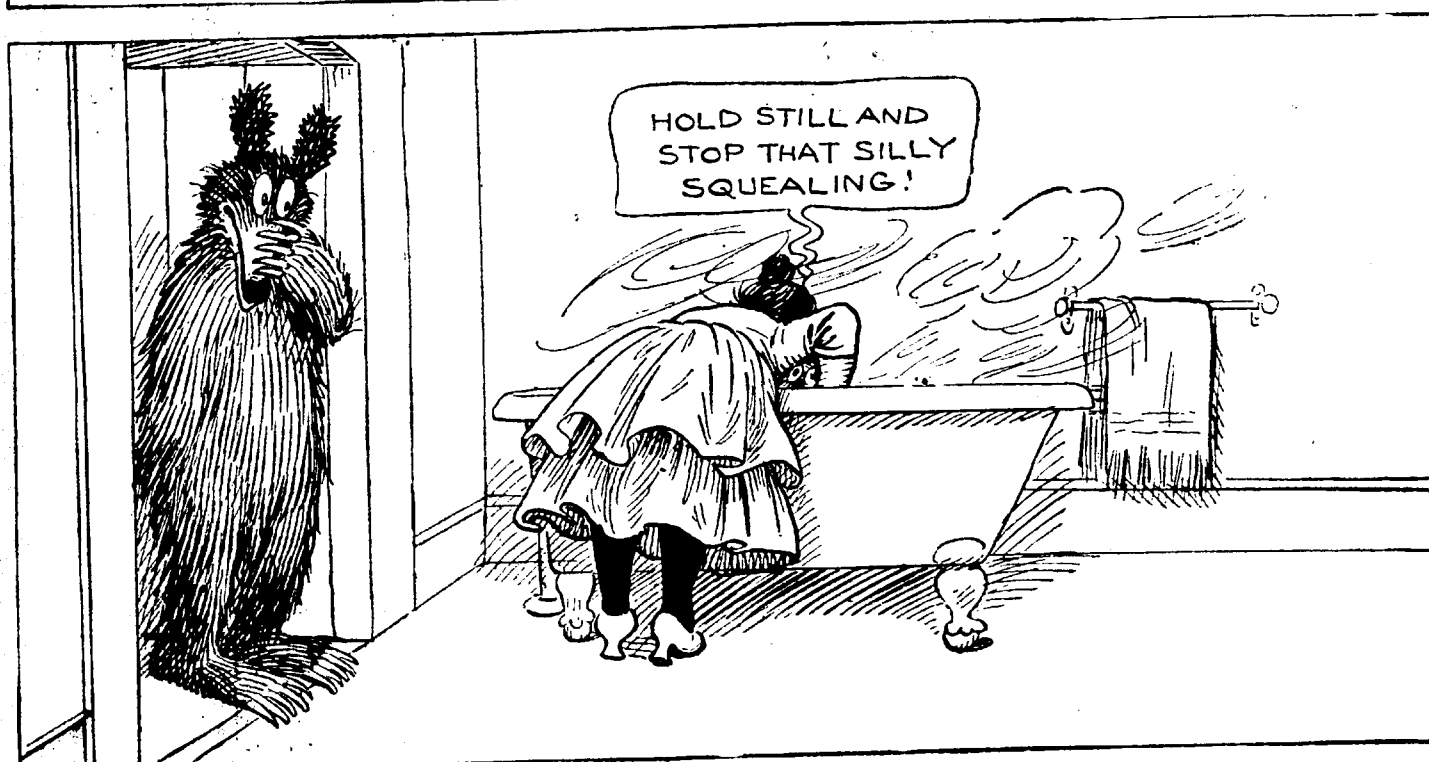

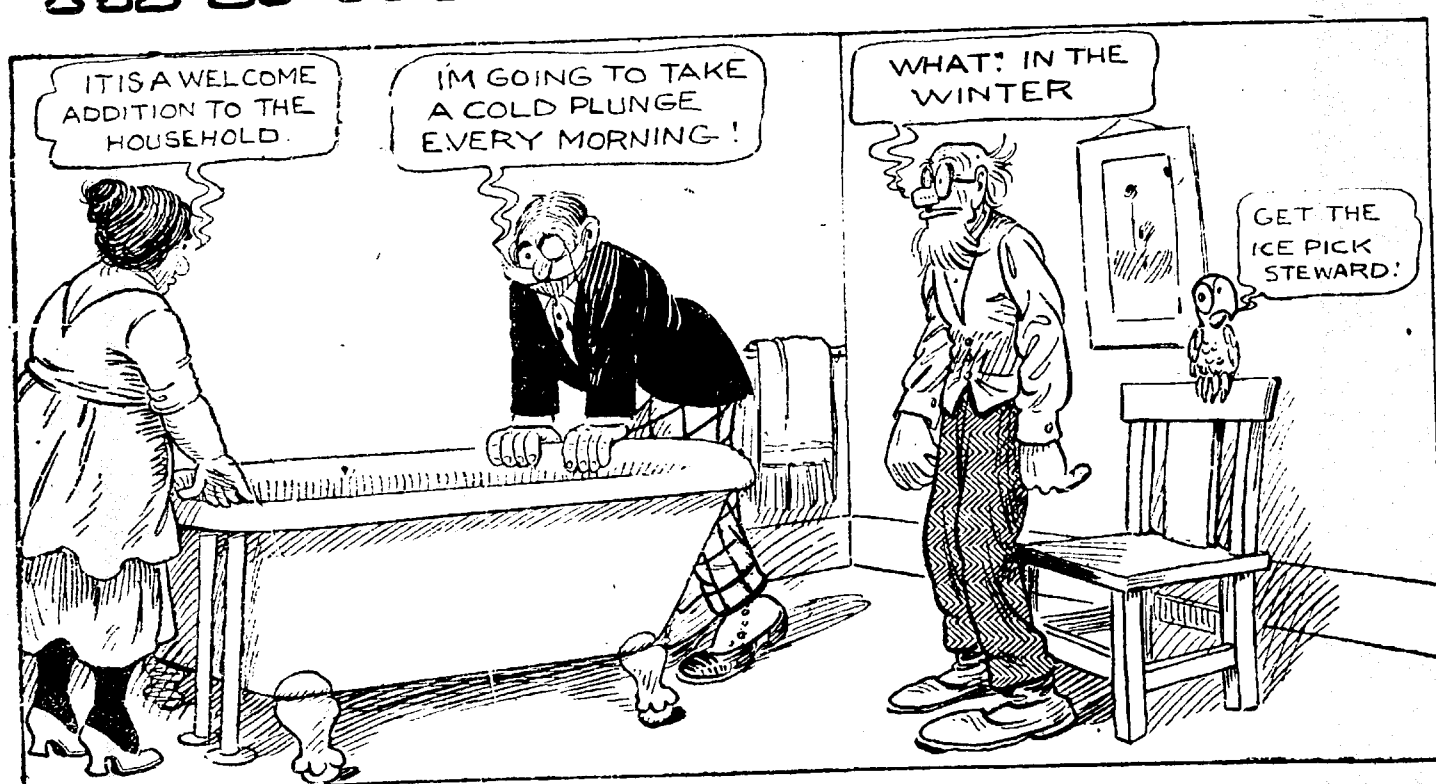

Sombody start gettin up a straw ride this evg and let me know as soon as possible. What heatate? If you put this off until late in the spring it will be too late. Do it now. All I expect to git out of this is 50 cts per couple paid strictly in advance. The way for you to make shure of the straw ride is for you to make shure I get my money first.

Yours the straw rider,

WASHINGTON CLEARS VILLA CHASE ISSUE

White House Statement Follows Reported
Objection by Gen. Gavira to Gen.
Pershing's Operations.

VILLA IN FLIGHT AS AMERICANS PUSH FORWARD

Washington, April 18.—American troops pursuing Villa and his bandits, have no intention and no orders to occupy any cities or towns during their march into Mexico.

This was stated at the white house and war department today after the receipt of a report that General Gavira, the Carranza commander at Juarez, had given notice that General Pershing's troops would not be allowed to occupy Casas Grandes, or other towns.

It was declared by administration officials that the pursuit of Villa, being entirely a punitive expedition, had none of the characteristics of an invasion and that there was no object in occupying towns or cities, because the American troops will keep constantly on the move.

Officials said today that the situation at Tampico, where uneasiness is said to exist among Americans and other foreigners had no bearing on the pursuit of Villa.

Reports received at both the war and state departments today continued to be optimistic.

Believe Villa in Flight.
Villa and his bandits were fleeing before the American expeditionary forces in northern Mexico today in the opinion of army officers here.

This belief was based upon dispatches from the American columns reporting that none of the outlaws had been seen up to late yesterday and strengthened the opinion that the Villa forces would not attempt to make a stand. Army men declared that the campaign would quickly develop into guerrilla warfare if there were any opposition.

Secretary Baker's Statement.
Secretary Baker early today issued the following statement:

"The reports received directly through military channels and those sent to this department from other departments of the government indicate quiet along the entire border except some excitement at Tampico, which is apparently temporary and without cause.

"There are no reports of the operations of the expedition available for publication."

Go to Cleveland.
The secretary said he would leave Washington this afternoon for his home at Cleveland, Ohio, and would not return here until Tuesday morning. In his absence Major Gen. Hugh L. Scott, chief of staff, will be acting secretary of war.

Navy department reports today from Vera Cruz say about 200 Americans from Mexico City and other interior points have arrived there, most of them acting upon advice from friends and relatives in the United States urging them to leave Mexico. Conditions at Vera Cruz, the message said, are quiet and many of the Americans, after investigation of reports, are returning to the interior.

COLUMNS MAY HAVE JOINED.
Pershing and Dodd probably united on way to Casas Grandes.

El Paso, March 18.—American cavalry pursuing Francisco Villa were camped at dawn today at Colonia Dublan. They arrived in the night. Through Colonia Dublan runs the road to the Galeana district, 25 miles southeast where Villa was last definitely reported. The news of the encampment at Colonia Dublan dispelled fears of any dis-

BULLETIN.

El Paso, Texas, March 18.—Gen. Gavira, Carranza commander at Juarez, in a statement given today to the Associated Press declared that the crisis in relations between the United States and Mexico is past and there is no further need to fear trouble.

BULLETIN.

El Paso, Texas, March 18.—Francisco Villa is in the neighborhood of Las Cruces, 110 miles south of Casas Grandes according to information received today by Gen. Gavira, Carranza commander at Juarez.

BULLETIN.

Washington, March 18.—Gen. Funston's sole report to the war department today was "all quiet along the border."

putes with constitutional authorities over what position the American troops should occupy at Casas Grandes.

Scouts dashed into Colonia Dublan last night with the news that the Americans were near. The column which was first into this important American settlement, was said to be the cavalry from Hachita.

Two Columns Near.
Dispatches direct from Mexico, and the official announcement from Maj. Gen. Funston, made it evident today that the two American columns, one from Columbus, N. M., under Gen. Pershing and the other from Hachita, N. M., under Col. Dodd had gotten into close communication with each other and probably had formed an actual junction when a little more than half way on the route to Casas Grandes.

There is at least $100,000 now available in rewards for Pancho Villa's capture. Half of it has been offered by ranchmen in the northern part of Chihuahua and according to a statement passed by the censor at Columbus, N. M., last night, another $50,000 is offered through Col. Herbert J. Slocum, commander of the 13th cavalry, whose command repulsed the raid against Columbus. Col. Slocum's men led the vanguard of the main expedition from Columbus into Mexico.

IN VILLA TERRITORY.

If the speed of thirty miles a day at which the columns have moved is maintained the American soldiers should be in Villa territory before nightfall. Casas Grandes is twenty-five miles from the border of the district of Guerrero; the bandit chieftain's native birth.

There has been no reliable report as to the exact whereabouts of Villa, but it is considered fairly certain that he has taken refuge in the fastness of the Sierra Madre, one of the wildest and most inaccessible regions in all Mexico. The people of Guerrero are said to be fanatical followers of the fugitive and he can rely on them for food, recruits and information as to the movements of pursuers.

When Real Task Begins.

The task of the United States force will have really begun when they reach the foothills of the Sierras. The arrival of the expeditionary troops in the vicinity of Casas Grandes was greeted along the border with a sigh of relief, insofar as the fate of the 500 American Mormons at Colonia Dublan and Colonia Morales is concerned. The soldiers are already south of these settlements and

FILL AT LAWTON PARK BRIDGE FINISHED AFTER MANY SETBACKS.

Street Superintendent Strudel and a big gang completed the fill at the Lawton park bridge, Saturday afternoon, after many interruptions. The road and part of the bridge washed out several months ago, throwing a jitney bus into the water, and when the fill was nearly finished several weeks ago it washed out again.

LOUIS J. GRIBBENS SUMMONED BY DEATH

Former Attache of Water-works Department Has Passed Away.

Louis J. Gribbens, former member of the city water works department and manager of the McKinnis Realty company passed away at 4:20 o'clock Saturday morning at St. Joseph's hospital at the age of 49 years. He had been a patient at the hospital since last Monday when he underwent an operation for appendicitis.

Mr. Gribbens was born and reared in Fort Wayne and was educated in the Catholic parochial schools. He was appointed a meter reader under the mayoralty of Henry C. Berghoff and was retained under the first administration of Mayor William Hoesy. Several years ago he became manager of the realty company in which capacity he continued until his recent sickness.

The deceased was taken ill Sunday and a physician was called. Monday he suffered a relapse and he was hurried to the hospital. He rallied from the operation the following day but then began to decline slowly until death ensued this morning. His many friends will be shocked to hear of his demise.

As a member of the Cathedral congregation he was an active worker in the affairs of the congregation and his many acts of charity and kindness will never be forgotten. He is survived by two sisters—Esther J. Gribbens, of this city and Mrs. Elizabeth McCarthy, and two brothers, Charles O. and John F. Gribbens, both of Fort Wayne.

OLD PURSER WILL RETIRE.

Thomas Kinsey Starts on His 1,000th Trip Across the Atlantic.

New York, March 18.—Thomas Kinsey, purser of the American line steamer St. Paul, sailed for Liverpool today on his 1,000th trip across the Atlantic. When he reaches home Mr. Kinsey will retire. He is the oldest purser in the service and has traveled by sea since he started in 1853, more than four million miles.

SIMPLE RITES FOR SHIVELY

Funeral Services Held at South Bend for Dead Senator.

MANY NOTABLES IN ATTENDANCE

Business is Suspended in Two Cities as Final Tribute is Paid.

South Bend, March 18.—The funeral of the late United States Senator Benjamin F. Shivelly was held at 2 o'clock this afternoon from the family residence in this city, the services, which were private, being of a very simple nature, agreeable to the wishes of the deceased, who requested that no pomp or display be permitted as his body was carried to its last resting place.

Rev. Charles A. Lippincott, D. D., of the First Presbyterian church, officiated and music was furnished by a choir of male voices. Following the brief service the body was escorted to Riverview cemetery by the congressional and state delegations, where it was placed in a receiving vault.

LANDSCAPE ARTIST COMPLETES PLANS

Charles G. Sauer, landscape artist of Purdue university, has written to Clarence Henry, county agent, that he has completed the plans for beautifying of the grounds surrounding the new Lincoln school building in Washington township.

He has asked the county agent to see that the ground about the building is plowed at the earliest possible moment and thoroughly disked and harrowed. He estimates that the planting will cost $119.

Prof. Anderson, principal of the school, reports that there is a total enrollment at the new building of 167 at the present time and that the rooms are now crowded to overflowing.

Committee is Named for Y.M.C.A. Building Effort

An organization committee which will make all arrangements and plans for a Young Men's Christian Association building campaign was named at a meeting of prominent business men held at the Commercial club Saturday afternoon.

The committee is composed of A. H. Perfect, chairman, and William N. Ballou, S. B. Bechtel, Theodore Wentz, Charles H. Worden and B. Paul Mossman.

INVALID HAS CLOSE CALL FROM FLAMES

Cot on Which Frank Allen Was Lying in His Home Catches Fire.

Frank Allen, of 725 Putnam street, who has been an invalid for the past few months, narrowly escaped serious injuries at 11:25 o'clock Saturday morning when the cot on which he was lying caught fire.

He was working in his room reclining on the cot, and was smoking a pipe. It is presumed that he threw a lighted match on the floor, setting fire to some paper which lay at the side of the couch. When he discovered the flames he succeeded in getting off the cot and notified the members of his family. An alarm was sent in and the department arrived in time to avert serious damage to the house. The loss was $50. Mr. Allen suffered a slight burn on his hand.

LAST MINUTE NEWS

NO PROTEST UNLESS IT PROVES UNFAIR TO U. S.

Washington, March 18.—The United States will make no protest against the new British order in council which will prohibit importation of so-called luxuries, unless it develops that in operation the orders will act in a discriminatory manner against the United States.

CENSORSHIP LID IS PUT ON MORE TIGHTLY

Columbus, N. M., March 18.—New orders were issued here today, holding every newspaper correspondent accountable for his dispatches under the national defense act. "The man who gets a scoop is an arch criminal," said Major W. R. Sample, commanding officer of Columbus today, "and I have evidence enough to bring several under the federal law."

OFFICERS ACCUSED BY GREEK CONSUL

State Department Asks California Governor for Investigation.

San Francisco, March 18.—The state department at Washington has telegraphed Gov. Hiram Johnson requesting an investigation of a complaint by the Greek Vassardakis, consul general of Greece at San Francisco, that he had been abused and the sanctity of the consulate violated by deputy sheriffs in their efforts March 15 to execute a judgment for $822 which had been rendered against the consul. The sheriff's office here at the instance of the governor today prepared a report on the occurrence.

When a deputy sheriff and policeman appeared at the consulate to seize enough property to satisfy the judgment, Vassardakis, thinking, he said, that they wished to arrest him, exhibited a stay order which he had obtained from the state supreme court.

The officers tore up the order, Vassardakis alleged, and then knocked him down and trampled on him, after which they took away property which, he said, included consular records.

Vassardakis complained to the Greek minister at Washington.

ICE DEALERS WANT MORE APPRECIATION

Efforts to Elevate Dignity of Their Service to the Public.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 18.—The Indiana ice dealers' association convention here next Wednesday and Thursday wants to quicken public appreciation of the ice-dealers' effort to serve them, according to Herbert B. Deprez, of Shelbyville, president of the organization. Dealers have been condemned because it was felt they were asking too much for the making and delivery of a product that apparently was made out of something of no value," said Mr. Deprez.

"As a matter of fact the ice business is a hazardous business. More ice dealers fail than the average for other businesses. In other words, there are fewer failures in the clothing business than in the ice business. The association, I believe, is that the public looks upon the dealer as one who turns water, something of no cost, into ice and sells it. The cost of preparing the water for ice making, the cost of refrigerating, the fact that the business is good five months of the year and that it must be delivered and collected for, are not often seen in their true light, at costly hazards. Ice costs more today than any other commodity, not excepting coal, because coal is not subjected to shrinkage.

"If we can take some step to make the hazards of the business better appreciated we will do much to raise the business to a better level of appreciation."

THREE MACHINES FIGURE IN SMASH

Three automobiles were damaged, traffic was held up and several innocent bystanders left the scene of their lives at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon when Thomas J. Soles, 505 Belle avenue, stepped on the wrong lever when trying to throw on his brake to avoid hitting a woman. He avoided all right, but plunged his Maxwell into a Hupmobile belonging to the D. C. Stout agency, and it in turn crashed into Frank W. Smith's Daimler. The Stout car was most seriously damaged but broken running boards and fenders were the extent of the injury.

KILLED BY BARTENDER.

Kentucky Robber's Long Career of Crime is Ended.

Paducah, Ky., March 18.—Harvey Kliner, 20, who during the past two months is said to have committed many robberies in Paducah and who is alleged to have killed one man in a hold-up, was killed early today by a bartender, whom he is said to have tried to rob.

REAL "WAR" EGG HAS MADE ITS APPEARANCE.

Lafayette, Ind., March 18.—An unquestionable war egg has now appeared. Mrs. Thomas Smith, of Delphi, went to her hen house last evening and took from a nest an egg of ordinary size, shape and color bearing on its surface the word "war" in unmistakable characters, the letters pink in color. At first the egg was thought to be a joke, but every effort to remove the letters, even by scratching and other means, failed. They still remain perfectly clear. The egg is on exhibition.

SAYS HE SEES FINISH OF WAR

French Minister of Finance Indulges in a Bit of Optimism.

GERMANS MAKE NO FURTHER PROGRESS

Much Less Energy is Put Into Attempt to Capture Verdun.

Today's War News Given in Summary

Since the massed attacks of Thursday night against the village and fort of Vaux, northeast of Verdun, the Germans have not advanced at any point on the defense of the fortress, Paris announced today.

Last night passed without infantry activity, and even the artillery action is described as intermittent. The Paris war office reports that the Germans did not reply to a concentrated fire directed by the French guns against the German trenches in the Corbeaux wood and in the direction of hill 265, which is northwest of Deadman's hill. On the other bank of the Meuse there has been heavy work by the artillery, notably in the region of Vaux.

Reports of developments of importance in the other war fields are lacking. There appears to be increasing military activity in the Balkans, however. Heavy troop movements in Bulgaria are reported from Bucharest, the railroads being exclusively given over to this traffic. In Roumania passenger traffic on a line from Bucharest to the Hungarian frontier has been suspended.

Recent rumors of the assassination of Enver Pasha, the Turkish minister of war, are followed today by an official statement from Constantinople that he has returned to Constantinople from a trip of inspection to Syria, Palestine and Arabia.

Paris, March 18.—"We have reached the decisive hour," said Alexandre Ribot, minister of finance, speaking in the chamber of deputies last night on the financial and military situation. "We can say without exaggeration, without illusion and without vain optimism, that we now see the end of this horrible war."

M. Ribot's utterance is taken to be of the utmost importance as indicating official opinion with regard to the result of the battle of Verdun. Whether peace is or is not appreciably nearer is unquestionable that the tension in France has relaxed and that men's thoughts are turned to the rapid developments of events favorable to the allies.

No infantry attacks were made last night in the Verdun region, the war office announced this afternoon. There was intermittent cannonading.

Big Troop Movements.
Movements of troops on a large scale in Bulgaria are reported by the Havas correspondent at Bucharest, Roumania, in a dispatch filed on Wednesday. It is said the operations are so extensive that both passenger and freight traffic have been suspended.

In Roumania the correspondent says passenger travel has been stopped for ten days on the railroad running north from Bucharest to Predel, on the Hungarian frontier.

FIGHTING LESS VIGOROUS.

Berlin, March 18.—The fighting activities of both the French and the German armies on the western front were less vigorous yesterday, according to the official statement issued today as the German army headquarters.

Dispatches from Geneva say Sergeant Pilot George Guymene, the French aviator, who was wounded recently, was shot down by a German airplane. Sergeant Guymene, who was flying a French aeroplane of the latest type, was wounded in the face and left arm. He landed within the French lines.

DENIAL BY FRANCE.

Washington, March 18.—The French embassy, upon instructions from Paris today, emphatically denied that German forces were holding any portion of Deadman's hill.

WHY VON TIRPITZ QUIT.

London, March 18.—A wireless dispatch from Rome says that the retirement of Admiral von Tirpitz, as German minister of marine, was occasioned by his intention to attack Great Britain with the entire German navy. This plan was voted, according to these advices, by Emperor William and Prince Henry.

The steamship Palembang has been torpedoed. All the members of the crew were saved.

Court is Reversed in Ornamental Lamp Case

Indianapolis, March 18.—The supreme court has reversed the Allen circuit court for refusing the trustees of the Plymouth Congregational church society an injunction against the city treasurer and the contractors who performed the work from collecting the assessment made for the placing of electric lights with lamp posts along Harrison street of Fort Wayne. The total amount of the assessment was $11,574.94 and was made against the abutting property along the street, and none against the city.

The court holds that the only part of the expense which the law can approve against the property is the proportion of the cost of the lamp posts requiring the city to pay its part for the street intersections. The court holds there is no law permitting the city to tax against the abutting property the costs for placing the electric light wires, whether by underground conduits or otherwise as such work is a part of the distributive system of the company that supplies the lights.

FIRST DURBOROUGH PICTURES FROM THE MEXICAN BORDER

Here is Camera Reporter Durborough's first picture from the Mexican border: it shows the scene enacted when Uncle Sam's boys entrained for the Villa chase. The soldiers went away happy; there were few tears shed, for our men look upon this as a great adventure. The farewell of the soldier in the foreground to his wife and boy gains in sadness from this very fact.

MANY DEMONSTRATIONS PLANNED FOR SUMMER

Meeting of Allen County Agricultural Society is Held.

Field demonstrations to be conducted during the summer months were determined Saturday afternoon at the meeting of the Allen County Agricultural Society in the assembly room of the court house.

The following schedule was adopted: Orchard demonstration in Washington township; hog feeding, Perry township; lime, St. Joe township; lime, Perry township; hog feeding, Perry township; hog feeding, Lafayette township; wheat, Marion township; land clearing, Washington township; corn breeding, Jefferson township; corn and soy bean for silage, Springfield township; oat production, Perry township; oat production, Lake township; alfalfa, Monroe township. The list is not complete. George V. Kell, president of the society, presided at the meeting and Clarence Henry, county agent, gave a short talk.

Prof. F. M. Shanklin, of the United States department of agriculture, in charge of the boys' and girls' pig clubs throughout the state, was in conference Saturday with Agent Henry. An effort will be made to organize a number of clubs in Allen county.

Dr. G. C. Starr, of the extension department of Purdue university, will deliver a series of lectures on the care and management of brood sows and litters on Tuesday and Wednesday. Instead of the pruning demonstration, which was to have been held Tuesday afternoon at Milam Center, Dr. Starr will speak. The pruning demonstration has been postponed and Dr. Starr will speak in the afternoon.

MORE SMALLPOX IS UNDER QUARANTINE

Pupil of Hanna School III—Suspected Cases in a Northside Family.

Another case of smallpox was placed under quarantine Saturday by the health department, the patient being Noel Boyd, aged 7 years, of 1222 Horace street, and a pupil of the Hanna public school. This is the first case to appear among the pupils of that school. The child has not been in school since Thursday.

The nature of the malady was discovered Saturday when the child was taken to the downtown office of a physician to be prescribed for.

Four suspicious cases have been found in Bloomington in one household, where a mother and her three children are ill of a disease suspected to be smallpox.

BUT ONE PATROLMAN NAMED. Because the board of safety could not, at its Friday evening meeting, agree on a successor to Patrolman Ben T. Hecke, who resigned from the police force a day or two ago, the appointment was held in abeyance.

The board appointed Harry E. Linsinger, lately employed as a brakeman on the Nickel Plate railroad, to succeed Patrolman William Feller, who resigned early in the week. Linsinger was endorsed for the appointment by the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen.

TOO LATE TO RESCIND. The board of safety on Friday night informed a committee of the Fort Wayne Federation of Labor that the contract with the Seagrave company, of Columbus, Ohio, for motorized fire apparatus for No. 1 engine house had been signed and could not be rescinded.

The committee had previously asked the board to reconsider the award of the contract and give it to a concern of known friendliness to organized labor.

CITY SETTLES JITNEY CASE. The city has reached a settlement for the damage to the Snell jitney bus that went into a spin during a flood last January when at night it went into the stream from the east approach of the bridge in Lawton park that had been washed out by the high water. The city will replace the damaged parts and give Snell $20.

BULLETIN. Vincennes, Ind., March 18.—The plant of the Vincennes board and paper company, bankrupt, was sold at public sale today to the Fort Wayne Corrugated Paper Box company for $215,000.

The bidding was spirited. E. E. Weston, a paper manufacturer of Dayton, Ohio, was the other bidder. The bid was offered in the name of Stephen B. Fleming, of Fort Wayne.

FOR SALE—7-room house, all modern but furnace; 1331 E. Pontiac St.; price $2,800. Also 130 feet front Rudisill boulevard, $850.00. Phone 2652 black, Ed Rieke, or call at 217 Schmitz Block.

QUEEN ESTHER LODGE IS 26 YEARS OLD

Two Remaining Charter Members Will Help in the Celebration.

Queen Esther lodge of Rebekahs will celebrate its twenty-sixth anniversary this evening in the J. O. O. F. hall at Wayne and Calhoun streets. The degree team from Turner lodge, Garrett, will be the guests of the local lodge, arriving here at 5:30 o'clock in a special car over the Fort Wayne and Northwestern Indiana traction line. About sixty members from Garrett are expected. Supper will be served at 6:30 o'clock and among those who will be in attendance will be the only two charter members of the lodge who are living, Mrs. Maletta Wohlford, 2015 Calhoun street, who is 82 years old, and A. T. Lijes, manager of the Fort Wayne branch of the Western Newspaper Union. A class of eleven candidates will be given the work by the Garrett degree team.

LIBELS MARSHALL IS CHARGE MADE

South Bend Man Accused for Attack on Moose Official.

Chicago, March 18.—John W. Talbot, supreme president of the Order of Owls, and conspicuous for years in fraternal organizations, yesterday was named in a warrant accusing him of uttering a libel against Thomas R. Marshall, vice-president of the United States, and officers of the Loyd Order of Moose.

Talbot lives at South Bend, Ind., and officers from Aurora were sent there last night to arrange for his extradition. Gov. Dunne already has signed extradition papers.

Indictments charging conspiracy and criminal libel were returned by the Kane county grand jury against Talbot and Thomas J. McCabe, of Batavia. The charges are based on the distribution of circulars in which high officers of the Loyd Order of Moose are referred to as "graffers and thieves."

The indictments were kept secret. McCabe, who is a painter, was arrested in Chicago. He is now in jail at Aurora. It is said McCabe formerly was an employee of the Mooseheart training school maintained by the Moose lodge for the education of orphans.

The attack attributed to Talbot and McCabe is directed against not only the vice-president of the United States, but also against Rodney Brandon, manager of Mooseheart, the training school and national headquarters of the Moose, seven miles out of Aurora; James J. Davis, chairman of the board of governors of Mooseheart, Pittsburg; John J. Leitz, former congressman, of Columbus, O., who is a member of the board of governors; and Arthur H. Jones, of Chicago.

ATTEND, SHIVELY'S FUNERAL. Among the Fort Wayne residents who went to South Bend Saturday to attend the funeral of the late Senator Shively were the following: Judge S. M. Hench, Judge John W. Eggeman, of the circuit court; Edward G. Hoffman, William C. Schwieter and Martin H. Lucke. The delegation left at 8:50 o'clock Saturday morning over the G. R. & L., transferring to the Lake Shore at Kendallville.

THE DEATHS.

CRAIG. Herbert Craig, aged twenty-eight years, of 1906 Bequette street, died at 1 o'clock Saturday morning at his late residence, following an illness of eighteen months due to tuberculosis. He was a knitter at the Wayne Knitting mills and had been employed there eight years. He was a member of the Knitters' union.

Mr. Craig is survived by the widow and one daughter, Beatrice, aged six years; the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Craig; and the following brothers and sisters: Elwood, Clarence, Floyd, George, Lewis, James and Mrs. Rebecca Dowdell, all of Fort Wayne.

Funeral services Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence, Rev. C. O. Shively officiating. Interment at Lindenwood.

The services will be private and friends may view the remains from Sunday morning at 9 o'clock until Monday noon.

CORBIN. Mrs. Elizabeth Corbin, a widow, died at 1:25 o'clock Saturday morning at the residence of a daughter, Mrs. W. E. Harlan, 2429 Weiser Park avenue, following an illness of six weeks. Death came one day after her seventy-sixth birthday. She deceased was a member of the First M. E. church of Kokomo.

Mrs. Corbin came to Fort Wayne last Thanksgiving day to make her home with her daughter. She is survived by four children, Mrs. W. E. Harlan, Alfred T. Corbin, Mrs. Clark Gray and Mrs. R. B. Dill; ten grandchildren and four great grandchildren and four brothers and two sisters.

Funeral services Monday morning at 8 o'clock at the residence, Rev. D. H. Guild officiating. The body will be shipped to Kokomo at 9:10 o'clock via Interurban.

HABIG. Charles Donald Habig, aged fifteen days, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Habig, who reside ten and a half miles from the city on the Auburn road, died Saturday morning at the family home.

Funeral services Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the residence and interment at the L. O. O. F. cemetery near New Haven.

SMITH. F. T. Smith, a veteran of the civil war, died Saturday morning at the home of a son four miles south of the city on the Philly road. The deceased had been ill for some time, suffering from pneumonia, but would not allow his son to call a physician.

However, Saturday morning when the son saw that the father was sinking, he summoned a doctor from Fort Wayne. The aged man passed away before the doctor arrived. He is survived by two sons and a daughter.

FEHLING. Erwin M. Fehling, aged 3 years, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fehling, died at 11 o'clock Saturday morning at the residence of his grandmother, Mrs. C. Fehling, 831 East Butler street. Death was due to complication of diseases. The parents of the deceased died when he was six months of age. The grandparents and several uncles and aunts survive.

Funeral services Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence, Rev. D. H. Guild officiating. Interment at Concordia.

SCHRAMMER. Margaret Schrammer, aged three years and ten months, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Schrammer, of 1619 Hillsdale avenue, died at 3:30 o'clock Saturday morning at the family home.

Besides the parents he is survived by the following brothers and sisters: Harold, Leonard, Donald, Mrs. Alma Tracey, Mrs. Wilma Miller, Mrs. Clyde Myers and Julia, Lulu, Lucile, Gladys and Louise Schrammer.

Funeral services for Mrs. Schrammer will be held Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Peter's Catholic church and interment will follow at the Catholic cemetery.

Funeral services for Mrs. Isabelle Fox will be held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence, 1215 Barthold street. Interment at Lindenwood.

Waggoner.—Funeral services for Herbert J. Waggoner will be held Monday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the residence, 2050 Broadway and at 2 o'clock at the Wayne street M. E. church. Rev. C. O. Travis officiating. Interment at Lindenwood.

Smith.—Funeral services for Mrs. Catherine Smith will be held Monday morning at 8:30 o'clock at the residence, 1423 East Lewis street, and at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Catholic church. Interment at Messe Gassel.

The closing features of St. Patrick day's celebration in Fort Wayne, Friday, was an address by Father O'Donnell and a musical entertainment at the library hall in the evening.

Music for the evening meeting was furnished by the Erin quartet, composed of Misses Margaret Cahill, Loretta Harkender, Inez King and Mrs. Agnes Carey Agendrod; the Quintet quartet, composed of Herman Martin, James Dawson Hayes, John Kennedy and Robert Anderson; and Koehnke's orchestra.

Father O'Donnell chose for his subject, "Faith and Patriotism." He declared that the patriotism and faith of the Irish people are practically one and the same thing.

"The greatest uplifters of the universe have been the Irish people," he said. "I do not say that the Catholic Irish are the only true Irish, but I do say that they are true to their faith, and their patriotism is ever in the ascendancy."

TIE THAT BINDS IS A YOKE THAT GALLS

Pair of Wives Ask Courts to Set Them Free from Marital Bonds.

Margaret Gaskill has filed in the superior court a complaint against Matcom Gaskill for divorce, alleging cruel and inhuman treatment, non-support and incompatibility. They were married Oct. 23, 1901, and separated a year ago. The wife says for two years she got no support and had to work for her living. H. Waveland Kerr is attorney for the plaintiff.

Deserted One Brings Action. Alleging that two years ago her husband deserted and abandoned her, has since given her no support and is now a non-resident of the state, Blanch M. Thompson has sued Robert W. Thompson in the superior court for a decree of divorce and the custody of a daughter aged 11. O'Rourke & Lucette appear for the plaintiff.

Rayburn Suit is Filed. The application of William Rayburn for a writ of habeas corpus to compel Sheriff A. C. Gladieux to release him from custody at the Allen county jail, was filed Saturday in the circuit court and next Tuesday was fixed for the hearing of the petition. Mr. Rayburn is the 90-year-old civil war veteran who was adjudged insane by a lunacy commission in the court of Justice M. J. Tancey, March 11, and for whom a commitment to a state insane asylum was issued. He has been in jail now for a week. It will be undertaken to prove that he is of sound mind, as he alleges in his petition, to have him declared and to procure his discharge, as another aged man, who had been declared insane. Starnus was released by the circuit court Friday, following habeas corpus proceedings brought by Attorneys Charles J. Ryan and Ray McAdams.

Pays Big Fine for Assault. George Stewart was found guilty in the circuit court, Saturday, of assault and battery on Henry Williams and was fined $50 and costs, amounting to over $80. Stewart, who is a house buyer, assaulted Williams in a bar street sales stable several weeks ago, fracturing his skull with a shovel. Williams was in a hospital for quite a while. Stewart was bound over to the circuit court from the city court on a charge of assault and battery with intent to kill. He pleaded not guilty at his hearing before Judge Pro Tem John H. Aiken, Saturday.

Notes of the Courts. Gladieux Rhodes has begun suit in the superior court against Beat Rhodes for divorce. She says they were married in 1910 and that in 1914 he deserted her. Colerick & Hogan are attorneys for the plaintiff.

The Redpath Lyceum bureau has brought suit in the superior court against Glen T. Smiley to collect $100 on a note. Carus C. Warrington is attorney for the plaintiff.

Otto Hildebrand, defendant in a suit brought by Andrew J. Schorr to foreclose a lien on crops, appeared in the circuit court in answer to a citation for contempt on an application filed by the plaintiff, but proved that he was not guilty and was thereupon discharged. Aaron Deich has sued Frank M. Weatrick in the circuit court to collect $95 on a note. Louis Most is attorney for the plaintiff.

The suit of Joseph A. Haley vs. William L. Bieber, et al., to collect $125 on a note, was dismissed from the superior court after the jury had reported to try the case, the parties having effected a settlement.

August Moring, defendant in a suit by Catherine Moring for divorce, has been cited to appear in the circuit court March 21 to answer to charges of contempt.

Edward O. and Grace J. Mains, the superior court has dismissed the case as to the latter named defendant.

Hon. John H. Aiken was acting as judge pro tem in the circuit court Saturday, Judge John W. Eggeman having gone to South Bend to attend the funeral of the late United States Senator Benjamin F. Shively.

SAYS VOTES WERE COUNTED. It is asserted by Henry Bashaller, who was judge of the primary election in precinct A, Washington township, that all of the second choice votes on ballots cast in that precinct were duly counted and that the returns were accepted in due form by the election commissioners and canvassing board the day following the primaries. This precinct is one of the fourteen in which Christian G. Vonderaue, who is contesting the democratic nomination of Allen Hirsch for county recorder, says the second choice votes were thrown out. Mr. Bashaller declares all the second choice votes were counted in the precinct.

WILL GET FINAL DISCHARGE. D. C. Peyton, general superintendent of the Indiana reformatory at Jeffersonville, has written to County Clerk D. C. Stout advising that three men who were given suspended sentences in the circuit court have been faithful in making regular reports to the institution and recommending their final discharge from the court. Then men are Emory Fiqua, sentenced February 25, 1915; Harry Jones, sentenced February 3, 1915; and Arthur Holman; sentenced February 6, 1914. Judge Eggeman will probably discharge them at once.

LICENSED TO WED. Ralph O. Root, expressman clerk, and Eda L. Schmidt.

ANOTHER BUSY AFTERNOON. The city fire department experienced another busy afternoon Friday when three calls were answered. The roof of the business place of M. C. Fisher, 531 Wallace street, caught fire from sparks from the chimney and caused a loss of $100.

At 6:24 the chemical responded to a call to 1016 Lafayette street, where sparks from the chimney threatened to set the roof of the residence ablaze. There was no loss.

A loss of ten dollars was caused by sparks from the chimney to the roof of the residence at Hanna and Holman street at 8 o'clock Friday evening. A call was sent in from box No. 174. The house is occupied by several families of foreigners who did not know anything about the fire until told by neighbors.

A. C. Dewitt, of Chicago, was here Friday and checked in the revenue office. He found everything in splendid condition.

THE WEATHER.

Doctors have prescribed Resinol for over twenty years in the treatment of eczema and similar itching, burning, unsightly skin diseases.

They use it regularly because they know that it usually gives instant relief and soon clears away the eruption. They know, too, that it contains nothing harmful or irritating to the most delicate skin. See if Resinol doesn't stop your skin trouble quickly.

Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap are sold by all dealers in drugs and toilet goods.

DR. RUSSELL TALKS TO BUSINESS MEN

Anti-Saloon League Founder Declares Liquor Traffic Must Go.

Dr. Howard Russell, originator of the Anti-Saloon League of America and at the present time associate general superintendent of the organization, spoke to about six hundred business and professional men of Fort Wayne, Friday evening, at a banquet and meeting in the hall of the hotel.

Dr. Russell discussed the economic advantage of temperance. Naftzger, of Union City, well known evangelistic singer, rendered several solos. The meeting was one of the largest gatherings of its kind ever held in Fort Wayne and was one of a series that are being conducted throughout the country by the league.

Dr. Russell's Address.
"The Unipont Powder company has lately weeded from its pay roll all drinking employees. The powder mill is no place for an unsteady hand or a dim eye. Likewise the railroad com-panies have keyed up their restric-tions during a series of years until sobriety is demanded both on and off duty. So with many of the great manufacturing industries. Effi-ciency and safety are imperatively demanded today, and to both sobriety is the friend and drink the worst enemy. Every common observer understands this if there were no other excuse for national prohibition, and there are many other reasons. The advent of the automobile upon the highway is reason enough why every saloon should be wiped off the map of the United States.

"Common experience is now cor-roborated by the findings of science. The Carnegie institute within the past two years has declared that in-vestigations carried on by Drs. Dodge and Benedict settles it finally that 'there is a decreased organic efficiency as a result of even moderate doses of alcohol.' The drinking workman is the first to fall sick and the last to get well; the first to have an acci-dent and the last to be promoted; the first to die and the last to leave his family in comfort.

"Carlyle said: 'Give me, oh give me, the man who sings at his work.' The efficient workman comes from a hap-py and a sober home. Three hundred and fifty heads of families in Boston deserted their families and two hun-dred and fifty were drinking men. In the home inefficiency is extended into the coming generation by the drink-ing habits of the parents. A sci-en-tific temperance federation of Boston investigated twenty homes. Ten had abstaining parents and ten homes in-temperate parents. I call the ab-staining homes the homes on the hill-side, and the drinking homes the homes in the valley. The hillside homes had sixty-one children; the valley homes fifty-seven. On the hill-side five died in infancy; in the val-ley twenty-five. On the hillside six children only were diseased and de-formed; in the valley twenty-two.

"In the hillside homes were found fifty normal children; in the desolate homes of the valley, only ten normal children. Forty-seven of the fifty-seven children were literally 'damaged goods.'

"These and many more facts have led manufacturers and business men to take a greatly increased interest in recent months in the abolition of the sa-loon. I have had the privilege of meet-ing during the past two years in their offices or in lunch meetings similar to the present occasion many leading cap-tains of industry throughout the United States. The first lunch meeting was at Pittsburg. The business men present after full discussion of the facts, went forth to use their influence and the board of trade of the city of Pittsburg shortly afterward indorsed national pro-hibition and the Hobson amendment. Similar meetings at Chicago were influ-ential in helping to bring to pass the closing of the saloons on Sunday. A similar lunch meeting in Boston was one of the causes of the recent No-Licenses campaign in Boston which showed a very great increase in the number of 'dry' voters.

In two hundred of the most important cities of the country. This accounts for my presence here tonight.

"The men who sent me here re-quested me to tell you the plans of the campaign to complete the nation-wide prohibition of the liquor traffic. We call these meetings by the ringing title, 'See this thing through—recruiting ral-lies.' What is it we propose to see through? The answer to this question is, the nation-wide prohibition of the beverage liquor traffic. The second question of the hour, 'How do we pro-pose to see this thing through?' The answer to this question is, bring in the reserves into the three battle lines of the Anti-Saloon league of America. What are these battle lines? First, the congressional campaign at Washington.

"By this campaign we must secure the enactment by a majority vote, of laws to weaken and cripple the liquor traffic such as we expect to secure from the present congress, namely, absolute prohibition for the Hawaiian Islands, Alaska and Porto Rico, and also for the District of Columbia, and our national capital by a two-thirds vote in congress. We expect to secure the admission of an amend-ment for constitutional prohibition to the states for their ratification. The second battle line is the co-operation of the National Anti-Saloon league with the state leagues in the various states as they make their fights for state-wide prohibition. The third battle line is the ratification of the na-tional amendment by the state legisla-tures, one of which we hope will be the legislature which meets sometime in the near future at Indianapolis. By a cam-paign of education and by voice and the printed page we expect a ratification and the complete adoption of the na-tional amendment by Merry Christmas, 1920."

ATTEMPTS A MIX-UP WITH OFFICER HILL

Fred Lehman Didn't Stop, Look and Listen Before Starting.

Fred Lehman, who states that he is employed at the Brookside farm, west of the city, tossed "safety first" to the discard and failed to stop, look and listen when Officer John Hill hove along-side in the alley between Columbia and Main street, where Mr. Lehman had bedded himself down with a souse, Friday night. If Mr. Lehman had con-sulted the three cardinal precepts of safety and especially if he had looked, he might at least have deferred hos-tilities pending a second thought. Mr. Lehman is no great shakes as a man in the item of stature. Officer Hill is bigger than a box car, stronger than a team of bull elephants, good natured as a kitten, slow to anger and the wrong sort of man to provoke. Mr. Lehman was provocative. He resisted. He was go-ing to have the matter out there and then. The argument was wholly one-sided as Mr. Lehman's mussy appear-ance in the city court Saturday sadly indicated. He loudly inveighed against his treatment and breathed threats. Judge H. Waveland Kerr hung $5 and costs unto him and warned him against both trying to fuss up the biggest man on the police force and coming back into the court.

"Ever arrested before?" queried the court.

"Once over in Germany for 'raising Harry,' but not for anything else," ad-mitted the prisoner.

Other City Court Cases.
Jim Ashby, a bald-headed barber, who claimed Huntington as his hailing place, was fined $1 and costs for drunkenness.

Tom O'Hern, who appears often, was continued on a drunk charge until Mon-day, when previous convictions will prob-ably be placed against him and a term at the state farm doled out.

John Gra came al the way from Van Wert, O., where he is employed in the building work on the new postoffice, to purchase new raiment. He had $5 when he started, acquiring two 30-cent shirts, a souse and a cash balance of half a dollar. He went over for a drunken day.

Frank Godfrey, a clerk, was continued until Monday atget in shape for a hear-ing.

OHIO ROBBER IDENTIFIED.

For the authorities at the Ohio state prison in Columbus Detective Sergeant Joseph P. Brennan has identified from the records in the local identification bureau a prisoner just received at the penitentiary under the name of Thomas Gallagher as Thomas Kelly, arrested here last August on the Nickel Plate railway grounds for carrying concealed weapons. He spent twenty-five days in jail here for that offense. He was arrested and sentenced in Cleveland for robbery, in commission of which he was shot through the jaw. The identification was perfect.

They Let Him Sleep.

H. T. Strayze, Gainesville, Ga., R. R. No. 3, was unable to sleep all night without getting up. "Sometimes only a few minutes after going to bed, I would have to get up, and I tried everything I heard of for the trouble. Finally I tried Fuler Kidney Pills and after taking one bottle I believe I am entirely cured and I sleep soundly all night." Fuler Kidney Pills tone up weak, sluggish kidneys, rid the body of poisons, give appetite, energy and re-freshing sleep. Dreier Drug Co.—Ad-vertisement.

The maximum of worth

TALK ON SALESMANSHIP.
J. S. Knox, of Cleveland, Speaks at Meet-ing of Quest Club.

J. S. Knox, of the Cleveland Advertis-ing club, of Cleveland, O., delivered a most interesting address on salesman-ship Friday evening at the regular monthly meeting and banquet of the Quest club. The speaker urged the mer-chant to see that his clerks are courte-ous and that when a customer comes into the store and buys something that they thank him and invite him back again. The address was helpful and was fol-lowed by a discussion in which various members of the club took part. The meeting was held at the Commercial club.

ARMY RECRUITING OFFICER HERE.

Sergeant August Kowalski, of the Uni-ted States army, is in the city pursuant to orders from the war department.

Centennial Association Incorporates

STATE OF INDIANA,
Department of State,
HOMER L. COOK,
Secretary of State

To All to Whom These Presents Shall Come, Greeting:

WHEREAS, Articles of Association, duly signed and acknowledged, showing an Capital Stock having been filed in the office of the Secretary of State on the 16th day of March, 1916 for the organization of the under and in accordance with the provisions of an act entitled "An Act for the Incorporation of Societies Not for Pecuniary Profit," etc., approved March 6th, 1889, and published on page 141 of the Acts of the General Assembly for that year, and acts amendatory thereof and supplementary thereto.

Now, therefore, I, Homer L. Cook, Secretary of State of the State of Indiana, by virtue of the powers and duties vested in me by law, do hereby certify that the said Association is a body politic and corporate, authorized and empowered by the laws of the State of Indiana, to proceed to carry out the objects of the organization.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the Seal of the State of Indiana, at the city of Indianapolis, this 16th day of March, A. D. 1916.

(SEAL) HOMER L. COOK, Secretary of State,
By H. L. PORTER, Deputy.

Incorporation papers, the certificate of which the above are a copy, were issued this week by Secretary of State Homer L. Cook. The incorporation of the local body of enthusiasts, who are pushing the interests of the celebration with no financial returns, is a legal step to insure the financial success of the undertaking.

THE SENTINEL'S DAILY SCRIPTURE READING

Romans 6:1-14.

1 What shall we say then? Shall we continue in sin, that grace may abound?

2 God forbid. How shall we, that are dead to sin, live any longer therein?

3 Know ye not, that so many of us as were baptized into Jesus Christ were baptized into his death?

4 Therefore we are buried with him by baptism into death; that like as Christ was raised up from the dead by the glory of the Father, even so we also should walk in newness of life.

5 For if we have been planted together in the likeness of his death, we shall be also in the likeness of his resurrection:

6 Knowing this, that our old man is crucified with him, that the body of sin might be destroyed, that henceforth we should not serve sin.

7 For he that is dead is freed from sin.

8 Now if we be dead with Christ, we believe that we shall also live with him:

9 Knowing that Christ being raised from the dead dieth no more; death hath no more dominion over him.

10 For in that he died, he died unto sin once: but in that he liveth, he liveth unto God.

11 Likewise reckon ye also yourselves to be dead indeed unto sin, but alive unto God through Jesus Christ our Lord.

12 Let not sin therefore reign in your mortal body, that ye should obey it in the lusts thereof.

13 Neither yield ye your members as instruments of unrighteousness unto sin: but yield yourselves unto God, as those that are alive from the dead, and your members as instruments of righteousness unto God.

14 For sin shall not have dominion over you: for ye are not under the law, but under grace.

Looking at the Final Figures.

Official tabulation of the primary vote in Indiana has just been completed at Indianapolis; ten days after the casting of the ballots on March 7, and while the official canvass did not change the standing of any of the candidates, the results make an interesting study for the man who delights in revelling in political figures. The total first choice vote on president showed the following results for all the ninety-two counties: Woodrow Wilson, 160,423; Charles Warren Fairbanks, 176,078, showing that somewhat more than 15,000 republican ballots were cast than were deposited by the democrats.

The first choice total for Thomas R. Marshall, democratic candidate for vice president, was 154,466. There were no candidates for this office on the republican and progressive tickets. The first choice total for John W. Kern, democratic candidate for United States senator, was 161,931.

The first choice votes for the republican candidates for the senatorial nomination were as follows: Harry S. New, 97,118; Arthur R. Robinson, 23,825; James E. Watson, 89,847. The second choice votes in this race have not yet been tabulated because several counties have not made accurate returns and the state officials have sent back these returns for correction. In some of these counties, it seems, it will be impossible to send in correct totals on second choice votes since county clerks have reported to the secretary of state that the votes are in such condition that it will be impossible for them to make the corrections.

One of the most significant features of the official tabulation became apparent when the total vote for James B. Wilson, of Bloomington, progressive candidate for the United States senate, was shown to run ahead of that cast for J. Frank Hanly, of Indianapolis, the Edwin M. Lee candidate for governor on the progressive ticket. James B. Wilson's total vote in the state was 7,567, and that of Hanly was only 6,544.

John A. M. Adair ran far ahead of Leonard B. Clore in the democratic race for the governorship nomination, according to the official tabulation of the vote. Adair's total of first choice votes was 116,531, while Clore's was 42,906.

James P. Goodrich, of Winchester, outstripped both his opponents in the republican race for the governorship nomination. The vote of Goodrich was 123,342; that of Warren T. McCray, of Kentland, was 61,654, and that of Quincy A. Myers, of Logansport, was 24,047.

Nothing like even approximately accurate figures on the total cost of the primary to the counties of the state is yet available, and while it is practically certain that some of the ante-primary estimates were much too high, the real figure on the expense is going to be a rather sizeable one.

Congress these days is supplying another impressive illustration of American unity in forwarding general plans for military preparedness. There has been a prodigious amount of debate and personal expression, but not only the resolution bringing up the total of the standing army to 120,000, men but the administration measures looking to better national defense as well as shaping themselves with practically no voice raised against them. We do a lot of disagreeing, a lot of harking back, a lot of viewing with alarm and a lot of appealing to the constitutional anchorage, but on the real show-down we can always be depended upon to pull together. That fact has again and again been made evident in the past, and it is the country's best guaranty for the future.

State Chairman Hays has finally announced his conclusion not to enter the lists for the second republican nomination for United States senator against Mr. Watson in the state convention. Mr. Hays is perfectly within his rights, of course, but a lot of fellows are going to feel that his decision has shamelessly defrauded them; out of the delight of witnessing a rip-roaring political fight.

They have just expelled a member of the Massachusetts legislature for improper connection with certain lobbying interests in operation among the Bay state law-makers. Massachusetts doubtless thought it high time to supply some evidence that all the reformative effort in the country is not centered in Terre Haute, Ind.

Down at Jeffersonville Justice appears to have not only cast away the bandage from her eyes, but to have developed an amazing fleetness of foot. One man who "borrowed" an umbrella during a rainstorm has just been sentenced to ninety days in jail.

And another thing: An increase of more than one million dollars in Fort Wayne bank deposits during the past year is not to be merced at.

Average Man in the Line Feels No Hatred for His Enemy — Killing Other Fellow is Just a Part of the Game.

By Henry Clay

San Francisco, Cal., March 18.—"The Turks are good fighting men and good sports in their way. I have no hatred for them, even if they did kill a lot of my comrades. And I don't believe the average man feels any hatred towards his enemies—except, perhaps, the English and the Germans. Killing the other fellow is just a part of the game. The ordinary soldier fights for adventure or love of country or both. He takes his orders from higher up, where men are supposed to know the real reasons for war. If he is a man he doesn't whimper, but does his bit cheerfully. I have seen Turks and Australians kidding one another across trenches, seemingly like the best of friends. That is one of the peculiar things of war."

A good natured, upstanding chap, his face bronzed by a desert sun, L. M. Chateau, one of the first Australian contingent into the famous Dardanelles campaign, said as much as we talked in the lobby of a hotel here. He enlisted at Sydney in the Light Horse Troop of mounted infantry and saw thrilling service on the Gallipoli peninsula at Gaba Tepe and Pope's Hill, where the Turkish resistance proved fiercest.

Chateau was half crazed and deadened by the crash of a high explosive shell from a Turkish gun.

He's a Lucky Dog.

"I am a lucky dog," said Chateau. "I can't figure out how I happened to escape when thousands of good fellows went down. I can't tell you what war is like. No man can. To understand how fearful it is, as the game is played these days, you have to be in it yourself."

"In one charge 320 of us went over four lines of parallel trenches. The Turks fought like good men. When we were ordered to retire, there were only 27 of us left. In one gulch I saw thousands of Turks lying dead. After the charges the dead bodies would be piled up and hanging over the edge of our trenches. Later when artillery fire was opened on our position, you can imagine how pleasant it was in the trenches with those dead bodies blown down on us."

"I went into the war for adventure. So did hundreds of others. Rich men's sons went, too. We got our adventure, but we saw after a lot of fighting that it wasn't all adventure. It was grim work, but once there, a fellow does his bit because he knows it is his duty. Hand Grenades Terrify.

"You think differently of the adventure part when you see your mates falling all around you. Hand grenade fighting is the worst. Of course, it's good for one when a bayonet goes through him, but he doesn't stand a chance when a hand bomb hits him. They are about the size of a cricket ball. One of my mates from Sydney was hit on the head with one. His head was simply blown from his shoulders. That sort of a thing rather takes the fun out of war, you know."

"Australia has won her nationhood."

THE COLONEL AT PLAY

!(Grand Rapids News.)

Meanwhile, what is the colonel doing? Travelers returning to New York on the steamship Guiana, on which vessel Colonel Roosevelt sailed for Britain Guiana Feb. 11, say he is having the time of his life. Everywhere in the little islands of the Atlantic he is received by enthusiastic crowds, with bands playing, three banquets a day and black reception committees clothed in evening dress at 7 in the morning!

At St. Lucia came the climax, for at that British port the staid, frigid authorities even had to rescind an order forbidding passengers to disembark. It was this way: When the Guiana docked the port authorities sent word aboard that no passengers could land. But the captain of the Guiana was not to be bluffed. He sent right back the word that if none of his passengers could land, nobody in St. Lucia could come aboard to gaze upon the great Theodore. That did the work. Within half an hour the no-landing order was rescinded and the islanders swarmed aboard to hark in the Roosevelt smile.

It is a great trip for the colonel. Drinking in the hot spring sunshine of the tropics, he is toughening himself for the triumphant re-entry into New York harbor some day this summer, when he is to enact the role of Caesar refusing the highest honor of his party.

IN EXPERIMENTAL STAGE

(Indianapolis Star).

It will be utterly unprofitable, of course, to ask opinions on the new primary law from those who are and have been unchangeably wedded to the old convention system. All such are exacting as usual in their complaints as they were before.

This experience is precisely what every state goes through with this sort of legislation. The first experiment is disappointing. Then there is the period of trial, improvement and perfection. Some friction that is attributed to the in this war. The English used to look L. M. Chateau in trench during Dardanelles campaign and as he looks in civilian clothes. The man at his side is looking through a periscope. Note the bandage on his head. He was wounded in a charge.

"Slightly wounded men keep on fighting," said Chateau. "The behavior of wounded men is splendid. I have seen lads with half their faces shot away ask for a cigarette. They get angry when ordered to hospital, insisting that 'some other poor cove is worse than I.'" down on us as 'heavily colonized' but they don't now. It used to be a social ban for one to admit he was a Colonial. Not now. Our Australian boys have been treated royally in England and all the British know now that we can fight as well as they."

law itself will disappear of itself through familiarity with its use.

Something must be done, of course, to simplify the ballot, to discourage these enormous expenditures, to straighten out or remove this muddle over second choice votes. The law is much more likely to be amended than repealed.

There is not a particle more clamor against it today than there was against its enactment in the first place.

Such, at least, is the uniform experience of other states. Nobody who has tried direct primaries once is ever again contented to go back to the corrupt and oligarchic rule of boss-ridden conventions. Very few of these imperfections are beyond the reach of corrupt practice acts and the short ballot.

BIG TEMPERANCE RALLY IS PLANNED

A. C. W. Has Arranged an Extensive Program for Thursday Evening.

The Associated Christian Workers has arranged an extensive program for the big temperance rally to be given at the First M. E. church Thursday evening, March 23. A three reel motion picture entitled, "The Trials of Joseph in Egypt," has been secured from a house in Chicago and will be shown in connection with the program.

Several special musical features have been planned and each of the twenty-one societies of the city, which compose the association, will take some part in the program. This event promises to draw much interest and a record attendance is anticipated.

Preparations have already begun for the big Fourth of July parade and celebration, which was voted an annual affair. Many novelties will be introduced in the program this year. The celebration this year will be held at Lakeside park.

RID STOMACH OF GASES, SOURNESS AND INDIGESTION

"Pape's Diapensin" ends all stomach distress in five minutes.

You don't want a slow remedy when your stomach is bad—or an uncertain one—or a harmful one—your stomach is too valuable; you mustn't injure it with drastic drugs.

Pape's Diapensin is noted for its speed in giving relief; its harmless-ness; its certain unfailing action in regulating sick, sour, gassy stomachs. Its millions of cures in indigestion, dyspepsia, gastritis and other stomach troubles has made it famous the world over.

Keep this perfect stomach doctor in your home—keep it handy—get a large fifty-cent case from any drug store and then if anyone should eat something which doesn't agree with them; if what they eat lays like lead, ferments and sours and forms gas; causes headache, dizziness and nausea; eructations of acid and undigested food—remember as soon as Pape's Diapensin comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. Its promptness, certainty and ease in overcoming the worst stomach disorders is a revelation to those who try it.—Advertisement.

KISSING PAPA GOOD-BYE AS HE STARTS AFTER VILLA

ANOTHER DUNBOROUGH PICTURE FROM THE MEXICAN BORDER

An Earnest Plea Addressed to My Fellow Citizens

A number of high-minded Americans have incorporated in New York as "The Citizens' Committee for Food Shipments." Their object is to send milk to the suffering babies in Poland, Austria-Hungary and Germany. An appeal for aid having been sent out by this committee and brought to the attention of the members of the congregation of Emmanuel Lutheran church, a considerable amount of money was raised for this noble purpose. In addition to this, the Lutheran Children's Aid society of Indiana and Ohio has voted quite a large sum of money for this cause. All this money has been sent to Charles L. Schurz, the treasurer of the citizens' committee. On the 8th of this month, the executive chairman, Edmund von Mach, wrote me as follows:

Dear Friend: As a contributor to help relieve the condition of the babies in the central empires we feel that you will be interested in knowing the progress we are making in trying to get the right to ship condensed milk and milk powder to Germany, Austria-Hungary and Poland, with official assurance that it will not be stopped in transit.

The most logical way to accomplish this is through the kindly offices of the state department at Washington. We have stated the case clearly to President Wilson and Secretary of State Lansing. Mr. Lansing has yet to indicate that he has brought any pressure to bear upon the representatives of Great Britain to allow milk to go through.

Congressman Emerson, of Ohio, introduced a resolution calling upon the secretary of state to ask the allied powers to allow milk products to go to the babies in the central empires.

This resolution is now before the ways and means committee. A letter written by you and addressed to your senators and especially to your congressman telling them that you are interested in the Emerson resolution, will help us greatly.

The babies need milk. We can only get it through by arousing public opinion. You can help by writing to your congressman and by getting your friends to write to him. Congressmen

An Old, Family Cough Remedy, Home-Made

Easily Prepared—Costs Very Little, but is Prompt, Sure and Effective.

By making this pint of old-time cough syrup at home you not only save about $2, as compared with the ready-made kind, but you will also have a much more prompt and positive remedy in every way. It overcomes the usual cough, throat and chest colds in 24 hours—relieves even whooping cough quickly—and is excellent, too, for bronchitis, bronchial asthma, hoarseness and spasmodic croup.

Get from any drug store 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth), pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Full directions with Pinex. Keeps perfectly and tastes good.

You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business. It quickly loosens the dry, hoarse or painful cough and heals the inflamed membranes. It also has a remarkable effect in overcoming the persistent loose cough by stopping the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes.

The effect of Pinex on the membranes is known by almost every one. Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract combined with guaiac and other natural healing pine elements.

There are many worthless imitations of this famous mixture. To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex," and do not accept anything else.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

are elected to do things for the citizens in their districts, so do not hesitate to write him at once. If he is the right kind of a congressman he will be just as glad to get milk to the babies of the central empires as he is to help the babies of France, England or any country where babies are suffering.

Please send us the answers you receive. Very sincerely yours, Edmund von Mach, Executive chairman.

On this letter I base my request, and I feel that my request is fully justified since the American Red Cross has agreed to take the distribution of the milk among these suffering babies into its own hands. Thus the entire administration of this benevolent undertaking is under the protection of the stars and stripes. My request is this: Write to your congressman and ask them in the name of love and compassion to work for the adoption of the Emerson resolution. Surely the honor of our country and the dictates of humanity demand that our government should use its influence in order that the citizens of this country whose hearts have been touched by the plight of these poor babies may not be prevented from carrying out their humane plans.

That the distress of these little children is heart-rending may be seen from the words of Judge Ben Lindsey, of Denver, as they were reported by the New York Sun:

"More than 1,000,000 persons who never shouldered a rifle or heard the sound of cannon," said Judge Lindsey, "have died in Germany as a result of this war. I am told that more than one-half of those were babies. In many towns and cities of 30,000 or 40,000 in Poland there is not a baby alive under three years, and in many places not a child under ten years, so terrible has been the demand for milk."

Judge Lindsey told of traveling 1,000 miles in ten days in Germany, of the splendid food which he got at remarkably low prices, and of the apparent abundance of all the necessities of life, except milk and its derivative products. "I saw no signs," he said, "that the adults were suffering by the blockade of food supplies, but I did see many signs that the baby population was affected by the lack of milk."

"One of the most gripping scenes I ever witnessed, and one that I shall carry with me to my dying day, was the sight one day of a long line of mothers with tiny babies in their arms, waiting to be supplied with milk. I saw the splendid sanitary equipment and other arrangements for handling the milk bottles and caring for the milk, but I saw no milk. The supply for the day had given out and still there were hundreds of mothers' left in line who must pray for milk on the morrow, for milk to keep their babies alive. I saw the tear-stained faces of those mothers as they turned away, not knowing whether the little bit of life in their babies could be sustained until the morrow."

"There were scenes that made one's heartstrings tighten and made one want to get out and fight for the babies. It made one feel as if this war had degenerated into a war against babies, the poor, helpless things who have had nothing to do with the war and yet who must suffer. The Bible says something about the millstone that should be tied around the neck of a sinner, but I say that the great nations of the world that refuse to permit milk to go to the babies of any country should be weighed down by such a millstone."

"Everybody ought to be for the baby," continued Judge Lindsey with emphasis. "We plead for equal opportunities for the babies of all the nations. Never shall I forget the sight of the hundreds of women gathered in a room, who, having suckled their own babies, were nursing the babies of others, in the hope of saving these children from starvation until another day could bring new supplies of milk from the dairies."

"These are the things that bring a quill to a man's throat."

"We are trying to send milk to Germany, because in the territory controlled by the central powers, especially in Poland and Galicia, a great many babies are suffering and likely to die for want of just that milk."

"In our efforts to send this milk to the most innocent of non-combatants, we are meeting with opposition from the allies, and that is odd, when we remember how England and France and their friends have protested that, in contradiction to the policy of Germany, they would never, never, hurt a hair on the head of an enemy's child, nor ever, on grounds of military expediency, resort to a policy of frightfulness."

In conclusion, I would urge you once more to write to your representative in congress. You would not let a little child die upon your door-steps for the want of a cup of milk. To write a letter to your congressman will cost you less than the price of a cup of milk, and your letter may be the last one needed to set in motion the machinery which will lift the blockade sufficiently to let the milk get through.

I have tried to make you hear the cry of the hungry children in Poland, Austria-Hungary and Germany; may I not hope that in the kindness of your

OSSIAN NEWS.

Ossian, Ind., March 18.—Dr. I. N. Hatfield, of Bluffton, was in Ossian Thursday visiting with his mother, Mrs. Ann Hatfield, and his aunt, Mrs. Sarah Wilson.

The ladies of the U. B. church are making arrangements to hold an Easter bazaar on Thursday, April 20th, in the basement of the Presbyterian church. They will also serve a chicken supper that same evening.

The N. M. G. club was most pleasantly entertained at the country home of Mrs. Josephus Caston. The ladies were "motored" to the Caston place by John Woodward in the township school wagon. To roll call each lady responded with an Irish joke or story. The hostess conducted several contests. The pink and white candy hunt was won by Mrs. Clyde Hanna, and the animal contest by Mrs. Ferguson. Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: Mrs. A. C. Ferguson, president; Mrs. G. M. Way, vice president; Mrs. F. P. Quackenbush, secretary; Mrs. Frank McDowell, treasurer; Mrs. M. E. Spencer, press reporter. On Tuesday evening, March 29, the club will have an April Fool party at the home of Mrs. Quackenbush and the husbands will be guests. Mrs. Caston then served nine refreshments to the following: Mesdames M. E. Spencer, A. C. Ferguson, G. A. Bowman, F. E. Quackenbush, E. E. Hawley, John Hanna, J. V. Goshorn, John Woodward, Frank McDowell, G. M. Way and Mrs. Bertha Hoover and Mrs. Charles Caston, of Saratoga, who were guests of the club.

A. S. Elzey made a business trip to Montpelier Friday.

Miss Jennie East has returned home from Liberty Center, where she had been for a couple of weeks, caring for Mrs. James Frantz, who has been very critically ill.

Mrs. Frank K. Baker spent Friday visiting in Fort Wayne.

Miss Edith Hoover was in Fort Wayne Thursday to see her brother, L. C. Hoover, who is suffering from tubercular trouble. Mr. Hoover, who formerly lived in Ossian, is now confined to bed most of the time and is not improving any.

Mrs. Charles I. Weirich was hostess for the P. S. C. Square club Thursday evening. The ladies enjoyed a social time with their needlework and Mrs. Weirich served delicious refreshments. Those present were Mesdames Hazel Wilson, Oda Henline, Lavern Timbrook, Maud Seihart, Bessie Richey, Emma Vananda, Carrie Melching and Maude Poffenberger.

Mrs. Ellis Dishong entertained the U. B. Ladies' Aid Thursday afternoon. A pleasant social afternoon and dainty refreshments were enjoyed by Mesdames Joseph Elzey, William Parker, James Elzey, William King, John Caston, Lewis Hissom, Hanna Woodward, William Burns, Emory Burns, Frank Clark.

CHILD'S TONGUE BECOMES COATED IF CONSTIPATED

give "California Syrup
of Figs."

Children love this "fruit laxative," and nothing else cleanses the tender stomach, liver and bowels so nicely.

A child simply will not stop playing to empty the bowels, and the result is, they become tightly clogged with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sour, then your little one becomes cross, half-sick, feverish, don't eat, sleep or act naturally, breath is bad, system full of cold, has sore throat, stomach-ache or diarrhoea. Listen, Mother! See if tongue is coated, then give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs." and in a few hours all the constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the system, and you have a well, playful child again. Millions of mothers give "California Syrup of Figs" because it is perfectly harmless; children love it, and it never fails to act on the stomach, liver and bowels.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt. Advertisement.

U. S. AIR SQUADRON IS TO GET ITS FIRST REAL TEST IN MEXICO.

Capt. Foulois, in charge of the United States air squadron.

San Antonio, Texas, March 17. The U. S. air corps is to get its first real test in the invasion of Mexico and war officials are interested in the part the flying squadron will play in the chase over the mountains after Villa.

No American aero corps has ever had actual military service. Machines were sent to Vera Cruz and there has been aerial scouting along the border, but this is the first real experience for the "fourth arm" of the service.

Capt. Benjamin D. Foulois, commanding 10 officers who comprise the fliers of the squadron, with 80 troopers, completing the detachment, have prepared for departure.

Of the officers, several participated in the fight from Fort Sill, Okla., last November, when the squadron was transferred to Fort Sam Houston. They are Capt. Foulois and Lieutenants J. E.

Carberry, T. S. Bowen, L. A. Rader and C. C. Chapman.

Others in the squadron are Capt. T. A. Dobb and Lieutenants H. A. Dague, W. G. Correll, W. G. Kilner and R. B. Willis.

Capt. Foulois was with Orville Wright in the first cross-country flight in America of any consequence, that from Fort Meyer, Va., to Alexandria, in 1909.

The squadron is undermanned as its full complement should be 20 flying men. The equipment, in addition to the eight aeroplanes, consists of 20 heavy motor trucks and five motorcycles, the latter for the rapid transportation of gasoline and parts to crippled machines.

Biplanes equipped with motors of from 80 to 100 horsepower are used. Each machine weighs about 1,350 pounds and will carry 450 pounds, or an observer with each pilot.

Twenty-five aeroplanes and a quantity of ammunition will go forward with the motor trucks, it is understood.

WISP OF HAIR IS A GUIDE TO SOULMATE

Girls Find Way to Happiness in Marriage at Honolulu.

San Francisco, Cal., March 17.—An infallible way to happiness in marriage and insurance against divorce? That is the very interesting discovery made by his intended. The kahunas decide by secret rites whether the marriage will be happy or not. Of late years some of the Hawaiians have neglected the kahunas and for that reason marriages haven't turned out well.

"We are going to get our girl friends in Chicago to give us a sample of their hair, so that when we return to Hawaii in April we can tell them definitely whether they have picked their true soul-mates."

NEW HAVEN NEWS.

New Haven, Ind., March 18.—Mrs. Clove, Bolyura and daughter, Marjorie, of Fort Wayne, called on relatives here Friday.

Mrs. Mary Dowden, of Fort Wayne, visited friends here Friday.

The Christian Endeavor of the Methodist Protestant church, held their regular monthly business meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Blaising Tuesday evening. After the business session, music and games formed the amusement for the evening, after which dainty refreshments were served. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. John Hellworth, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Blaising, the Misses Hazel Killworth, Mae Lenhart, Gladys Bandler, Messrs. Carl McClure, Abbie McClure, Dean Froek, Marion Todd and Willis Miller.

Mrs. John Harper, east of town, is on the sick list.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Methodist Protestant church met at the parsonage Thursday afternoon, the hostesses being Mrs. E. B. Leach and Mrs. Fred Blaising.

Mr. and Mrs. Felix A. Blaising and son, Melville, were Sunday dinner guests at the home of Henry Snyder and family.

The W. C. T. U. met at the home of Mrs. Harry Zeddis Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. M. A. Mason led the devotional part of the meeting, after which there was a general discussion.

Mrs. Ida Seida, who has been the guest of relatives here for a few weeks, has returned to her home in Chicago.

Mrs. M. Grover and Mrs. M. Sturms will lead the Christian Endeavor meeting at the Methodist Protestant church Sunday evening.

Mrs. Shafer, of Beal City, Mich., returned home Thursday after several weeks' visit with relatives and friends of New Haven.

Mrs. John Ashley has as her guest her sister, Mrs. J. Roy, of Bluffton.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Habig, of Hometown, died Friday. Mrs. Habig will be remembered as Miss Crissie Hutson, formerly of New Haven.

Mr. and Mrs. James Lake and children, Marion and Etta Mae, spent the week-end with Mrs. Lake's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Kennison, east of town.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist Protestant church will meet with Mrs. Bert Froek next Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Wm. Haezlett is reported to be quite ill.

Mrs. W. E. Bowers will entertain the Battenberg club next Wednesday afternoon.

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.
Chicago, March 18.—European hints of peace possibilities brought about fresh declines today in wheat market here. Opening prices, which ranged from 14¢ to 14½¢ lower, with May at $1.06½ to $1.07½, and July at $1.05 to $1.05½, were followed by a slight rally, but then a down turn.

Closing prices were nervous, 1c to 1½¢ lower, with May at $1.06½, 1½¢ and July at $1.05½. Corn weakened with wheat. After opening ½¢ to 1½¢ down, the market showed but little power to rally. The market closed steady at 1c to 1½¢ net decline.

Oats took the same course as other cereals. Higher prices on hogs gave firmness to provisions.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, March 18.—Pressure was directed against some of the more active issues, particularly the war group, at the outset of today's trading, and continued with more or less effect to the end. American and Baldwin locomotives and the Motors and Metals as well as a few more obscure stocks yielded one to almost three points. These declines were partly counterbalanced by the strength of coal stocks, Norfolk & Western marking a new record on its advance of 2½ to 12½. Fertilizers and Distilling issues also rose appreciably and oils were again active at marked gains. A new low quotation of 7½ for marks excited comment in banking circles. The closing was irregular. Bonds were steady.

Irregular tendencies were indicated by the early course of prices in today's market, some substantial advances being partly offset by less material declines. Norfolk & Western was the chief feature, rising 1½ to 12½, a record quotation, in connection with rumors of an early increase in the dividend. Crude oil and Texas company were among the other strong issues at gain of one to two points. American Zinc fell a point and Mexican Petroleum yielded a substantial fraction, soon recovering, however, to above yesterday's high figure. Elsewhere changes were mostly unimportant, secondary quotations manifesting a lower trend.

WASHINGTON CLEARS VILLA CHASE ISSUE

consequently all fears for the safety of the colonists have been removed.

While the expedition has passed peacefully thus far into Mexico and the Carranza officials have shown every indication of both their willingness and ability to avoid friction, the tension along the Rio Grande has by no means relaxed. It is felt there that the real test will come when fighting with the Villista bandits actually starts. The lengthening lines of communication of the Americans, it is pointed out, is a tempting bait for raids by guerrillas. The refugees who through the border towns are especially impatient that the first bloodshed will be the signal for serious trouble. However, thus far the border is very peaceful.

REFUSAL RAISES DOUBT.

Pershing May Not Insist on Entering City of Casas Grandes.

San Antonio, Tex., March 18.—Gen. Gaviña's reported refusal to permit the American troops pursuing Francisco Villa to enter the Mexican town of Casas Grandes revived doubt at Fort Sam Houston of the full co-operation of the de facto forces. The announcement of Gen. Gaviña, commandant at Juarez, that American troops had arrived at the outskirts of Casas Grandes and planned to enter during the night was the first news received from Diaz. Fustion that the punitive force had reached that far south. The speed with which the advance force was being pushed indicated an average march of about thirty miles a day. What Gen. Pershing intended to do in answer to the refusal of the Mexican commander to allow him to enter or pass through Casas Grandes was not known to headquarters, but it was not regarded as probable that he would make an issue of the point.

Gen. Pershing, it was believed here, would be content to remain beyond the city limits of the town unless the presence of troops within the town for the protection of the Americans living there seemed advisable. The last reports from Gen. Pershing revealed no clashes with Mexicans and did not indicate the exact location of Villa. It is believed he is in the mountains of the Galeana district and that he will continue his shifting flight without offering formal resistance, perhaps for many days.

Pershing to Decide.

Whether the American troops that arrived last night at Casas Grandes should enter the town or not is for Gen. Pershing to decide. Gen. Fustion announced today, "unless otherwise instructed by the war department."

Gen. Fustion is disposed not to interfere with the details of Gen. Pershing's operations.

That Gen. Pershing is personally with the troops reported to have arrived at Casas Grandes was doubted here. It was considered more likely the force halted there in a cavalry detachment sent forward by Gen. Pershing under Col. Slocum or possibly Col. Dodd's force.

Kruyer, Frank Mayer, sr., Patrick A. Josten and Charles Conley.

The Shively family was small and it was necessary for many of the out-of-town friends to remain outside of the house.

Business Suspended.

Agreeable to a proclamation issued by Mayor W. F. Keller, of South Bend, and Mayor Ralph Gaylor, of Mishawaka, business in the two cities was suspended during the hours of the funeral.

Throughout the morning several thousand of the senator's friends passed by the funeral bier, which was surrounded by a wealth of floral tributes, including remembrances of President Wilson, Vice President Marshall, Gov. Ralston, United States senators, representatives in congress, fraternal organizations and countless friends. Immediately after the funeral the congressional and state delegations returned to their homes by special trains.

STATE OFFICES CLOSED.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 18.—Governor Ralston and about twenty-five other state officials departed from here early today for South Bend to attend the funeral of United States Senator J. F. Shively this afternoon. The party had a special car attached to the train that reaches South Bend shortly after noon. All state offices were closed here today.

Included in the party were former Vice President Charles W. Fairbanks and Thomas Taggart, democratic national committeeman, who has been mentioned repeatedly as the man Gov. Ralston will appoint to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Shively.

According to a census bureau estimate 30 per cent of the deaths in the United States are due to heart disease, tuberculosis and pneumonia and more than 60 per cent of the Argentine railways, about 20,000 miles, are managed by European engineers.

A lighthouse on an island in the British channel has been equipped with a telephone, so that shipping men can land and converse with persons on the mainland.

Prizes in The Sentinel horseshoe pitching contest to be held the latter part of next month are announced as follows:

First Prize, singles—To be announced later.
Second Prize, singles—A Two & Two hat, presented by Two & Two.
First Prize, doubles—A $5 umbrella, presented by Kaplan & Greenbaum.
An $8.50 sweater—Presented by Kratzsch & Schroeder.
Second Prize, doubles—A high grade cash lamp by Fort Wayne Sporting Goods company.
Fifty tickets to the Grand theater.
In addition there may be special prizes offered at a later date.

Entries in The Sentinel horseshoe contest are coming in faster each day and by the time the contest is to be pulled off there undoubtedly will be hundreds of players lined up. Players are requested, for the sake of convenience, to register early, and blanks are to be found on this page. The rules governing the contest will be published in Wednesday's Sentinel. They have been gone over and O'K'd by a number of the city's most expert horseshoe pitchers, and although there are slight differences of opinion, the rules adopted were chosen because they came more nearly to the general understanding than did any others.

FRANK MORAN HAS ANOTHER BIRTHDAY

Fighter Receives Many Congratulatory Messages Wishing Success.

New York, March 15.—Frank Moran, who is to meet the world's champion heavy-weight in a ten-round bout here one week from tonight, is 29 years old today. He received many congratulatory birthday messages expressing wishes for his success. Moran took matters easy yesterday but was early on the road this morning for his regular run of over four miles. He will box five or six rounds this afternoon in addition to his usual gymnasium work but wishes to take on a few pounds in weight before the day of the contest. Today he weighed 202 pounds. Willard, after confining himself to light exercises and six rounds of boxing yesterday, was out this morning for a run of three miles. He is in splendid condition and confident that Moran will not cause him much trouble. This afternoon Jess will take on three of his sparring partners for two rounds each, and will ask them to follow with an extra round apiece. He says he will have no difficulty in getting under 250 pounds, and shows excellent effects of his work so far.

Mars has no rain or clouds.

"ALWAYS CORRECT CLOTHES" "BUT NEVER COMMONPLACE"

Distinction without the sacrifice of dignity—that is the first requisite of every suit or overcoat we make. We know that the American of today demands apparel of character and simplicity.

To conceive and present distinctive styles for men has been our business for years, and here you will find the newest and most correct modes.

And we will continue to bring out the new things—and will discard the old.

JACK SHEEHAN TO MANAGE WINNEPEG.

Jack Sheehan, former Fort Wayne third sacker, has been signed to manage Winnipeg in the Northern league. Sheehan went big here. He was taken on by Milwaukee toward the end of last season, and had planned to play in the American association city this summer. However, the Milwaukee management saw managerial ability in the young chap and got him the job as boss of the Brits.

FEDS ISSUE DEFINITIVE TO ANY "CITY TEAM"

But Bar Out of Town Players Who Are Not Members.

The Lyceum Federal basketballs Saturday morning issued the following challenge:

In order to decide the basketball championship of the city for the current season the Lyceum Federals hereby challenge any city team to engage in a game or series of games for the title, the games to be played the week following the Lyceum's state championship contest Saturday, March 25.

The statement has been made repeatedly that the Federals were claiming the championship of the city, and, with a view to settling whatever doubt may have arisen on that score, the Lyceum wish it understood that no such claims emanated from their headquarters. The team has been content to let the question of supremacy remain unsettled until a series of games with city players participating should decide whose claims were to be honored, and to this end our definition is issued. Should this challenge go unaccepted the Lyceum will claim the city championship.

We feel that attention should be called to the fact that the Lyceum team is the only first-class organization in the basketball field this year whose players are Fort Wayne boys, and to the further fact that the Fed players are members of the Lyceum Athletic association, a bona fide organization, whose principal object is the promotion of athletics among the young men of the city. Several other teams purporting to represent Fort Wayne organizations have been hiring out of town players to fill out their lineups (in most cases players who have regular positions on other teams), and the Lyceum deny the right and propriety of these teams to enter a city title series. Should any organization desire to enter its own players or combine with any other organization to put a city team on the floor, the Lyceum Federals stand ready to play for the championship of Fort Wayne. Respectfully, J. H. McKEENE, Manager Basketball Department Lyceum Athletic association.

The management of the St. Mary's team announces that it will answer the challenge of the Fed and will dispute the right of the Federals to insist on "players who are members of the clubs they represent." According to them Miller, of the Fed, last year was a member of the St. Mary's Athletic club, and Vonderhaar has no right to the claim that he is a Lyceum member because he was a Precious Blood church member. The St. Mary's claim that they can take their players into their club on the same basis the Fed took theirs in, and that at least two Fed players are outsiders and professionals to the same extent the St. Mary's are professionals.

There has been some talk of late of the Friars going into the building to be erected where the bus barn is. If they do their gymnasium and basketball floor and all the gym equipment planned should make the club so popular that a fee large enough to pay for the upkeep could be charged. There are some who feel that a Y. M. C. A. would kill the enterprise, but even if one were built it is a safe bet the Friar gym would hold its own.

The 4,000 bowlers gathered for the A. B. C. meet at Toledo ought to make great headway against Villa if the dodo ball were legalized.

The St. Paul's girls by defeating the New Haven Cardinals the other night proved that they are pretty well in a class by themselves for the Cards have been their only title contenders in this section.

The bill to legalize boxing in Kentucky flat, thereby limiting sport in the blue grass country to horse racing, draw and three-fingers.

It has been said baseball hastens civilization. Comiskey once took his White Sox to Mexico. Now look at the place.

President Mart Cleary is still having his troubles in the shop league. He seems to be unable to stir up enough pep and enough money to make the stuff go. It may be necessary to take the Turners in after all to fill out.

Should the other contest in the horseshoe pitching tournament get well under way The Sentinel may play for boys of 15 and under with a special prize. It probably will require a ten-acre field to accommodate the contestants if the boys get started.

GIRL PLAYS CHESS WITH MEN FOLK ON VARSITY TEAM.

Cincinnati, O., March 18.—For the first time in the history of intercollegiate chess in this country a girl chess player figures in the lineup of a varsity team representing the University of Cincinnati. This unusual player is Miss Jessie Bogen, Ohio champion at chess. With her brother, E. Bogen, who heads the team, while she plays at the fourth board, she is in charge of one of the six games which have been started by correspondence with Harvard university.

SAINTS MEET WORLD BEATING CHICAGO WEST SIDE Y. M. C. A. TEAM TONIGHT

The St. Mary's five is on its marks for a regular go tonight when it runs into the Chicago West Side Y. M. C. A. Browns. The Browns are coming loaded with some of the best men in the Windy city, and the Saints will use their regular line-up against them.

The Chicago team has by far the classiest aggregation that has appeared here this winter, and defeated the Lyceum Fed in such style that the south siders have no inclination for the return match. The St. Mary's took the Chicago boys on because the Fed refused to play a city title series and hope by comparison to show that they put up a better game than the Fed.

The St. Patrick's Aetolians and the St. Paul's Nationals will meet in the preliminary in the city's amateur title clash. Seats for nearly 2,000 people have been installed at the Concordia gym and the game ought to be a great one, with one of the largest houses of the winter.

The preliminary starts at 8:15 and the big game an hour later, and the place is the Concordia gym. Ritter will referee the big game and Miller the preliminary.

ANOTHER BOXER IS KILLED IN RING

Manly Art Responsible for Another Death in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, March 18.—Andrew Crowley, a featherweight professional boxer of this city, was almost instantly killed in a bout with Mike Malone, also of Philadelphia. Death, according to the police, was caused by a blow on the larynx in the third round. Up to this point the bout had been on even terms. Then Malone staggered Crowley with a right to the jaw and followed it with a stinging blow to the throat. Crowley dropped to the floor and died a few minutes later. Physicians say he was choked to death as a result of the blow on his throat.

Law Bailey, manager of the club, was arrested and later released on his recognizance, while Malone and his six seconds were locked up. The bout was to have gone six rounds.

ILLINOIS MAY TAKE FOUR FIRST PLACES

Close Scores Expected in Indoor Track Meet at Evanston.

Chicago, March 18.—Points scored for second, third and fourth places are likely to prove the deciding factors in the battles for leading honors in the conference indoor track meet at Evanston tonight. On past performances the race should be a neck and neck contest between Wisconsin and Illinois, with Chicago a third choice and Purdue a possible contender. If the athletes run true to form displayed in dual meets this season so far Illinois should take four first places, Wisconsin three and Chicago two, with one in doubt. In their dual meet Wisconsin defeated Illinois by a narrow margin and the Badgers have a team well enough fortified to pick up a lot of smaller points.

In the fifty yard dash, bound to be a close event, Smith, of Wisconsin, is considered the most likely to win first place. Amos, of Illinois, is practically conceived victory in the 60-yard hurdles, in view of his world record in the 50 made at Notre Dame last month. Dismond, the Chicago quarter miler, is granted first place in the 440 by the critics.

If Mike Mason enters both mile and the two mile run and has recovered his health Illinois is practically sure of first place. The pole vault will likely prove a duel between Illinois and Wisconsin.

Chicago's fast relay quartet ought to outdistance its competitors, with Wisconsin coming close behind.

OHIO BOYS DEFEAT CONCORDIA JUNIORS

Hotly Contested Game is Won by Napoleon Team by Score of 57 to 56.

In an exciting game of basketball last evening at the Concordia gymnasium, the Vandenbrack five of Napoleon, O., defeated the Concordia Juniors by one point, the final score being 57 to 56. The game was hard fought every inch of the way but was clean throughout. The scores and lineups follow:

Napoleon, 57—Farison, R. F.; Armstrong; L. P.; Hollinger, C.; Kime, R. G.; Rakestraw, L. G.

Concordia, 56—Henrichs, R. F.; Gremel, L. F.; Schill, C.; Dorn, R. G.; Metzford, L. G.

Field goals—Henrichs, 7; Gremel, 8; Schill, 4; Metzford, 1; Farison, 1; Armstrong, 6; Hollinger, 16; Kime, 4; Rakestraw, 2.

Foul goals—Henrichs, 10; Hollinger, 1. Referee—Brommer.

WHAT CHALLENGERS WERE PAID.
Moran got $21,000 besides 50 per cent of the movie rights for boxing Willard. Papke got $1,500 to fight Ketchel, who received $3,500.
Volgast got $2,500 to fight Nelson, who received $14,000.
Willard got nothing to fight Johnson, who received $50,000. Willard left Havana owing $10,175.
Johnson got $5,000 to fight Burns, who received $26,000.
Jeffries got $2,500 to fight Fitzsimmons, who received $40,000.
Kid Williams got $1,000 to fight Coulon, and gave Coulon $1,000.
Rittelle got $2,000 to fight Volgast, who received $15,000.
Fitzsimmons got $1,000 to fight Dempsey for the middleweight title.
Willard was guaranteed $17,000 for his end against Moran.

HOW EXPERTS VIEW "HEAVY" FIGHT.

Jim Corbett—Willard by a mile. Moran's chance slim.
Strangler Lewis—Moran hasn't a chance to win.
Dad Hawkins—Moran to cop. Jess never beat star.
Joe Chynski—Willard to win. Don't look for K. O.
Jim Jeffries—Moran hasn't a chance to stop Jess.
Bob Fitzsimmons—Willard has every advantage. He'll win.
Tom Sharkey—Size don't count. Moran will score K. O.
Sam Harris—Moran for mine. He carries the punch.
Billy Roca—Willard is not in condition. Moran has chance.
George Considine—I can only see Willard.
Billy Gibson—Moran, the better fighter, should win.

TACKS GETS EVEN WITH UNCLE BILL

by JOE FARRIN

I GUESS YOU'RE RIGHT, BILL!

RIGHT! YOU CAN BET I'M RIGHT! IT'S AN OUTRAGE TO ALLOW TERRY TO GO TO SCHOOL AND HIM NOT BEING VACCINATED!

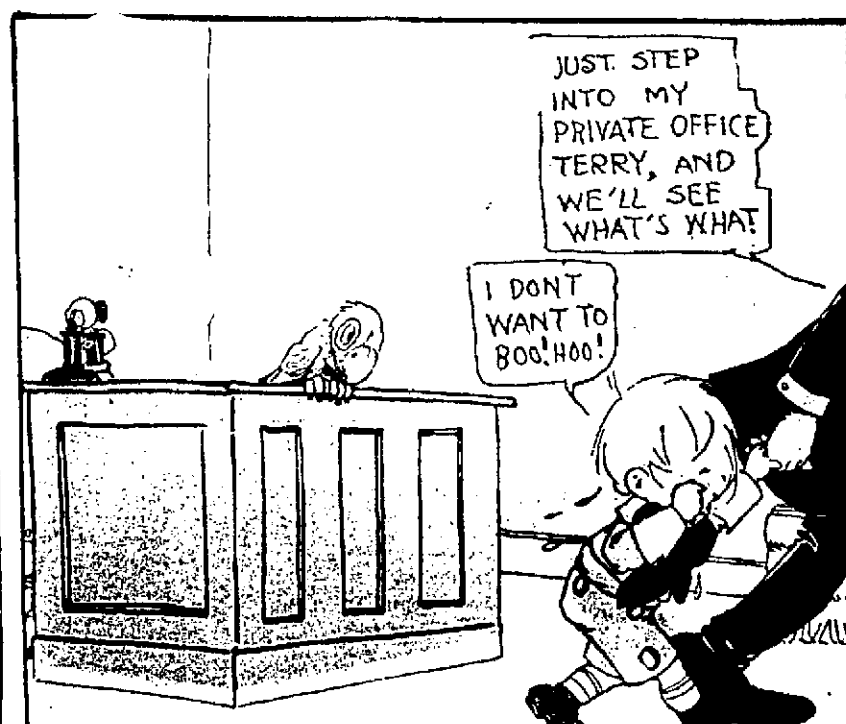

WONDER IF THAT'S SOMETHIN' TO EAT

WELL, TERRY MY BOY, WHAT'S THE TROUBLE?

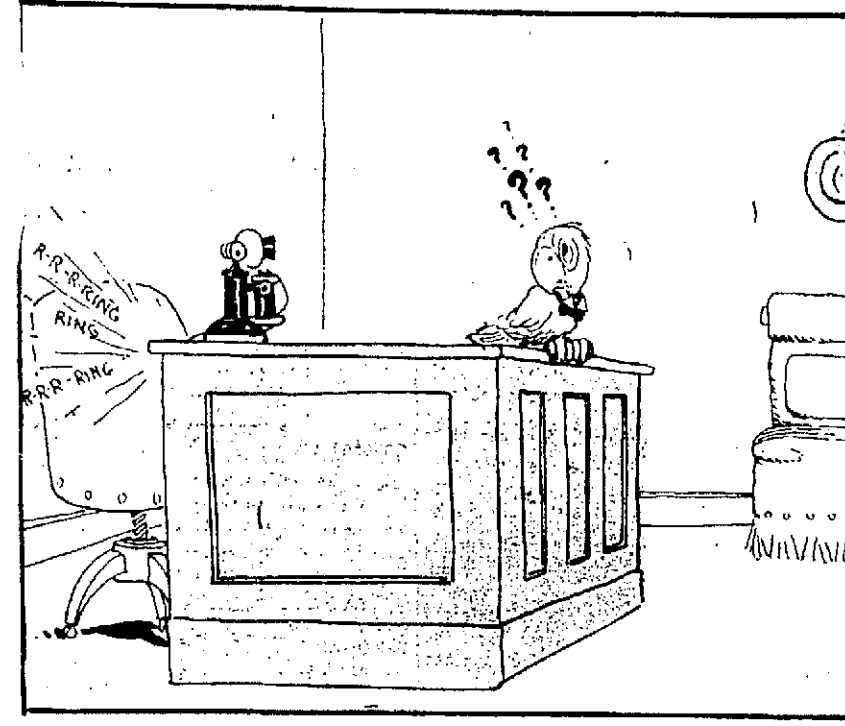

BOO! HOO! MY FATHER WANTS YOU TO VAX-- AX-X-X

DON'T TELL HIM, TERRY, YOU DON'T KNOW WHAT IT IS!

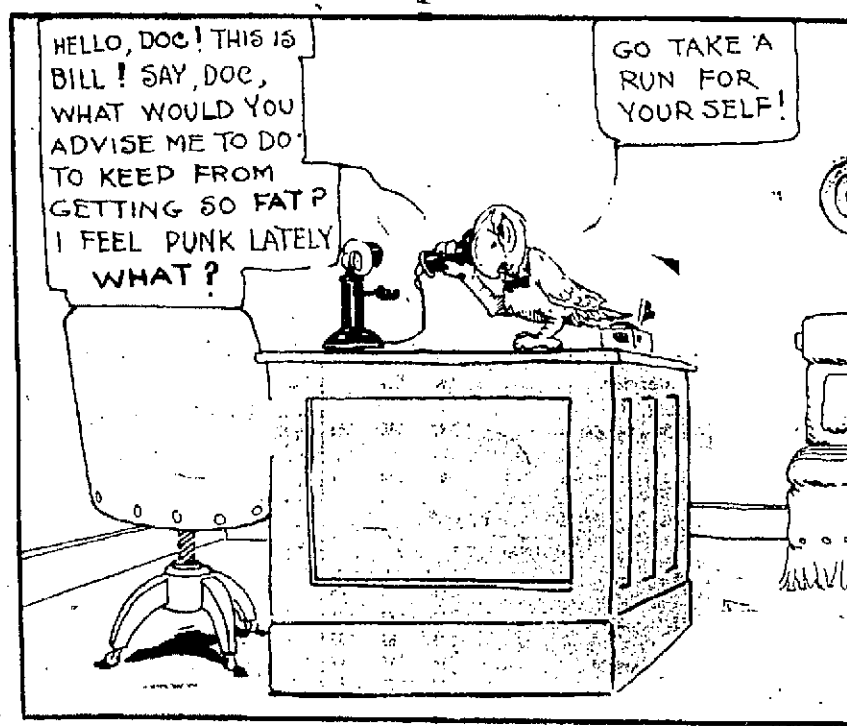

JUST STEP INTO MY PRIVATE OFFICE TERRY, AND WE'LL SEE WHAT'S WHAT!

I DON'T WANT TO BOO! HOO!

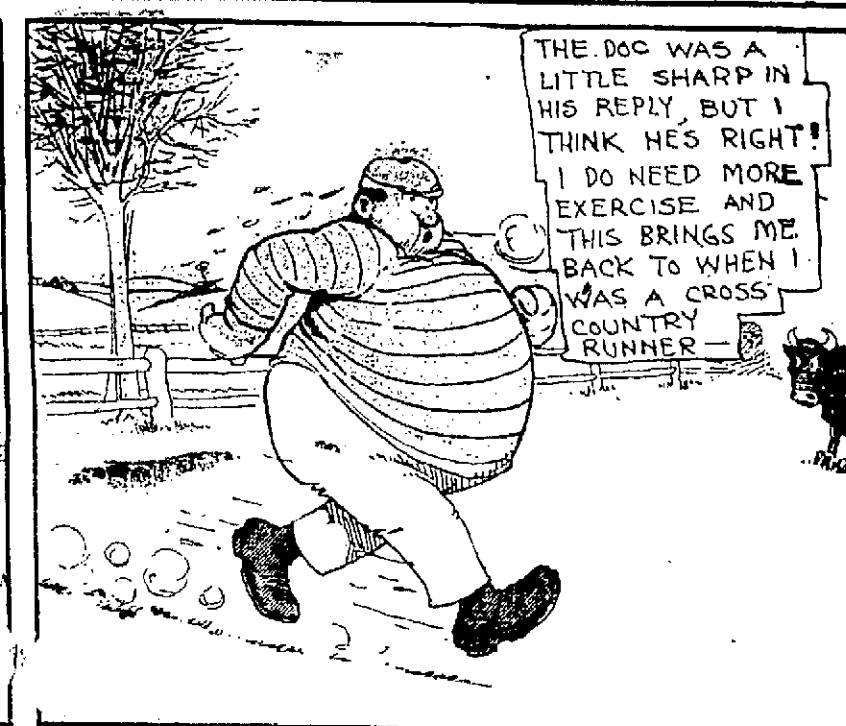

R-R-RING RING

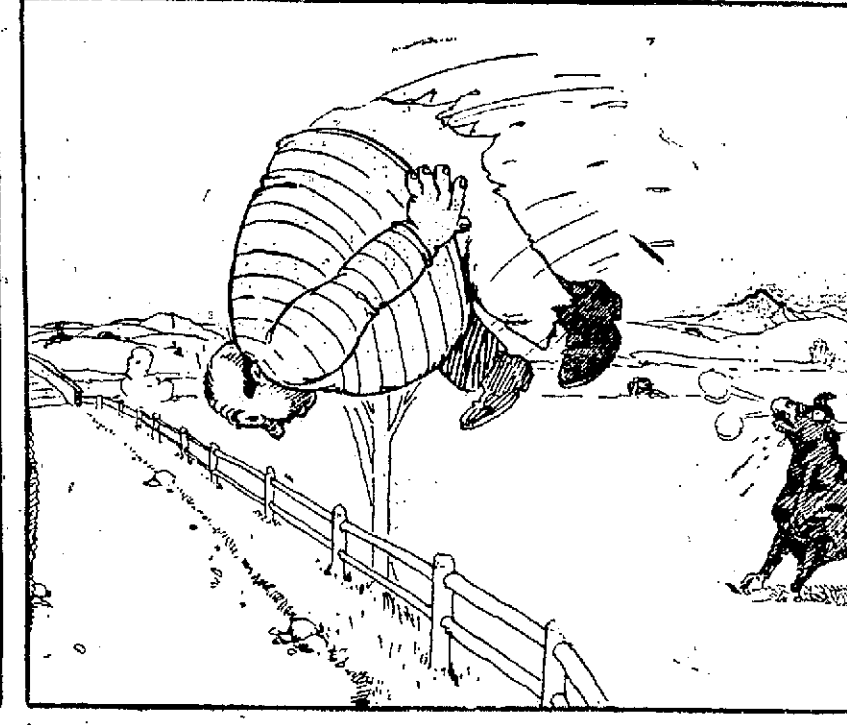

HELLO, DOC! THIS IS BILL! SAY, DOC, WHAT WOULD YOU ADVISE ME TO DO TO KEEP FROM GETTING SO FAT? I FEEL PUNK LATELY WHAT?

GO TAKE A RUN FOR YOURSELF!

THE DOG WAS A LITTLE SHARP IN HIS REPLY, BUT I THINK HE'S RIGHT! I DO NEED MORE EXERCISE AND THIS BRINGS ME BACK TO WHEN I WAS A CROSS COUNTRY RUNNER--

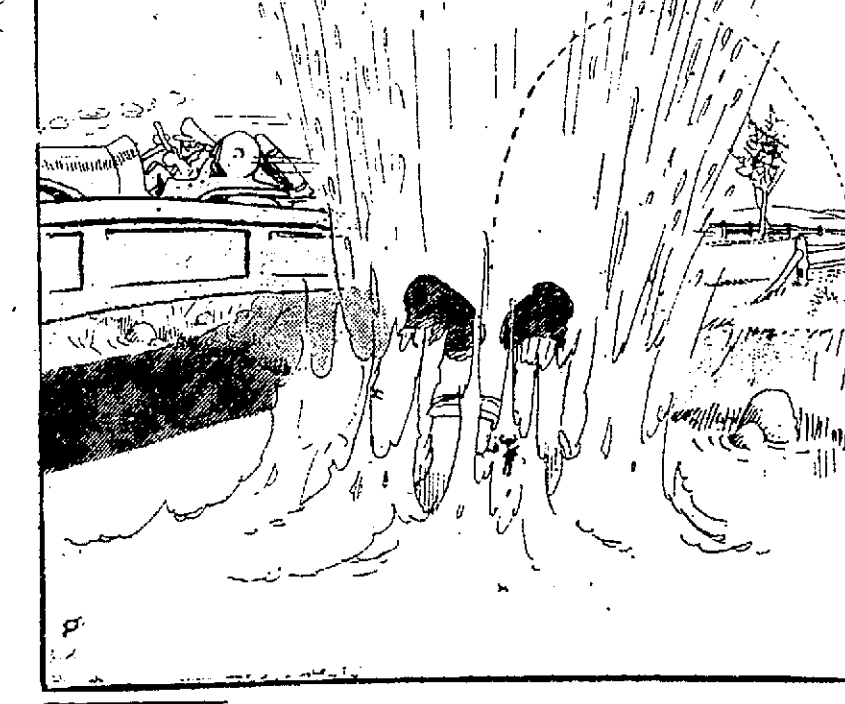

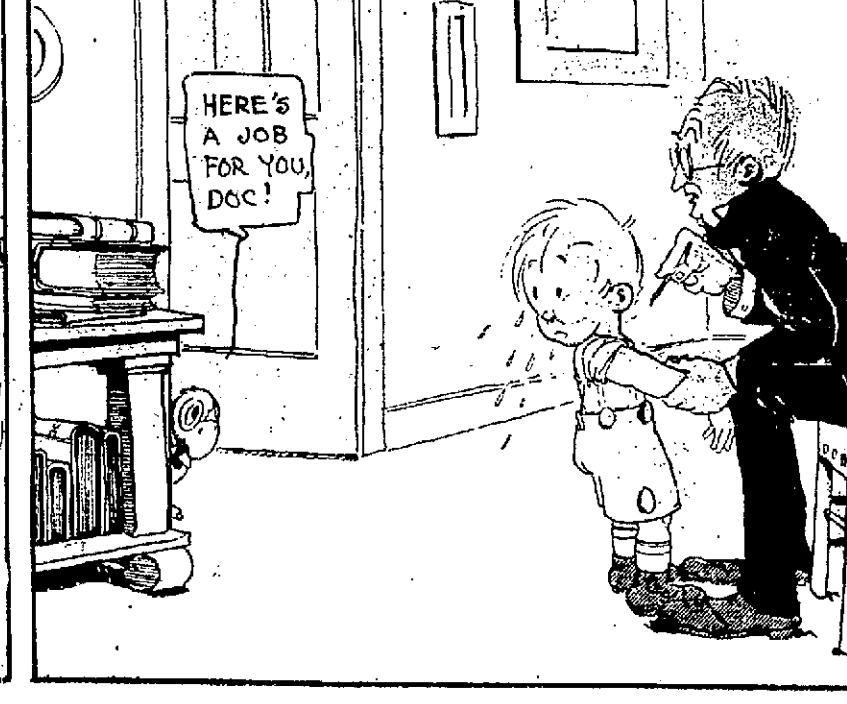

OOF! YOU INFERNAL BEAST! I'LL GET A GUN AND--

HONK! HONK!

HERE'S A JOB FOR YOU, DOC!

I WON'T BE ABLE TO VACCINATE YOU TODAY, TERRY, AS I'VE GOT TO GIVE YOUR UNCLE BILL MY FULL ATTENTION

IT IS TO LAUGH!

Fort Wayne Prepares for Coming of Vast Throng of Methodists Soon

North Indiana Conference of Methodist Episcopal Church Comes to Ft. Wayne March 29 to April 2 After Lapse of Forty-two Years--Bishop McDowell to Preside Over Sessions of Six Hundred Preachers and Laymen--Conference Was Organized in Fort Wayne in 1844--Something About the Big Gathering

Fort Wayne will entertain the biggest church gathering in the state during the week of March 27, when the seventy-third session of the North Indiana Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church will be held in this city. It will be the first time in forty-two years that Fort Wayne has had this honor, the last Methodist Episcopal conference having been held here in 1874.

The annual conference of the Methodist Episcopal church is a big event in which Methodists throughout the entire northern part of Indiana and extending as far south as Richmond, are greatly interested. It is at these conferences that the pastors are assigned and every Methodist is vitally concerned as to who his next pastor is to be. The entire business of the year is transacted and plans for the ensuing year are outlined.

The Methodist Episcopal church is a wonderful organization. Not only is it true in a religious way, but its system of government is regarded as one of the greatest of any religious body in the world.

True, the Methodists play politics, but it is the clean and wholesome kind. The political activities of the members in trying to get this or that particular pastor to retain the one they already have, adds interest to the church and makes its members all the more active and alive to their responsibilities and obligations.

Prominent Speaker is on Program

PROF. LYNN HAROLD HOUGH, D. D., Who Will Deliver the Evangelistic Addresses.

Organized in Fort Wayne.

The North Indiana conference was organized in Fort Wayne, October 16 to 21, 1844, with Bishop Waugh presiding and Matthew Simpson as secretary. Matthew Simpson later became a bishop and was one of the most distinguished of the Methodist church has ever had. No church ever produced a greater or a more polished orator. Simpson M. E. church, in this city, is named in memory of him.

Four conferences have been held in Fort Wayne. After the organization of the conference in 1844 it did not meet here again until September 22 to 28, 1862, in the old Berry street M. E. church, which stood on the ground now occupied by the Anthony hotel. The conference came to the same church April 10 to 15, 1902, and the fourth time in this city at the Wayne street M. E. church, April 1 to 6, 1914.

REV. H. L. OVERDEER,
Simpson Church.

REV. C. CLAUD TRAVIS,
Wayne Street Church.

REV. T. M. HILL,
Trinity Church.

REV. F. H. CREMEAN,
St. Paul Church.

Change to the Spring.

The conferences for the first few years were in the fall, but in 1856 this was changed and since that time they have been held in the spring.

The conference comprises six districts classified as the Fort Wayne district, Goshen district, Logansport district, Muncie district, Richmond district and Wabash district.

There are five Methodist Episcopal churches in Fort Wayne and they all united at the last conference, held in Auburn, in extending an invitation to meet here in 1914, which was accepted. To entertain a conference with such a large membership is no small undertaking. Local members of each of the five churches, however, and others have opened their homes to take care of the 600 to 700 visitors that will be here. The visitors will be given their lodging and breakfast free.

Bishop William F. McDowell, D. D., who will preside over the conference and who will assign the pastors for the ensuing year, will be entertained during the conference week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Doud, 523 West Wayne street.

Where Committees Meet.

The various committees will meet at the following places:

Cabinet sessions at the parsonage of Wayne street church, 711 West Wayne street.

Committee on general qualifications at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Prosser, 536 West Wayne street.

Statistical committee at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Askew, 800 West Wayne street.

Committee on conference relations at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Coverdale, 1015 West Wayne street.

Conference secretary and his assistants will have their office in the study of the church.

Conference treasurer and his assistants will have an office in the Old National bank.

Conference board of stewards will have an office in the First National bank.

Several Changes Expected.

Several changes in the local Methodist churches are expected. It is said Rev. Hill will probably leave Trinity church and Rev. Cremean St. Paul's church. Where they will be assigned and who will take their places here, of course, is not known.

While the congregation of the First M. E. church of Muncie is making a strong bid for Rev. Travis, of the Wayne street church, and will come to the conference prepared to put forth every effort to secure him, the Wayne street congregation is not ready to give him up. He has expressed the wish to remain here another year. Rev. H. L. Overdeer, who has served the Simpson church for one year, will be returned, it is thought.

Mentioned for Superintendent.

Rev. Guild of the First church, is being prominently mentioned for district superintendent to succeed Rev. J. A. Beatty, who has served as superintendent of the Fort Wayne district for six years, the limit under the Methodist rule. Rev. Beatty is certain to be transferred as is also Rev. C. E. Line, superintendent of the Muncie district. He has served for a period of six years.

No other changes are contemplated among the district superintendents, who are as follows: Rev. J. A. Beatty, Fort Wayne district; Rev. Raymond J. Wade, Goshen district; Rev. B. S. Hollopeter, Logansport district; Rev. Charles E. Line, Muncie district; Rev. Somerville Light, Richmond district; and Rev. M. S. Marble, Wabash district.

Fairbanks Is Coming.

Among the distinguished visitors who are coming will be Hon. Charles W. Fairbanks, former vice president of the United States and prominently mentioned for the republican nomination for president. He will address the conference on Wednesday afternoon, Hon. Winfield T. Durbin, ex-governor of Indiana, and A. B. Cline, of Bluffton, are on the program.

An admission fee will be charged on Friday evening when Bishop McDowell will lecture on "The Life and the Bible." A musical entertainment, which promises to be one of the treats of the conference will be given by the Wayne street church quartet, composed of Mrs. Clara Zellars Bond, Miss Ethel Doul, Earl Thompson and Clint Willson. The money realized on this night will go to help defray the expenses of the conference.

Auto Tour Arranged.

Through the courtesy of the Fort Wayne Real Estate exchange the conference guests will be taken for an automobile tour of the city on Saturday afternoon. Bishop Joseph C. Hartzell will speak Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the First church and at 8:15 at the Wayne street church. The con-

THE BISHOP'S GREETING

Bishop William F. McDowell, D. D. LL. D., who will preside at the Fort Wayne session, sends his most affectionate greetings to the Conference and this old English homily as a key note for the session of the Conference and for the year:

"Therefore, dearly beloved, let us not forget this exceeding love of our Lord and Saviour. Let us confess Him with our mouths, praise Him with our tongues, believe on Him with our hearts, and glorify Him with our good works. Christ is the Light; let us reveal the Light. Christ is the Truth; let us believe the Truth. Christ is the Way; let us follow the Way. And because He is our only Master, our only Teacher, our only Shepherd and Chief Captain, let us become His scholars, His soldiers, His sheep, His servants. * * * Let us receive Christ not for a time, but forever; let us believe His word not for a time, but forever; let us become His servants not for a time, but forever, considering that He hath redeemed us not for a time, but forever, and will receive us into His Heavenly kingdom, then, to reign with Him, not for a time, but forever."

anniversaries of the board of education and Freedman's Aid society will be celebrated. The session will end on Monday, April 3, at which time the assignments will be announced.

The ladies of the Wayne street church will serve dinner and supper to the delegates each day at the West Jefferson street Church of Christ.

Local Committees.

The local conference committees follow: Program and assignment of places to delegates; district superintendent of Fort Wayne district and the pastors of the Fort Wayne churches.

Entertainment of conference delegates: Rev. C. Claud Travis, Mrs. Stewart Rehner, Mrs. Fred Fry, Mrs. G. A. Weber, Mrs. C. P. Struthers, and committee.

NATIVE OF LAGRANGE DIES AT 76.

Lagrange, Ind., March 18.—Daniel Harding, seventy-six years old, is dead on the old Harding farm homestead, a mile south of Lagrange, in Bloomfield township, where he was born.

Mr. Harding leaves two daughters, Elsie and Jennie, both at home, and one sister, Mrs. Eliza Dragoon. Mr. Harding was the son of Curtis and Amy Harding, who were among the earliest of the pioneers of the county, coming from the east and settling on the farm where their son died long before clearing had been made and while the Indians were yet following the old trails through the unbroken forests.

NEWS OF FORT WAYNE'S NEIGHBORS

ALBION CAPITALIST DIES.

Richard L. Stone, Native of County and Veteran of War, is Called.

Albion, Ind., March 18.—Richard L. Stone, a native of Noble county, a veteran of the civil war, widely known as a merchant, stock buyer and capitalist, and one of the most prominent citizens in this region, is dead at his home here following a prolonged illness. Bright's disease was the immediate cause of his death. He had been unconscious practically all of the time for ten days preceding his demise. Mr. Stone was born in Sparta township, Noble county, and was just past 74 years old. His parents were among the early pioneers of the county. He enlisted in company N, Second Indiana cavalry, early in the civil war and served three years and two months, participating in many engagements. At the close of the war he came to Albion and not long after was engaged in the drug business, which pursuit he followed until about four years ago. He also had been for thirty-five years engaged in the grain and seed and livestock business. In all of his business activities he was capable and successful and amassed a fortune. Mr. Stone was twice married— in 1869 to Miss Anna Matthews, who died twelve years ago, and in 1896 to Martha Hitler, who passed away two years ago. By his first wife he was the father of five children—a daughter, Fannie, who died in 1903, and the sons, Clare D. and Harry D., both now residing in Chicago, and Merle T. and Frank W., who are residents of Detroit. The funeral will be held at the late residence of the deceased in this city Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, in charge of the Albion lodge of Odd Fellows, of which he was a pioneer member. Rev. O. W. Bowen will conduct the services.

DEKALB VETERAN PASSES.

Auburn, Ind., March 18.—Joseph Lattin, aged 75 years, for sixty-five years a resident of Dekalb county and a civil war veteran of the Eighty-eighth Indiana volunteers and former postmaster at Auburn, died at his home in this city Friday afternoon. Creeping paralysis was the cause of death. Mr. Lattin was born in October, 1841, in Columbiana county, Ohio, and was brought to Dekalb county by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Levi B. Lattin, in 1850, the family settling at Newville. With his regiment he participated in many of the important battles of the civil war and in July, 1864, he was seriously wounded in a skirmish. He reached the rank of lieutenant. After the war he went to Illinois, where for a time he followed the trade of a mason, and was married there to Malinda Camfield. They came here in 1874. Mr. Lattin engaged in the mercantile business, until 1870, when he was appointed postmaster, serving until 1882.

FIRE LOSS AT FARM HOME.

Columbia City, Ind., March 18.—Hamilton Batz, of Elletts township, lost his smokehouse and summer kitchen when both caught fire and burned to the ground. Mr. Batz was smoking his summer meat and also had his lard in the smokehouse. He started the smoke fire and went about his other work, later going to the Fisher-Bowling sale near his home. While at the sale the smokehouse caught fire and was burning when notified from the Fisher farm. Mr. Batz and others ran to the scene of the fire and upon arriving there found that the summer kitchen was also on fire. Both buildings were burned to the ground, although Mr. Batz and his neighbors saved the greater part of the goods stored in the summer kitchen. Mr. Batz figures that he lost $100 worth of meat and lard in the fire outside of the loss of the two buildings.

THINKS FIRE PUSSY'S NOISE

Huntington, Ind., March 18.—The central fire department made a run to the home of George Brown, 832 North Lafayette street about 8:30 o'clock in the evening, and quelled a fire which was blazing merrily when the teams arrived. The pantry and cellarway were in flames. The firemen made quick work of it and in a few minutes all signs of fire had disappeared. The damage was not great although the blaze had gained good headway. Mr. Brown stated that while he was reading he had heard a scratching and a crackling for about twenty minutes but thought it was a cat on the roof of the adjoining summer kitchen. It was not until he smelled smoke that he grew suspicious and discovered the fire.

INSANE MAN ARRESTED.

Wabash, Ind., March 18.—Becoming violently insane and stating to Claude Weiner, of Vernon, that he owned the stock in Weiner's barn, an unknown stranger was picked up by Sheriff Coble after he had been sent for by residents of the vicinity who had become alarmed at the stranger's actions. When questioned at the jail, the only knowledge that he would impart was that his name was "Puddin' Tane." From papers found in the wild man's possession it is thought that his name is James Teeter with residence at Lagrange. Later Sheriff Coble received word from the sheriff of Grant county, saying that Teeter lives at Roseborough, that county, and that a search for him had begun early yesterday.

HEAVY DOCKET FOR COURT

Hartford City, Ind., March 18.—The session of the circuit court which is to start in this city on March 20, will be one of the heaviest which has been on docket for the past several terms, according to the prospects at the present time. There already being 56 cases on file, many of which are unusually heavy. The prospects are that several of the cases will have to be continued until the June term as the March term will only be in session four weeks. The jury has been ordered to report on the second Monday of the March term.

DRIVES OVER FIRE HOSE; FINED.

Huntington, Ind., March 18.—Fred Herran was fined $1 and costs, amounting to $5 in the police court for violating the fire ordinance by driving over the fire hose with his automobile Wednesday, when the fire department was called to the residence of Dr. N. W. Scott, on Market street.

KILLED BY A BUZZ SAW.

Roy O. Geesman Meets Shocking Death in Huntington County.

Huntington, Ind., March 18.—Roy O. Geesman died at 7:35 o'clock Friday evening at his home three and one-half miles southwest of Huntington on the Andrews road. His skull had been fractured in the morning by a piece of a buzz saw that broke while he was working near it. Mr. Geesman was helping buzz wood on his father's farm, and was off-bearing, or taking the pieces of wood away from the saw as fast as they were cut. After the accident he was taken to his own home, which was not far distant. He was thirty-one years, nine months and six days of age. He was born to Samuel P. and Olive Geesman June 11, 1884, and married Prudence Fulton September 5, 1911. The widow and two children, Sterling A. and Beatrice Louise Geesman, survive him. Mr. Geesman was a member and financial secretary of the Pleasant Grove U. B. church, where the funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. W. A. Settle in charge. Burial will be in Mt. Hope cemetery.

FARMERS' CLUB ELECT

Grabill, Ind., March 18.—At the second meeting held in the Leo high school building, the organization of a farmers' club, began at a meeting February 21, constitution and set of by-laws were adopted and the following officers elected: President, G. W. McComb; vice president, A. G. Warner; secretary, T. D. Conrad; treasurer, C. S. Page. The following soliciting committee was also appointed: David Neuen-schwander, A. H. Steiner, Alvin Kessler, J. C. Kryder, Carl Bates and Homer Deventer. Hereafter, this organization will be known as the Cedar Creek Agricultural society. This society will hold its next meeting on Tuesday evening, April 4. County Agent Clarence Henry will be present and deliver an illustrated lecture on "Treating Oats for Smut."

HAS FOOT CRUSHED IN WOODS.

Columbia City, March 18.—Denver Ott, of Smith township, son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Ott, had his right foot badly mashed on Friday while assisting his father in the woods. The two men were cutting logs and had just felled a tree and were cutting off a log. When the log fell to the ground it rolled toward young Ott and his right foot was caught. He was released by his father and assisted to the house. Dr. Otto Griser, of this city, was called and he went to the Ott home and the young man was placed under the influence of an anesthetic and the foot dressed. Several of the small bones of the foot were broken and the flesh badly torn.

HARTFORD CITY MAN HONORED

Hartford City, Ind., March 18.—A. G. Lupton, of this city, was chosen, Thursday, as the president of the Hoosier Automobile association, to take the unexpired term of Fred L. Willis, who has acted in that capacity for some time. Mr. Willis has found that it is impossible for him to keep up the work with the automobile association and take care of his other business at the same time and for that reason, circular letters were sent all over the state to the various auto clubs asking them to name the new president. Mr. Lupton was notified only Thursday, of their decision. The Hoosier association is closely allied with all of the motor clubs of the state.

WANT 5 CENT TELEPHONE RATE.

Chubbuck, Ind., March 18.—April first is the date set for the physical connection of the Home and the Farmers' Mutual Telephone company lines, whose headquarters is at Columbia City. The Chubbuck company has petitioned the commission to institute a five cent toll between Chubbuck and Columbia City lines, the same to be paid by the subscribers and patrons of said companies using in connection therewith the lines of the other company. It is further ordered that the companies shall publish the proper tariff governing such service, the same to become effective April 1st.

CHURUBUSCO TO BE CENTER.

Chubbuck, Ind., March 18.—The Lincoln Highway Bus line is under plans to make Chubbuck the transfer center for cars intending to other points. One line is to extend to Merriam and Wolf Lake, with a possibility of extending to Ligonier. Another line is under consideration to be extended to Albion. And still another line is under consideration to reach Columbia City by way of Collins or Tri Lake, and at Columbia City connections will be made for Huntington, South Whitley and other points. The Lincoln Highway Bus line is now planning to put on a large truck bus this summer that will carry two dozen or more passengers.

CLOSE DURING FUNERAL

Montpelier, Ind., March 18.—Funeral services over the remains of the late Mr. William Chaney were conducted from the M. E. church, Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, the Rev. J. C. Bills officiating. Mrs. Chaney had been ill for over two years with a nervous breakdown and had received treatment in some of the best hospitals in the state but without avail. During the funeral hour, Friday, the business houses were closed. Other than the husband, no immediate relatives survive.

TEN-CENT JUMP IN OIL

Montpelier, Ind., March 18.—Another increase of ten cents in the oil market has been announced from the Ohio oil company's headquarters in this city. Indiana crude is now quoted at $1.58, while both North and South Lima were affected by the rise and are now $1.72. The price of crude in this territory is now higher than at any previous time, and present indications are that the market will continue on its upward course for some time to come.

Rich Man's Son Made His Own Automobile

DAVID STEINMETZ, JR.

San Francisco, Cal., March 17.—Sons of wealthy men have gained the reputation—perhaps unjustly—of being gay, reckless youths, who scorn work. David Steinmetz, 16, son of D. H. Steinmetz, a Sonora, Cal., banker, repudiates such a reputation.

He toiled for weeks in his workshop making an automobile with his own hands. When he finished the machine "rambled right along" just like a factory car. Young Steinmetz started for San Francisco in his home-made car. He covered 30 miles of the trip in it.

Then a careless driver bumped into me and I had to take another car," mourned the young inventor.

IN THE THEATERS

AT THE MAJESTIC.

Thursday evening, March 23.—Forbes-Robertson in "Passing of the Third Floor Back."
Friday evening—Morning Musical presents Mischa Elnan.
Coming—"Daddy Long Legs," "No-body Home," John Drew, David Warfield.

Comes Thursday in "Passing of the Third Floor Back."

The human element of personality is a great factor in stage success. In the case of Forbes-Robertson, who makes his farewell appearance at the Majestic next Thursday evening, it seems to be a dominant part of his work, combined, of course, with technical perfection and genius of a degree not possessed by any other actor of this generation. One has heard from players of the old days that an actor's personality must have nothing to do with the part he is playing; that he is only an actor who can most successfully play the exact opposite of himself. This is the academic theory of "character acting." Of course, the half-truth is obvious. It represents the weariness induced in audiences by hand-ome persons who merely, in the stage phrase, "bring their bodies on." As a matter of fact, of course, a great actor includes a multiplicity of selves, so that he may play many parts, yet all years be playing himself. Beyond himself, no artist, whatever his art, has ever gone.

Forbes-Robertson's is a unique personality. No other living actor could have made the success of "Passing of the Third Floor Back" because no other actor possesses the same qualifications. This is very emphatically shown in an incident of the play, which can never be forgotten by those who witness it. The denizens of the boarding house exploit their weaknesses and their foibles. One after another, they demonstrate their meannesses, their pettiness and spite, and after the whole gamut is run, silently the Passerby enters. Tall, slight, ascetic, with distinction, benevolence and sincerity portrayed in every look and gesture, Forbes-Robertson stands surveying the scene. The contrast is so great, the beneficence of his gracious personage so intensely felt, that many people have involuntarily shed tears before he speaks a word.

This is a tribute of which any artist might well be proud. And yet this distinction follows Forbes-Robertson throughout the play. It is this which renders it impossible for any other actor to represent the character—at any rate until Forbes-Robertson is forgotten.

MISCHA ELMAN FRIDAY

Latest Press Comment on Noted Violinist Coming to Majestic.

Some of the most recent press comment on the work of Mischa Elnan, who is presented at Majestic next Friday evening by the Morning Musical, follows:

Evening Post, Chicago, Feb. 23.—Mischa Elnan has talent for comedy with the violin that is unique. The opening number for his concert was the Nordini concerto in E Minor, and he played the first two movements well when he came to the last movement, allegretto giocoso, there was a perfectly delicious note that crept into the music. It was something of joyous that at once suggested a merry-making, with dance, jests and laughter. There was the spontaneous feeling of peasants entertaining themselves with their folk-dance, with the heartiness which grows close to the soil and is apt to lose its savor when brought into the drawing-room. A trace of unthoughtfulness, a hint of exuberance, yet all done with a good will that wins a sympathetic smile of good nature.

Chicago Examiner, Feb. 28.—"Prima donna of the Violin." Mischa Elnan, the prima donna violinist, played in Orchestra hall yesterday afternoon. Prima donna violinist because the whole manner and appeal of his playing is lyric, because the tricks with which he decorates his very serious art those of Patti; he played as an approach to a high note.

Evening Journal Chicago, Feb. 28.—Elnan has not always made a fine first impression as he did when he came on and astounding; his interpretation the stage. The virtuoso violinist was temporarily sunk in the severe, persuasive artist. Consequently his opening number was a beautiful example of restrained expression, melodic playing as one would hear in many seasons.

When Elnan is in this mood, he is unrivaled in the making of music. Free Press, Ottawa, Can., Feb. 19th.—Mischa Elnan, the wizard of the violin, amazed the critics, playing with a maturity and independence of conception almost unbelievable. It would be difficult to find another such personality. Elnan is constantly at high tension and keenly alive to many activities outside of his music. He has played all over the civilized world and among the foremost critics he is considered to be the greatest violinist that ever lived. His tone is inimitable, full of blooded and seductive; his technique is flawless.

abounds with freshness and fine insight found in no other performer. The name "Elnan" speaks volumes to all who have heard him.

Star, Montreal, Can., Feb. 22nd.—Breadth of tonal quality, masterly technical skill, and boundless vitality have always been distinguished qualities of the playing of Mischa Elnan.

on roller skates closes this evening with two shows at the New Palace. It is a gloom-embroider of unquestioned power.

Harry Beresford, America's greatest character actor, is to appear on the bill for the first four days of the week. Mr. Beresford's 1916 vehicle is the comedy of youth and springtime, "Twenty Odd Years," a story filled with natural humor and a vein of pathos with now and then a heart-churn to add zest to the lighter moments. Mr. Beresford's splendid ability as a delineator of old man types has placed him high in the firmament of the stars of the American stage.

Minnie Allen, the female jack of all entertainment trades, is a singer, dancer, impersonator, musician, composer and magician and in addition makes seven costume changes in her brief skit. Brooks and Bowen, a pair of dusky entertainers, recently presented a comedy singing and dancing act at the Chicago Palace and "cleaned up" the bill.

Madame Doree's Beaux and Belles, a dignified musical ensemble with eight artists offering it is another feature of the coming bill. The madame's act, "Great Moments in Grand Opera" will be pleasantly recalled by Palace habitués, as an introduction for the Beaux and Belles. Nevins and Gordon, whose "Typewriter and a Type" was one of the attractions the second week of the theater's existence, and Jack Buehley, contortionist, complete the bill.

AT THE TEMPLE.

"A DAUGHTER OF ERIN"

Closes at Temple Tonight. "Why Girls Leave Home" Next.

With big houses accentuating their efforts, and Irish airs recalling the fact that it was St. Patrick's day, both performances of "A Daughter of Erin," at the Temple yesterday, won new laurels for the Temple players, and new admirers for one of the sweetest stories of Irish life ever written. The home of the O'Grady's in Borne, with characters representing the true-hearted Irish people, free from the shams of society, was presented in scenes which won applause. Sheila O'Grady, a daughter of the old sod, is a role which gives Miss Ethel Hamerick, the leading lady, an opportunity for the display of a charming personality, coupled with a brogue and sense of loyalty and justice that even her marriage and beautiful home in London has not been able to overthrow, and the fact that she is Irish, and proud of it, complicates matters when she is introduced to superficial London society folk. The scenes in the lavender home in England, the wharf at Liverpool and the outpost near the naval prison in the same city, followed by the exciting climax in the prison cell, must be seen to be appreciated. Miss Zula Ellsworth, as Mrs. Lavender, one who poses as a tyrant in petticoats, with Marous Aurelius and scientific cutting and living as her greatest faults and eccentricities, but who turns out to have the biggest and kindest of hearts, has a part which never fails to win applause. Miss Ellsworth's cleverness and real worth has never been more clearly demonstrated since her arrival in Fort Wayne than in this act.

With the performances this afternoon and tonight, the bill at the Temple will change with the great dramatic success, "Why Girls Leave Home," as the attraction for the first half of next week.

AT THE ORPHEUM.

A NOTED CHILD ACTOR.

Matty Roubert at Orpheum in "The Waif"—Kitty Gordon Monday.

Matty Roubert, probably the most gifted child actor in motion pictures, and a prodigy whose grasp of dramatic values is equalled only by that of his old and far more experienced contemporaries, appears at the Orpheum theater today in a visualization of the appealing comedy-drama, "The Waif." A story of youth and love, it abounds in moments of tender sentiment and reaching pathos.

Tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, in honor of St. Joseph, solemn high mass will be celebrated at St. Joseph's Catholic church by the pastor, Rev. Anthony Petrilli, who also will deliver the sermon in Italian.

The first low mass will be at 8 o'clock. The altar has been nicely decorated and a fine, delightful musical mass has been prepared for the occasion. Miss Elizabeth Moritz, the organist of the church, will direct the choir, the members of which are Mr. and Mrs. Landolfi, John E. Petrilli, Mrs. Sperandio, Messrs. Cecelia Moritz, Nellie Burke and Josephine Lakosa.

At 3 o'clock in the afternoon there will be the vespers and the benediction of the blessed sacrament.

EXPERTS TO LIGHT
BIG PAGEANT STAGE

How the Lighting Effects Will Be Handled During June Celebration.

The problem of handling the electrical lighting effects for the immense stage on which the Fort Wayne historic pageant will be presented for three nights in June will be placed in the hands of experts in this branch of stagecraft. Members of the centennial committee will spend some time in Chicago, investigating the methods of concerns who make a business of lighting outdoor theatrical productions, and will select the one which seems best suited to the requirements of the Fort Wayne event.

Strong shielded will throw a general light over the stage area, these lights being hidden behind the foliage which will be so placed as to complete the stage picture. At either side of the stage will stand a broad, high column. Concealed within these columns will be the operators of the spotlights which are required to center the attention of the audience upon individuals or groups.

The concern which handles the stage lighting will also have charge of the general illumination of the seating area, the dressingrooms and the other features connected with the pageant itself.

Prize for Poster Idea.
The pageant committee states that within a day or two an announcement will be made concerning the offering of a prize to the person providing the most acceptable idea for an official Centennial poster. Everyone should begin to give thought to a design for a poster to advertise the big event. Particulars of the contest will be made public as soon as the details can be worked out. No one but residents of Fort Wayne will be allowed to contest.

MRS. NESBIT'S WORK WILL BEAR FRUIT

Ft. Wayne Will Be Cleaner and More Beautiful City
This Summer.

That Fort Wayne will be a cleaner and more beautiful city this summer than it ever has been in the past as a result of the series of lectures by Mrs. Josephine L. Nesbit, of North Hampton, Ohio, is confidently expected. Mrs. Nesbit closed her campaign in Fort Wayne Friday evening with an illustrated lecture at the Harmon school. Superintendent Justin N. Study presided at the meeting and expressed himself as delighted with the interest that had been taken by the children in the schools and members of the parent-teachers' clubs in Mrs. Nesbit's work.

At the Lakeside school, Friday, buttons were presented to those boys and girls who were awarded them for their work last summer in the school garden contest.

About four hundred pupils of the Clay school and many adults attended the meeting at the First M. E. church Friday afternoon. Mrs. Nesbit, with the aid of pictures showed what had been done in other cities in beautifying back yards, alleys, streets and home surroundings. In all her lectures she has emphasized that beautiful home surroundings is a very important factor in developing health and morality.

Mrs. Nesbit left Saturday morning for her home in North Hampton, Ohio.

DEPOSITS INCREASE IN FT. WAYNE BANKS

Interesting Figures Are

ments.

Some interesting figures have been compiled showing the splendid financial condition of Fort Wayne's banking institutions. During the past year the deposits in the four national banks of the city have increased $1,103,349.76, while the deposits in the trust companies of the city have increased $893,137.07. The total deposits in the banks during the year ending March, 1916, amount to $15,278,636.87, as compared with $14,175,281.11 the previous year. The total deposits in the trust companies was $6,649,095.04, as compared with $8,444,658.57 the previous year. Other figures follow:

Total increase in deposits in both banks and trust companies, $1,906,486.83.

Total loans by national banks, March, 1916, $9,724,428.03.

Total loans by national banks, March, 1916, $9,070,700.90. Decrease, $653,727.13.

Total loans by trust companies, March, 1916, $8,346,163.05.

Total loans by trust companies, March, 1916, $8,873,278.97. Increase, $527,115.92.

Bonds and securities held by national banks, March, 1916, $2,096,749.21.

While speaking, Rhinelander had gone to table, thrown the bag open and was tossing packages of currency out. "There's your money, Seagrue—twenty-five thousand dollars. Count 'em, and give me a receipt."

Ward and Adams getting slowly out of the coach while the pair did not quite suit the description the officers, on general principles, crossed over unguarded door. He led the way hastily and stealthily to the vault and Heier, with her key, opened Rhineclander's box. It was while they were gent, walked out of the station. The two men encountered the halting and perplexed trio. Rhineland's roving eye fell on the bag as Ward passed him. He cried out and pointed. Ward and Adam turned nervously. "Stop, thief!" yelled Rhineland, making for them.

SHOP AND RAILROAD NEWS

WILL BUILD THE BIG FACTORY

Wells Brothers Company
Awarded Contract by General Electric.

After comparing figures and comparing the bids of the eight big contracting firms seeking the contract of erecting the factory building on Wall street to the General Electric works, General Manager E. S. Huntington decided that the bid of the Wells Brothers Company, of Chicago, was the lowest and most satisfactory and the contract was awarded to that firm.

The building is to be completed and turned over to the General Electric company by September 1 and the representative of the contractors stated that the work would be finished within the time limit and possibly some weeks earlier. Office work on the big job has already commenced by the Wells Brothers Company and next week dressing and other work necessary will arrive on the grounds and a big force of men be put at work.

The contract involves only the main factory building and does not include the two smaller buildings which will also be erected the coming summer, but which have not been fully planned.

The proposed building will be located on the south side of Wall street, a short distance west of Broadway. It will be 427 feet long, 75 feet wide, five stories and a basement and will be of reinforced concrete construction, with brick veneer, presenting the pleasing effect of a new storehouse building which was dedicated last Tuesday night. It is intended for factory purposes and when it is completed the big plant will undergo many changes in the location of departments. The factory is now inadequate to the demand for machinery space and to help out until the new building is up and equipped, one of the floors of the new storehouse building will be equipped with machinery.

This contract is the greatest in floor space area and in the quantity of construction material used ever let in Fort Wayne, except possibly the Allen county court house, and with its completion the local plant of the General Electric company will double its floor space. When it is equipped and in operation, the General Electric company will be the largest employer of skilled and common labor in Fort Wayne. It will have upwards of 5,000 names on its shop pay rolls.

The Sentinel described the proposed building in detail about a month ago. No change in the design has been made since.

TWENTY-EIGHT YEARS OLD.

Division 18, G. L. A. to B. L. E., to Celebrate.

Next Tuesday Friendship division No. 18, Grand International Auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, will be twenty-eight years old and the anniversary will be celebrated at the hall at 1018 Calhoun street. Former celebrations of the anniversary of the coming event will be participated in by the members of the auxiliary and their husbands only. The program will commence with a dinner at 5:30 o'clock, which will be followed by a musical and a general good time. There are some of the charter members of No. 18 living in Fort Wayne and they will be present at the celebration.

LABORER BADLY HURT.

William Gable, of 334 French avenue, who is employed in the boiler department of the Pennsylvania power plant, sustained a most painful injury shortly after 1 o'clock Friday, when he was struck by a belt which parted at the place of connection. One of the metal connecting parts tore the calf of his leg badly and was found embedded in the flesh when Dr. Budd VanSweringen, the company's surgeon, was dressing the wound. One of the bones of the leg was also slightly fractured. The injured man was taken to the Lutheran hospital.

JOHN WELDEN DEAD.

John Welden, for many years chief clerk in the master mechanic's office of the Pennsylvania Chicago Terminal division, died last Thursday and was buried at Chicago this afternoon. Mr. Welden was 72 years old and had been on the pension roll two years. He was the brother of Major Frank Welden, for many years chief clerk in the local Pennsylvania master mechanic's office, who died during the administration of George L. Potter as master mechanic of the Western division. Some of the local Pennsylvania men who knew John Welden for many years went to Chicago to attend the funeral.

G. E. EMPLOYEES TRANSFERRED

Some transfers of the employees at the General Electric works have been made and more changes are to take place in a few days. Earle Watterton, who was formerly with A. L. Hadley, of the engineering department, has been transferred to the construction department, under L. C. Yapp; Christian Starkey, formerly with Frank Walburn, of the transformer department, has been transferred to the production department, under E. E. Miles, and Fred Pombleton, an electrician, has been transferred from Foreman W. J. Shultz's department to the production department under Gus Kaiser.

Frisked for a Gun When I Went Over to Mexico

Juarez Metropolis of Mud Walls and 'Dobe, is Place of Six Shooters, Spies, Guards and Evil Glances —Everyone is Going—
—No One Coming.

By LEON STARMONT.

Special correspondent on Mexican border for Daily Sentinel.

Juarez, Mexico, March 18. Mexico is all smiles when you look it in the face. Only you must have newspapers in your pocket and your left arm must be carried gingerly because of the vaccination mark that makes it mythically sore.

You take a car in El Paso for Juarez, the border metropolis on the Mexican side of mud walls and that roof. At the international bridge across the attenuated river that is the Rio Grande, an American sentry peeps. On the Mexican side, a Mexican sentry bounds the car.

"Vaccination certificate?" You make a wry face and point to your left upper arm. The newspaper in your pocket must be surrendered to the guard.

He smiles. You smile, too.

LEON STARMONT
Special correspondent for Daily Sentinel, now on Mexican border.

E. H. Hittler, of the Nickel Plate, ten days ago, continues to disable him, though the wounded hand is improving and will soon be well.

Engineer John Moore, of the Nickel Plate, who recently purchased the property at 1307 West Wayne street, is now moving his family into it and has been leaving off to assist in the work.

Col. James Fry, assistant state auditor, called at the Pennsylvania offices this morning to see the men with whom he was associated in railway work a few years ago. Business for the auditing department brought Colonel Fry here.

H. A. Burson, airplane instructor of the Pennsylvania Northwest system, and James Leach, of the motive power department, have returned from an inspection trip over the Erie and Ashland divisions.

Supt. B. H. Hudson and Chief Clerk C. H. Tensing, of the G. R. & L., have returned from Grand Rapids, where business for the company detained them several days.

Nickel Plate Fireman H. C. Chapman, who was married a week ago, is still out enjoying the honeymoon. His fellow railroaders have planned a warm reception for him when he shows up for work.

Nickel Plate Fireman G. E. Hunsaker is kept from his work on the road by the illness of his son. Fireman R. O. Sherer, D. R. Bauerle and F. W. Pappert are off duty for various reasons.

Nickel Plate Engineer L. B. Larimore and Fireman James Hardwick, who have a preferred run, with headquarters in Stony Island, are laying off, and Engineer M. Robbins and Fireman O. Snyder are filling their places.

J. A. Haslip, A. Stege, Charles Volz, G. Rigert and H. A. Hopp, of the Pennsylvania car shops, are off duty on account of sickness. Mr. Volz will be seventy years old in April and will then be placed on the pension list.

General Foreman M. J. Meldrum, of the Nickel Plate round house, is sitting up and will soon be out attending to business as usual. He has been sick a week. Mr. Meldrum resides at High street and St. Mary's avenue.

E. J. Bandaher, of the Pennsylvania valuation department, is in Lafayette and Purdue to spend a couple days with friends. A. D. Scheckley, also of the valuation department, will spend Sunday with relatives in Desatur, Ind.

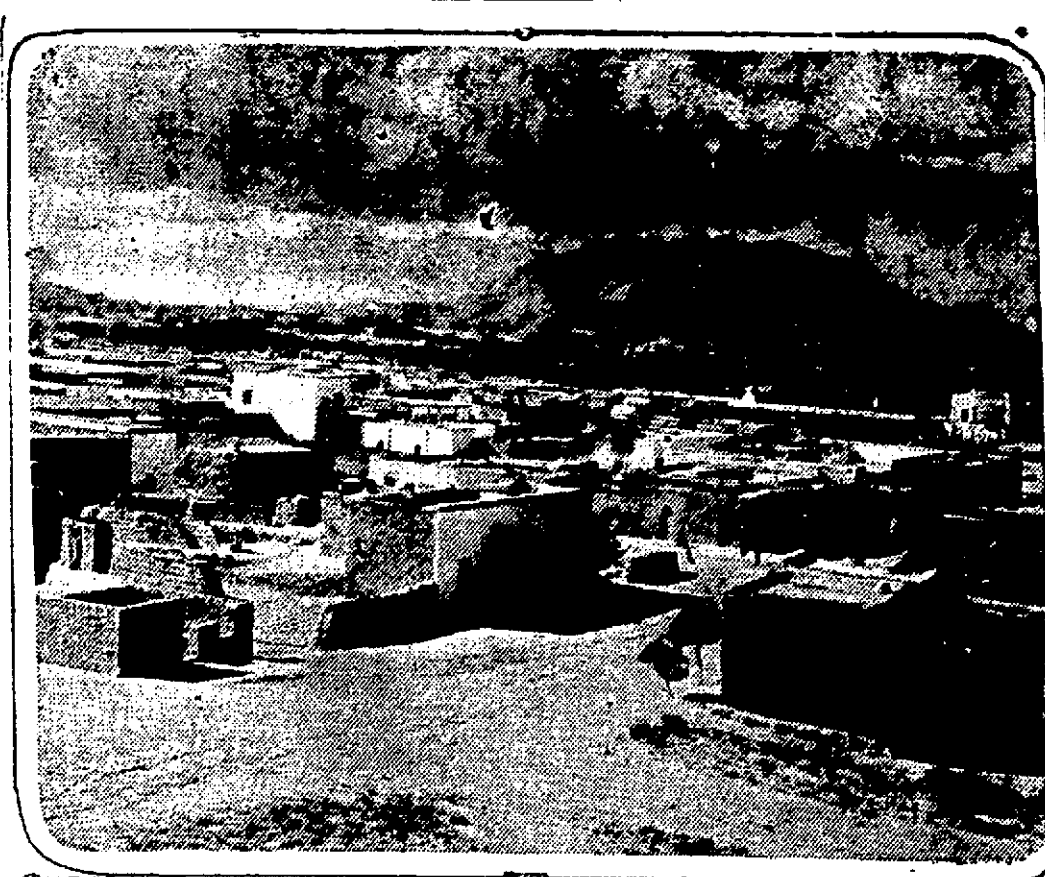

V. A. Grams, assistant Wabash ticket agent for the past two years, has been transferred to the Detroit office of the company in a similar capacity. Alfred Borenstein, who has served as relief assistant ticket agent here on several occasions, will succeed Mr. Grams.

A card from Foreman B. E. Sarver, of the Pennsylvania boiler shop, who with his wife has been in Florida two weeks, states that they are about to go to Cuba. Mr. and Mrs. Sarver are having a pleasant trip and it is doing much good in restoring her health.

W. J. Quillman has been transferred to the Chicago office of the Pennsylvania, to take up work in the freight department. He was chief clerk to Division Freight Agent E. T. Wood for six years and he will be succeeded by R. E. Hensel, from the office of the general western freight agent at Chicago.

Fred Eggeman, for two years with the Buckeye Casting company, at Columbus, Ohio, has resigned to take service with another company. Mr. Eggeman was with the Pennsylvania motive power departments several years before taking the position with the Buckeye Casting company.

Conductors E. J. Grummon and R. J. Walker and Brakemen W. P. Shirklock, J. D. Stapleton, T. J. Conner and W. C. Hanley, of the Nickel Plate, are laying off for various reasons. Conductors C. F. Hardwidge and L. M. Welkert and Brakemen S. T. Vervatin, L. B. Stone and W. S. Brown, who had been off duty

View of Juarez, across the Rio Grande, showing the border metropolis. The Eagle is going to fly.

Two blocks on, Gen. Gavira, Carranzista commandant, holds forth in a smart one-story building with a picket fence in front.

A score of youths and boys, looking like Utah sheep herders, are lounging about the gate. You must satisfy them of your right to be there before they let you up the walk to see the general.

Inside, turn to the right. Three young officers greet you.

One, a colonel, is past 25. Another, a captain, is not yet 16. The third, a lieutenant, might be 20 or 22. He speaks good English, with an accent.

The general? Si, señor! This door walk in. A hand touches your hip. You turn to see a smiling face—that of the captain not yet 16. You smile—you have no gun.

Gavira is stout and active. The wall is decorated with large maps of Mexico—printed in Spanish. The table in the center is filled with papers. You look at them curiously. The countenance of a young aide-de-camp indicates that you'd better not look too curiously.

What is the news from the Mormon colonists out off at Pearson? You ask the general.

"Ah! Quien sabe? Who knows? The wires are down! Only like this"—(he indicates the line along the Mexican Central to Chihuahua and then back up the Mexican Northwestern toward the border)—"only like this can messages come through. But the colonists are safe! Do not the Carranzistas hold all Chihuahua?"

He says something else, in Spanish. You look as if you cannot understand—which you can't. Fine now he can talk Spanish with his officers and he certain you will not overhear!

"What of Villa? Ah quien sabe? We are told he is fleeing to the mountains of Simla—here far from the border and from the Carranzista troops."

He shows you on the map. The spot he points out is 330 miles from the border—200 miles from the Mexican Central railroad—125 miles from the Southern Pacific de Mexico, which winds from Nogales down the Sonora and Simla coast of the Gulf of California.

"Gen. Pershing? Ah—amigo—my friend! I go to El Paso today to talk to him. I wait for the automobile."

"You are a newspaper man, ah! The newspapers print many lies. There is much excitement little cause! Is it not so?"

You smile and leave. The soldiers—youths and boys about the gate eye you solemnly. You give them cigarettes. They are all smiles.

Then you walk further up the town. You turn a corner.

Somewhere there is a six-shooter. You look behind you, involuntarily. The cat-footed Mexican at your elbow is NOT smiling.

You make up your mind that you won't look around again. You'd rather have them smile.

The car to El Paso is crowded. Coming over it was almost empty.

"There's lots of traffic across to Texas," the conductor tells you.

"But there are darn few coming this way!"

MUCH SMUGGLING GOES STEADILY ON

Dutch Soldiers Unable to Seal Up the German Border Line.

The Hague, Feb. 27. (Correspondence of The Associated Press).—The Dutch minister of war, reporting in the second chamber of the Dutch parliament, says that 36,079 persons were prosecuted for smuggling goods into Germany last year. Forty thousand soldiers were employed to prevent smuggling, but because of the 600 miles of frontier they had to patrol, many of the smugglers can understand how busy a man is John!

He's held the important, not to say influential, post for more years than most of his island neighbors can remember.

The Pribilof Islands jut up from the Bering Sea, off the west coast of Alaska and are the famous rookeries of the seal which the government has taken under its protection. The natives, who are virtually government pensioners because the islands are a federal reserve, give valuable assistance in carrying on seal and fox operations. "Bath House John" is regarded as an elevating influence by Uncle Sam's representatives there. May the keys he carries never "Bath House John," who has never forsaken his humble calling to meddle in politics, as did his Chicago namesake, is nevertheless an important factor on the islands.

He tends the hut in which the native Aleuts perform their ablations each week before going to church. Cleanliness is a necessary prelude to godliness in the Pribilofs, for no worshipped would think of appearing at his church without first having cleansed his body.

According to the Central Hydrographic Bureau in Vienna, there is an annual average precipitation of 18,000 inches in Orkney, 3,525 feet above sea level.

The unusual amount of rain is explained by the consistent southerly winds, which "ball" the clouds together. In 22 years there has been an average of 139.9 rainy or snowy days. Daily precipitation of from 7.8 to 11.7 inches is by no means rare.

The Tagblatt, after presenting the figures, laughingly apologizes for excluding Cadorna's "weather reports," concluding with the words, "the statistics for 1914-1915 are missing but they undoubtedly justify Cadorna's complaints about the weather. Only—the wet weather seems to damage the Austrians and Hungarians less—"

Having much fun with Gen. Cardona. Teutonic Newspapers Poke Fun at Reports of the Italian Chief.

Berlin, Feb. 20. (Correspondence of The Associated Press).—Almost since the beginning of the war between Austria and Italy, every paper in Austria, Hungary, and Germany has daily made as much fun as possible of the reports of the Italian chief, General Cadorna. His so-called "weather reports" have become the target of every cartoonist in the central empires, who has portrayed him so often under an umbrella that the joke has been worn threadbare. "Cadorna Reports Snow"; "It's Raining Down Cadorna's Way"; "Cadorna Reports—Bad Weather," and half a dozen other headings of a similar nature seem to be kept standing in type in most newspaper offices.

Now, however, the Berliner Tageblatt declares seriously that the territory in which Cadorna's armies are operating is the most "weather-visited" in all Europe, and that it about holds the record for rain if not snow falls. The Tageblatt bases its statements on the results of meteorological investigations in the neighborhood of the Bay of Cattaro.

With the exception of the hills which overhang the bay, according to the investigations, the whole Krivestjo district up to the Dobrostrica-Badostar and Doganja heights are evenly covered with snow in winter time so that troops, in order to move in any direction, have to shovel away great quantities of snow daily.

According to the Central Hydrographic Bureau in Vienna, there is an annual average precipitation of 18,000 inches in Orkney, 3,525 feet above sea level.

were able to do a brisk business with the people across the border. The wives of the smugglers are many and the ingenuity which they bring to their trade, it is said, would fit them for all the higher reaches of diplomacy.

Leather was smuggled inside barrels of mussels, balls of rubber inside the outer shells of onions and bags of meal got up to represent sleeping babies were sent over the border. Hundreds of thousands of the frontier population were after the beginning of the war, engaged in the lighter forms of the proscribed traffic. Bribery of the frontier guard is said to have been the method tried most frequently.

The strip of country along the various frontiers is now declared in a state of siege and the military commanders order the whole life of the community. They have resorted in some regions to banishing all undesirable persons. The number thus deprived of their right of residence last year is 1,207.

A bill passed recently limits supplies for the border towns to quantities that were normal before the war.

The authorities carry out the anti-smuggling laws in a most drastic way, realizing that the traffic was endangering the country's overseas supply by awakening the distrust of the allies.

The government of Venezuela will establish a school of medicine in Caracas.

LETTERS FROM A CORRESPONDENCE SCHOOL ACTOR BY A. H. GIEBLER

EAR DAVE:

Well, Dave, I didn't lose my job, like I told you I might because of me and Strongheart having that fight and him losing his teeth. He's got a new set of teeth and looks as good as new, and I am a bigger movie actor than ever. They just turned that scenario of the school-teacher play around so that it fits the way the fight turned out, and it's all right, and Mr. Crossland and J. J. Murphy got the owners of the Occidental Film Company, which is the name of our company, to let them put on another bunch of actors to make comic pictures with lots of riding and rough stuff in them, and I am going to be the star actor in that company.

Of course, I ain't a hero actor like I want to be yet, and play lover parts and doctor parts and things like that, but I am head actor all the same, and I'm going to get $50 a week, every Monday night, which is pay day, only they don't call it pay day, they call it the ghost walking, when we get our money.

Lucy is going to be the leading girl actor in our company, and Nellie Standish, her real name ain't that, it's Mary Soper, the little red-headed girl that was one of my wives when I played wild man—she is going to be what they call the onegenew, and play the parts that ain't leading parts, but almost, and Miss Marney, the old maid actress, will do the mother stuff and old woman parts.

Ain't that pretty good pay for being a movie actor, Dave? I'll have a lot of money left after I get my board paid and pay for my washing, won't I?

You tell Life and Thora how much I am making. I guess they won't make fun of me now. Thora will say that beats working around a soda fountain in Price's drug store, and Life will say: "I wish I was making it instead of hanging wall paper and painting signs for old man Jones."

Strongheart, he wasn't very mad at me about that fight. He says: "Well, Rube, you are some man, when you get started, ain't you?" And we shook hands, because we can't be working together in the same studio and be mad at one another, can we?

And then, Dave, I've found out how I can be as big an actor as Charlie Chaplin or H. B. Walthall, and all I'll have to do is to pay a man here $25 a month and he'll get my name in the papers all over the country. He's what they call a press agent, and he'll write pieces about me and send them to all the papers, and pretty soon I'll be making $55 or maybe $60 a week.

This here press agent, he put nearly all of them big actors in the movies on the map just by writing about them in the papers, and I said:

"What will you write about me?"

And he says: "Well, I'll write a little piece like this: 'Mr. Thomas Boggs, the newest star to shoot across the movie firmament, was shocked the other day whilst in a restaurant to see some rude people eating pie with their knives.'"

I said, "That wouldn't shock me none, because I do you eat pie with if you don't use your knife. I've always ate it that way."

He says: "Well, then, we will turn it around and say that Mr. Thomas Boggs, the newest star to shoot across the movie firmament is not a bit affected by the enormous salary he receives from the Occidental Moving Picture Company, and is so democratic that he eats pie with his knife."

I said, "Well, that's all right." I never voted 'em Democratic ticket but three times when old man Jones was elected, but that don't make no difference if he wants to put that in. He says I had ought to get another name besides Boggs. That ain't romantic enough for an actor, and I told him about the one I got from that correspondence school that teaches movie acting by mail, Clarence Clavering. Lucy made me quit using it because she said it was a sissy name, and he is going to pick me out a good name, and that will be five dollars extra.

Another man came to see me that takes pictures of all the big movie actors. He said not to tell the press agent about him, because he is awful mad at him for putting some big actors on the map by making pictures of them. Want you to buy a thousand souvenir spoons with your name on them, so that everybody will have your name in their mouths, or some come-on game like that.

"But I'm not as big a fool as I look," I told him, "and I won't bite on any scheme like that."

He said: "Well, be careful. As soon as they find out you are making fifty a week they'll be after you."

But if one of them grafters tries to sell me any fakes I'll tell them where they get off at. We made some scenes in one of them pictures with me in it as the star yesterday, and as soon as I got through this letter to you I'm going to write to Mabel and tell her how it was I got her picture back from that man that must have stole it from her, because I know Mabel wouldn't give her picture to nobody as long as she's going with me, and writing me letters the way she does.

It was sure funny the way I come to get that picture, Dave. J. J. says if I keep on they will have to change the name of this movie company to the Occidental Moving Picture Company instead of the Occidental, because I am all the time having so many accidents. I said I thought that's what the word meant all the time, but I don't mean that. Bessie Steinbush says the world is divided into two halves, and one is called the Oriental like Egypt, where the Arabs and them Oriental dancers we used to see at the street fair at Terre Haute come from. The part, that is called the Occidental is Indiana and California and Omaha, and this country where we live.

This here play is wild Western stuff, and I am the Lone Bandit of Dead Tree Gulch, and I hold up a stage coach. There is a man out here who has got some sure enough stage coaches that used to be used before there was any railroads, and they are all shot full of holes where the robbers have held them up so many times, and they rent these coaches out to movie companies who want to make hold-up stuff.

J. J. rented one of them, and we all went out to the location to make the pictures. When we got out on the road a piece J. J. says:

"Here is a good place for the hold-up," and he told me and Joe Dixon to get off with one of the cameras and we'd rehearse the action.

"You put on your mask," he says, "and when we come around the bend with the stage you jump out and pull your gun and holler 'hands up!' Lucy shoots you from the stage coach, and when girls will get stuck on me from seeing me act in the pictures, and want my photo, we will tell them to send 25 cents to pay for stamps, and it will cost only 2 cents, and I'll make a lot of money."

So I am going to give him fifty dollars as soon as I get my first two pay days, then I'll have two of them working for me and neither one will know it, and they will both work their heads off to see who can make me a big actor first. Pretty slick, eh, Dave?

J. J. Murphy says: "Tom, have any of them grafters got after you yet?"

I said: "What kind of grafters?"

And he said: "Fakers that will try to sell you a scheme to make you famous. They'll and we take you on board and she discovers that you are her childhood sweetheart and she makes us all promise not to tell if you'll agree to reform and not be a hold-up man any longer," and stuff like that.

Well, Joe Dixon and me got off, and pretty soon here comes the stage coach lickety split, and I jumped out in the road and said 'hands up!'

I thought there was something wrong right away, because that driver didn't look like Bessie Steinbush dressed up like a stage coach driver, and he jerked them horses back to quick they almost set down in the road, and all of the people come piling out of the coach, and a man with specks on cussed me awful, but they all held their hands up, and I didn't know what to do. Then they saw Joe Dixon with the camera, and knowed it was movie stuff, and they all laughed, and one man said:

"You had me going, young man, you sure look the part; you would have made a good haul off of me if you had been a regular bandit," and he took out a pocketbook and it was full of money.

A picture dropped out of it and I saw it was Mabel's picture, and didn't say nothing, but I picked it up when he wasn't looking. I bet he's been back there at home, Dave, and broke into Redden's photograph gallery and stole that picture of Mabel they had stuck up on the wall, because Mabel is such a pretty girl I guess anybody would want to have her picture.

Answers to Movie Fans

Only very important questions will be given personal replies, and then only when a stamped, self-addressed envelope is inclosed. Do not send loose stamps. Address all questions to Moving Picture Editor, care of this paper.

TACK—Harris Gordon played opposite Mignon Anderson in Milestones of Life, and in The Matting, Lewis J. Cody played opposite Bessie Barriscale. Wallace Reid is with the Jesse L. Lasky Company, Hollywood, Cal.

ANXIOUS READER—The last we heard of Irene Vanfield she was with the B. A. Rolfe Company, 2 West Sixty-first street, New York. But this was about a year ago. A letter to her at that address would probably be forwarded to her.

M. G. P.—When the winning sequel to The Diamond from the Sky is decided upon, the announcement will appear in the newspapers.

J. M.—Have never heard of any relationship between Edna and Christine Mayo. Blanche Sweet is about 20 years old. It was Sarah Bernhardt who played in Jeanne Dore, not Lillian Lorraine.

F. O. R.—As well as we understand it, the Japanese does not succeed in kissing Fanny Ward in The Cheat.

H. B.—James Cruze is said to be working with a company called the Palo Alto Film Company, Palo Alto, Cal.

J. G. S.—The Dumb Bandit is perhaps the latest film in which Francis Ford may be seen. Grace Cunard wrote the scenario.

V. M. R.—Theda Bara is not married. Mary Pickford is Owen Moore's wife, but Florence Lawrence is not married to King Hazard.

R. P.—Chester Barnett may be addressed in care of the World Film Corporation, 120 West Forty-sixth street, New York.

C. H. S.—Signe Auel now spells her name C. Seena Owen, pronounced phonetically. She is not married, is nearly 3 feet and a half tall, is about 20 years old, has blue eyes and golden hair, and likes all kinds of pets.

M.—The correct address of Mary Miles Minter is the Columbia Pictures Corporation, 3 West Sixty-first street, New York. This is one of the studios that make pictures for the Metro program.

FLORENCE LAWRENCE

MISS FLORENCE LAWRENCE, the first motion picture actress to become a star, has gone back to the Universal Company, with whom she started out as leading woman player when that company was organized. Miss Lawrence first became famous when she was with the Biograph Company, when the players' names were not given in the cast of characters.

But when her name did become known she was the most talked of screen actress of the day. At one time a story got out that she had been poisoned in an automobile accident, and so many telegrams and inquiries poured into the studio for verification of the story that the film company sent her out on a tour of the principal cities of the United States, and she appeared in a St. Louis Theater and definitely proved to a large number of eye-witnesses that the story of her death was false.

The reason for Miss Lawrence's retirement from the screen for a time was that she had been injured while working in a photoplay. A particular scene, one of a burning building, where she had to save

Miss Moore's life by dragging him down a flight of stairs, was the cause of all the trouble. She had to drag him down three times before the scene could be photographed correctly, and after the play was finished it was discovered that she had injured her back.

For many months she lay on her back, trying to regain her strength. By living a wholesome, carefree life on her farm not far from New York City, she has become perfectly well, although she has been warned that she must be careful. Then Miss Lawrence has been very busy at being married.

"Oh, yes," she says, "I'm married still, but I'm not working at it any longer. Staying home all day with 'household cares' to occupy my time, and being ready in the evening with a cheery smile to stay home some more, does not appeal to me as an ideal existence. I'm going back where I can do some real work, not mere puttering, that third-rate intelligence can be trained to do."

ANSWERS REGARDING PHOTOPLAY WRITING

N. A. B.—It is impossible to give an idea as to the value of your plays. The studios are the only places that set values, and the best thing to do is to keep on sending them out. If they do not sell at the first two or three places, read them over; you may see what's wrong and be able to correct it. If a play does not sell, try to rewrite it. Many fine subjects have been made out of weak ones by giving them different treatment. You will probably not hear from your Diamond from the Sky sequel until the winner has been decided upon. As we understand it, you are not at liberty to submit the idea contained in your sequel until after you are sure it will not be used by The Diamond from the Sky people.

M. B. S. L. J. T. M.—The term costume play, as applied to moving pictures, is very elastic. It usually means, however, any play where the characters require elaborate dress, such as a play of the colonial period, or one depicting scenes in foreign courts. The winner of The Diamond from the Sky contest will be given wide publicity in the press. You will have no trouble in learning the lucky person's name when the contest is decided. There is very little market just now for one and two reel plays. The makers all declare that they are coming back, however. The rejections you quote sound very familiar. We have read hundreds of them, and they may mean everything or nothing. Studios have girls who attend to returning rejected plays to writers. The girl simply incloses a copy of whatever form of rejection slip the company uses. A studio may return a play that they would not buy under any consideration with a form slip expressing deep regret, and, on the other hand, they may think your work promising, but cannot take the time to give any other than a stereotyped reason. Studios often accept plays that they have rejected months before. The studios consider that they are dealing with professional writers, and no real writer pays much attention to a rejection. He simply looks over the play to see if it needs rewriting or copying, starts it off again, then writes another play or so while he is waiting for a check or another rejection. Certainly do not quit because of a few rejection slips.

Captivity

IT WAS under the protection of her mother that Sultana, a recent gift to the zoo, had her first glimpse of the great outside world, and no debutante ever received more painstaking attention at the hands of her mother, or more careful and wise advice, than did Sultana.

She was hardly 6 months old, but she was much larger than her sister, and, while not quite as large as her brother, she was stronger on her legs than he was. Also it had seemed to her watchful mother that Sultana displayed more aggressiveness than did her brother and sister, and aggressiveness was one of the traits she wished to cultivate in her children.

Her first care was that they should be able to go out into the world and make their own way, and earn their own living by their strength and ferocity. She was not concerned with their mating, and she gave that no thought at all. That would come about in time, it was for her to teach them to battle with the world. When they had learned their lesson they would leave her to shift for themselves, and in due time would find their proper mates.

In the first few months of their lives, Sultana was one of triplets—they had kept close in the shelter of their home. Far back in the jungle it was, a sort of cave in the side of a huge ravine, a ravine made by the wash of the torrents which swept down from the nearby hills in the rainy season. You would never find it unless you accidentally fell into it. You could pass within an inch of its mouth and could not tell the small opening from the dense mass of jungle which surrounded it.

It was carefully concealed, not so much from the gaze of man, for man never ventured near that ravine, but from the gaze of other wild animals. When they were a month or so old their mother used to take them out to play in the sunshine, which for an hour or so each day beat down into the ravine.

Then later she took them with her one day to a sort of clearing in the jungle a half mile or so away. Very carefully did the mother guide them along, cooing each one which tried to stray from her side, and noiselessly and carefully forcing her way through the thick vegetation, with her body bent close to the ground, so that the leaves above hardly stirred at her passage. Every movement breathed caution, and the little ones were impressed with it.

Then they reached the clearing. Gently the mother flattened herself on the ground and peered out. It was but a small space, a few hundred yards each way, bare of trees, where the undergrowth was not so thick, and where the sunlight shone brightly. Sultana heard a queer chattering, and, curiously, she stuck out her head from the protecting shelter. Instantly there was a yell, followed by a chorus of quick cries, and a score of monkeys made a dash for the nearby trees.

The mother tiger made one quick bound after the fugitives, but they had taken the alarm in time and had scurried into the trees about the clearing, where they screamed defiance at the huge animal below. And at her cubs, who had come washing behind her. The tigress stood beneath a tree, on the lower branches of which, just out of her reach, a half dozen indignant

Sultana on the tip of her tender nose, and she let loose a scream of rage which startled the monkeys into sudden silence and caused her mother to spring a dozen feet up the trunk of the tree.

But tigers seldom climb trees, and, besides, this was a small one, which offered little hold for the huge claws, and in a moment she dropped back on the ground and began licking the wounded muzzle of her offspring, purring caressingly the while. Other monkeys swung from tree to tree and assembled above them while Sultana's brother and sister gazed at them in wonder.

The tree had a number of dead limbs and branches on it and suddenly the monkeys began throwing these down upon their enemies. Again Sultana was hit, and this time above her right eye, and the pain was nearly as bad as that caused by the first blow. Several of the missiles also struck the mother and the other cubs, and they took a hasty retreat, pursued by their tormentors' shrill cries of derision.

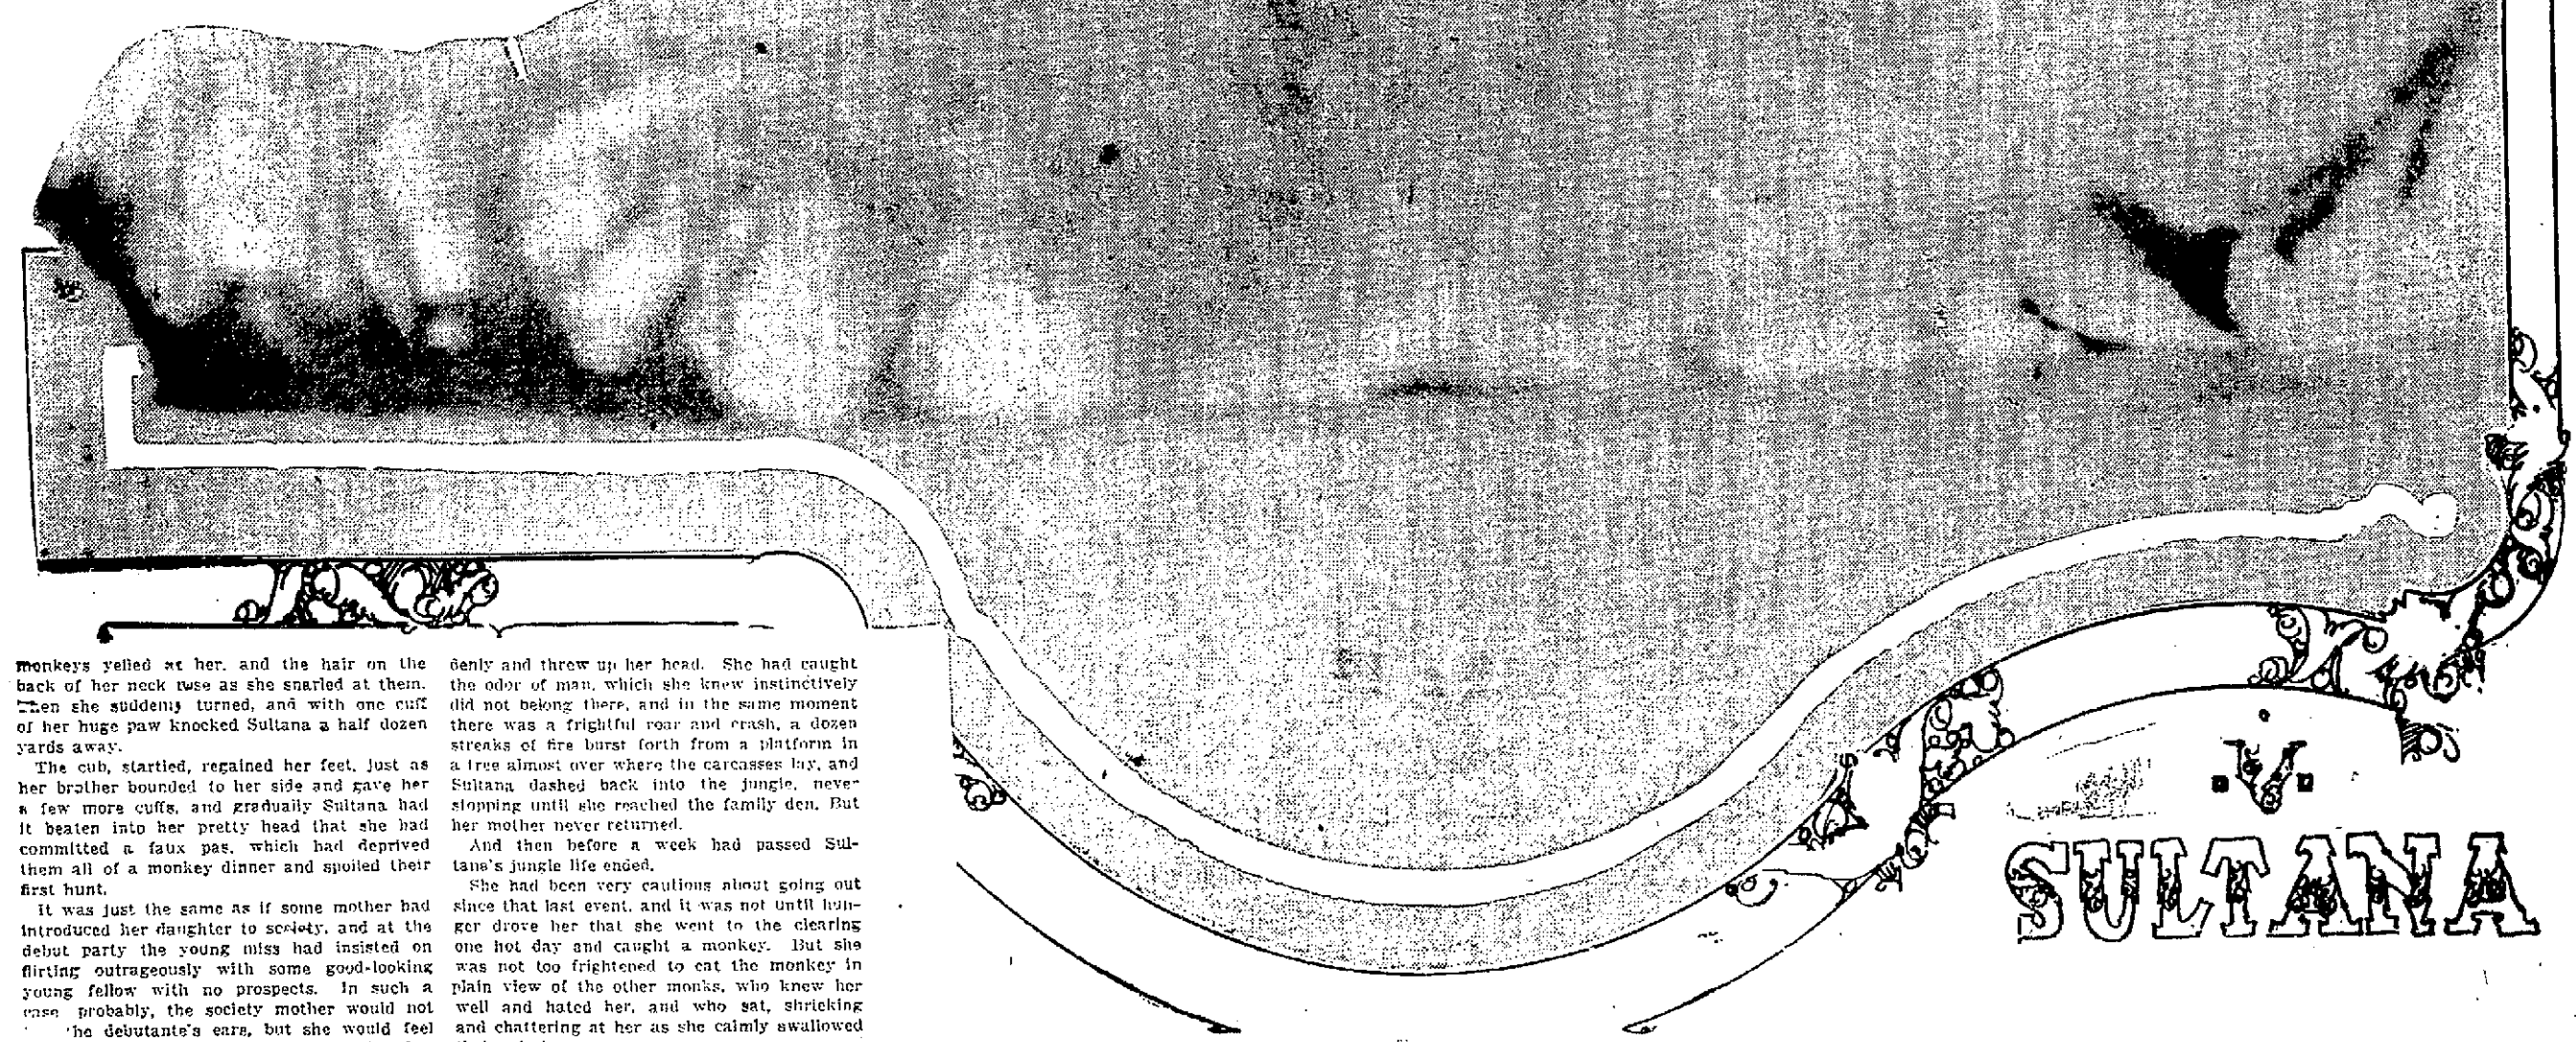

Sultana was now more than a year old and was nearly grown, but still she and her brother and sister remained with their mother.

One night the mother took Sultana on the longest trip she had ever made. It was into a wonderful country, and finally, from a low hill, they saw the lights of a village. Sultana paused in terror. The lights were far away and she had never seen anything like them before. Her hair bristled and she stood tense and rigid, but her mother rubbed up against her reassuringly. Then suddenly the mother snifled toward the lights. A light wind was blowing from that direction and in a moment Sultana, for the first time, sensed the odor of man, which in after years she was to be nauseated with. But she knew, even then, from her mother's attitude, that it was something to be dreaded, and she snifled and caught the odor which she was never to forget.

She and Sultana slept through the day, while the other cubs hunted in the jungle near by, one of them catching an unwary bird, and the other a hare. That night the mother tiger and Sultana again went forth to where they had left the half-eaten carcasses of the stolen cattle.

As they drew near the place the mother sniffed suspiciously several times, and once she stooped for nearly fifteen minutes. Sultana also lifted her head and sniffed, but smelt nothing unusual save the dead carcasses of the cattle, and so, after a while, they moved forward. When they got near the place they stopped again, and then the mother glided forward, and pounced on one of the carcasses.

Sultana, a dozen feet behind her, paused sud-

monkeys yelled at her, and the hair on the back of her neck rose as she snarled at them. Then she suddenly turned, and with one cuff of her huge paw knocked Sultana a half dozen yards away.

The cub, startled, regained her feet, just as her brother bounded to her side and gave her a few more cuffs, and gradually Sultana had it beaten into her pretty head that she had committed a faux pas, which had deprived them all of a monkey dinner and spoiled their first hunt.

It was just the same as if some mother had introduced her daughter to society, and at the debut party the young miss had insisted on flirting outrageously with some good-looking young fellow with no prospects. In such a case, probably, the society mother would not rebuke the debutante's ears, but she would feel at all the same, and would confine her to a few well-chosen remarks. The only difference between the parlor and the jungle is that the feelings always are unrestrained in the latter, whereas in the parlor they are only sometimes unrestrained.

But, at any rate, Sultana learned her lesson, and she always remembered it. And while she was learning her lesson an incident occurred which made a lasting impression on her. The monkeys screamed and yelled with laughter while Sultana was being cuffed, and then, as the tiger mother left the clearing with her youngsters, one old monkey tore off a piece of dead branch and hurled it down on them. It struck gently and threw up her head. She had caught the odor of man, which she knew instinctively did not belong there, and in the same moment there was a frightful roar and crash, a dozen streaks of fire burst forth from a platform in a tree almost over where the carcasses lay, and Sultana dashed back into the jungle, never stopping until she reached the family den. But her mother never returned.

And then before a week had passed Sultana's jungle life ended.

She had been very cautious about going out since that last event, and it was not until hunger drove her that she went to the clearing one hot day and caught a monkey. But she was not too frightened to eat the monkey in plain view of the other monkeys, who knew her well and hated her, and who sat, shirking and chattering at her as she calmly swallowed their relative.

She knew there would be no chance of getting another monkey for a few days, for, after each killing, the monkeys would go away for a day or so, and on their return would be extraordinarily cautious for awhile.

When it became dark she ventured forth again, sniffing suspiciously now and then, but not catching that human odor again. But there was another odor, a pleasant one, that of a goat, and on several occasions Sultana had enjoyed goat's flesh. She made her way toward this. The odor led her to the jungle clearing.

Now Sultana had never known of a goat to visit this clearing, but she did not stop to wonder about this fact. She only knew that she was hungry, that there was safety near home, and that there was a goat within striking distance. A bright moon illuminated the clearing, and as Sultana glided through the underbrush she heard now and then the plaintive bleating of the goat. It was in a pit, a freshly dug excavation, which Sultana had never seen before but she did not stop to speculate on this.

Also, the pit was partially covered with limbs of trees, laid over a network of loose poles. She tore at these until she had made a sort of opening and then peered down into the depths. The pit was about 15 feet deep and she saw the terrified goat huddled in one corner of it.

Sultana leaped lightly down through the opening she had torn in the pit's covering. Quickly bounding on the goat, she was soon enjoying a full meal. When she was gorged she looked about her. She stood on her hind legs and dug her claws into the smooth, perpendicular walls of earth, in an effort to climb up. Once she got up a few feet and then fell back again. Then she bounded as high as possible with outstretched paws, but could not reach the pit covering.

Later she was housed in a nice comfortable cage in a zoological garden and here she remained for several months. Now and then she would be seized with fits of dull slumbering rage, and very quickly she was marked by the keepers as dangerous. More than once, while she was lying up against the bars of her cage, she would strike quickly and savagely at some keeper who passed near her cage, and soon they all kept a wary watch upon her.

And now Sultana, after a wearisome and roaming life, is settled in a huge cage with white tiled walls in the St. Louis zoo out in Forest Park.

The United Railways bought her, together with some other animals, from a circus and presented them to the city.

She still hopes to seize a keeper's arm some day, but most of all she loves to lie at the front of her cage and peer through the bars at the chattering monkeys at the other end of the animal house.

And then, she has day dreams of a monkey, escaping from his cage and coming over for a little sociable visit to her.

In its last wks ishure the red-nosed, bleary-eyed, knock-need, lantern-jawed edditor of our contemptible contemporary, the Hardscrabble Banner took occasion to refer to the Bingville Bugle as a "puslanimus rag", and further to say that all it was good for was to tie up parcels in & to spread on cupboard shelves.

In reply we desire to state that the Hardscrabble Banner aint even good for that being that its printed on sitch a poor quality of paper that a person cant skeercly handle it without it tearing in two, so what good would it be to tie up parcels in we ask?

We persoom that whatever the warty excrescences on the face of nature know as the Hardscrabble Banner edditor says about us ort to be beneath our notis, but it aint. It makes us hot under the collar when sitch a low down cuss as he is pretends to crittysize his superiors.

As Edditor of the Bugle we dont claim to be perfect, but thank goodness we dont beet our wife and being as well ackwainted with her habits & eckcentricities as we be, we never will. Not only that; but we pay our honest detts & manage to scrape up enuff loose change to keep ourself in smokin tobacco instid of beggin it from them we meet. When we take a trip to the co seat on bizness & pleasure we dont come back home so under the wether that we haft to remain in bed two or three days before we can tend to bizness. When we take a census of the populashon of Bingville for publication in the Bugle we aint never been gilty of inlooding dogs & cats among the inhabitants jest to make the populashon more. There is a few more fackts concerning the past of the impydent puppy who edits the Hardscrabble Banner that we may call attention to in the future if its necessary.

Tomorrow we perpose to drive over to Hardscrabble (wether permitting) and lam the packin outen the Hardscrabble Banner edditor. What he needs and is itchin for is a good thrashin and it will give us great pleasure to administer same to him. SPECIAL NOTIS
We will save a spase in this collum below to give a brief acct of our vicktry over the Hardscrabble Edditor so as to git it in this ishure before we go to press—EDITOR BUGGLE.

LATER—Well, we have jest returned from a vissit to the Edditor of the Hardscrabble Banner. He seemd to be a good eal surprised when we waikt into his offis and shuk our eddytorul fist under his nose and told him right to his face what we thort of him.

After doing this we a nounced that we had rode all the way over to give him a good drubbin and had jest turnd our back for a minit to pull off our overcoat when like the sneakin hound he is he jumpt onto us from behind and pushed our face into a keg of printers ink after which he grabd his offis towel which was caked and dride stiffen a board and stuk us a awful wallop over the head with same nearly causing us konkushon of the brain. Taking advantage of our dazed condishon he then picked us up bodily and throwd us outen the ofis into a snow drift.

When we come to as you might say and realised where we was, ruthern have enny further trouble we returned to Bingville. From a fizzal standpint praps we got a little mite the worst of it, but considern we told him what we thort of him we must admit it was a big moral vicktry for us.

Country Correspondence

CORNCOB CORNERS

Melchisadek Whitacre's wife is turrible low with newmonya and he also has a awful sick horse on his hands. Mel says it would be a big loss to him if that horse should die and he's been so bery takin care of it that his wife has had to go along the best she could. Most folks hereabouts thinks his wife ort to come 1st in his affeckshons.

Miss Phoebe Miller & Sam Wilkins who roomer said was a going to be united in the holy bonds of wedlock aint keepin company together enny more & it dont look like they ever would being as Phoebe is going out with an other yung feller from over Pea Ridge way and Sam has been sparin Henry Law's daughter. Well what's sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander.

John Perkins left town rather suddint last wk. follered by flat irons, cookin utensils & everything else which his wife could git her hands on. We persoom John will remain away for quite a spell.

The wind blowd so in our midst last Monday that the wash of several which was hangin on the line was blowd all over town. Gid Skillings red undershirt was blowd clean on top of the church spire where it stuck and is yet. Gid says it can stay there for all of him being as it would be with a person's life to clime after it and he'll try and wether thru the rest of the winter with the undershirt he has on.

Several in our midst who was on the sicklist last wk. is up and about, but others have tuk their places.

Ab Woodruff kild a pig last wk. and has been sellin it out to the nabery who desires pork. If you desire pork see Ab.

IRON QUILT

LANDS END

Ab Gookins started in to grease his harness recent, but run outen harness grease and had to use a lb. or 2 of his wife's butter to finish up with. Ab says butter aint to bad to grease harness with.

A flock of wild geeses passed over our midst recent.

There is a awful skeercity of appels in our midst this spring, but that's nothing—there is every spring.

Rufe Atkins says he'll be glad when warmer wether comes so as he can risk getting a hair cut without ketching a cold being as he aint had a haircut sinst early last fall and it's most long enuff to braid.

Wait Perkins & wife had their old dominecker rooster for dinner last Sunday. This is turrible welcome news to the nabers being as that rooster allus crowd & waked everybuddy up sharp at 2 a. m. every morning.

Mrs. Hen Jordan is very bizzzy at present with her housework, sowing, 75 hens to look after, milking 11 cows and a three months old baby.

These is all the news we can think of at the present time and if they appear praps we will send some more at some period in the future. LUCIFER.

Uncald for Letters

Eph Higgins our accomodating P. M. wishes us to state in the Bugle that there is several uncald for letters at the Bingville P. O. address to the following persons, viz to wit, namely, as follows:

Gus Witherspoon, Enos Dadds, Miss Mary Whittleby & Sam Snyder.

Being as these is the names of persons who formerly lived in Bingville and then moved away to other parts and being also as their present whereabouts is unknown to Eph or ennybuddy else in this vicinity and sinst Eph got sick & tired havin the letters layin around he tuk the liberty tother day of opening them in his offishal capacity as P. M. of Bingville & publick servant of the U. S. Guvvernment so Eph makes the contents of the letters publick in the Bugle thinking praps them they was addressed to might see it as follows.

Gus Witherspoon—Letter from your brother Henry, who is out in Iowa. Henry is well & hopes you are the same. Henry would like to see you well enuff but he dont want to see you sufficient to send you the money to buy a R. R. ticket.

Enos Dadds—Your letter was from a firm over to the co. seat who wishes you would call and settle for that last gal. of licker you purchased promising to pay the wk. follering and that was 2 yrs. ago.

Miss Mary Whittleby—The letter to you was from some soft galoot over Hardscrabble way by the name of Eph Pepper who writ two pages tellin how much he loves you and will die if you dont marry him. If you git this word in time to save his life guvvern yourself according.

Sam Snyder—The letter to you was from your wife who says you had no rite to run off and leave her to support four children and unless you send her some money by return mail she'll send the sheriff after you. A word to the wise is sufficient, Sam.

Personal Breefs

Pay up your subscriptions
To the Bugle & don't be
A titwad. If you cant pay
All you owe us, pay what you can.
A haif a loaf, or even a bite is bettern none.

Sam Skinner has a beeling in his car which akes him so that he cant skeercly sleep at nites. Sam says he wouldn't wish evil on ennybuddy, but if sumbuddy else than him had that beeling in their car it would be a good cal more satisfactory to him.

Zeke Snodgrass is the only person we know in our midst who has enny appels left. Zeke has a haif barl of Baldwins and is so sparin of em then he never gives enny to his nabers and when he etes enny himself he etes the cores. While trying to swaller a appel core tother day it stuck in Zeke's throat and he would of choked to death if his wife haddent been present and poundd him on the back. It seems to us that this is carryin economy too far.

Old Jim Wheeler who lives a bacheler existens doing all his own cooking warshing & mending made a trip to the co. seat last wk. & brung home a box of what is cald "Bacileter buttons." They go on a person's pants or coat a good eal like a rivet & no needle & thred is necessary. Jim says they're turrible handy to have on hand in case of a emergency speshially for a person who dont harbor a wife like he does.

Mrs. Lem Brown wife of our expert carpenter says her husband is so bizzzy doing odd carpenter jobs for everybuddy else that he aint got time to do a few things in that line around the house. Well, Mrs. Lem, you know how it is—they say it's the shoemakers wife who allus has to go barefooted.

Miss Phoebe Hilderbrand, our fashionable dressmaker is giving fits to several wimmen hereabouts who is having new spring duds made. Among them is Miss Amelia Tucker who Phoebe is making a new dress for, but Amelia has asked Phoebe not to make the particlers publick. We persoom Amelia desires to a year in church one of these days in her new dress as a surprise to everybuddy.

Subscribe for the Bugle before the 1st of the month and then it will be offen your mind and you wont haft to do it at that time. P. S.—In case you subscribe kindly pay cash in advance—no others need to apply being as we have enuff of the other kind as it is.

Ame Hilleyer one of our most respected citizens whilst setting by the fire smoking in his slipper's tother evg. accidentally stept on the cat's tail and the cat clawd his foot through his sock. Then Lem jumpt up and kicked vishiously at the cat, but mist the cat and his slipper flew offen his foot and struck Mrs. Hilleyer who was nitting right in the face knocking out one of her front teeth and cracking her upper plate clean acrost. Now she will haft to buy a new upper set. That was a purty expensive kick for Ame.

Hen Weathersby, prop. of our general store, has had about 12 doz. eggs on hand in the store ever sinst early last fall which there aint been no call for and being as they have been setting not far from the stove we persoom most of em is purty ripe by this time. Hen paid on an average of 20 cts. per doz. for same, and when Snide Petersby askt Hen how much he would take a doz. Hejt said he would take 5 cts. per doz. and welcome. Well Snide bought all of Hen's eggs at this price and peddled em to the co. seat where he sold em for 30 cts. per doz. as strictly fresh eggs. Snide returned home full of joy and licker and has been braggin around town ever sinst about how smart a bizness man he is. This may be "but we calkate Snide will steer clear of the co. seat and also of them he sold the eggs to hereafter.

Hank Dewberry's hound dog has run off somewhere agin and Hank has been askin every person he met if they had seen ennythink of his hound but they haddent. This aint the 1st time Hank's hound has run off and we wouldn't blame the hound if he never did come back. If Hank had of give the dog enuff to ete to keep its sole & body together it wouldn't of run off in the 1st place.

Abe Witherow down to the Snake Crick sawmill last wk. lifted a bigger log than ennybuddy else present could lift and got a crick in his back & has been laid up ever sinst. What does it amount to even if you kin lift a bigger log than tother feller if you haft to git a crick in your back doing so? Personally we would rather not be so strong and have no cricks.

Eph Higgins desires us to a nounce to the general public that it's no use for folks to pester him for molasses because they cant git none until later in the season. It aint as if Hen diddnt have no molasses on hand becuz he had nearly haif a barl, but it wont run at the spigot this cold wether except jest a little trickle and it takes nearly 2 hrs. for a gal. of molasses to dribble outen the barl. Last time Hen tried to draw a gal. for Mrs. Cy Hoskins he come up stairs leavin the jug to fill up and never thort about it until the day follering and by that time there was molasses all over the cellar floor. Hen figgers he wasted 4 or 5 gals. and it made him so mad that sinst then he's refused to draw molasses for ennybuddy. Hen says his customers will haft to wait until warm wether comes afore they can git enny molasses from him. These is about all of the "Personal Breefs" we can think of at this sitting.

Turrible Breezy in Bingville

Old Dad Henderson says he aint never past thru a March when the wind blowd so much and so wicked as it has blowd in Bingville sinst the 1st of the month and we calkate that Dad voices the general sentiment of the entire community on this question.

The wind blows in so menny different direckshons during the day that the big gold fish wether vane on top of Hen Weathersby's store keeps buzzin around like a squirrel cage. When a person steps out into the st. the wind is liable to neerly take their breath away and blow their hat offen their head and carry it over into the next township like as not.

Carryin a umbreller is outen the question altogether, being as there is several has been turnd insideout in our midst in the past two wks. Wens Woodruff says he's been keepin his wens pend up being as he's afeard if he lets em out that the wind will blow the feathers all offen the poor critters. Everybuddy will be awful glad when March is past & went and Aprile comes onct more.

Ad Claims the Game

Ad Stringer and Big Barker had a awful close game of checkers down to Hen Weathersby's store tother evg. They set down to play at 6 p. m. and it was nip & tuck betwix em until long about 8 p. m. when Ad got two of Big's checkers at onct and got into the aking row besides.

After this Big seemd to kind of lose curridge and after he had lost a couple more men, he kind of went to shift in his chair and blamed if the checker board diddnt tip and spill all the checkers outen the floor which broke up the game being as they couldn't remember where they was on the board afore they was spilt.

Ad got mad and accused Big of spilling the checkers on purpose but Big deicide it and said if they haddent of been spilt he would of beat Ad all to thunder.

Boys & Girls Take Notis!

It has aekd to me that it would be a good thing for everybuddy concerned if I was to advertise that I would take the young folks of Bingville & vicinity inlooding boys and girls out for a straw ride of a evening now and then in my big beasled with two horses.

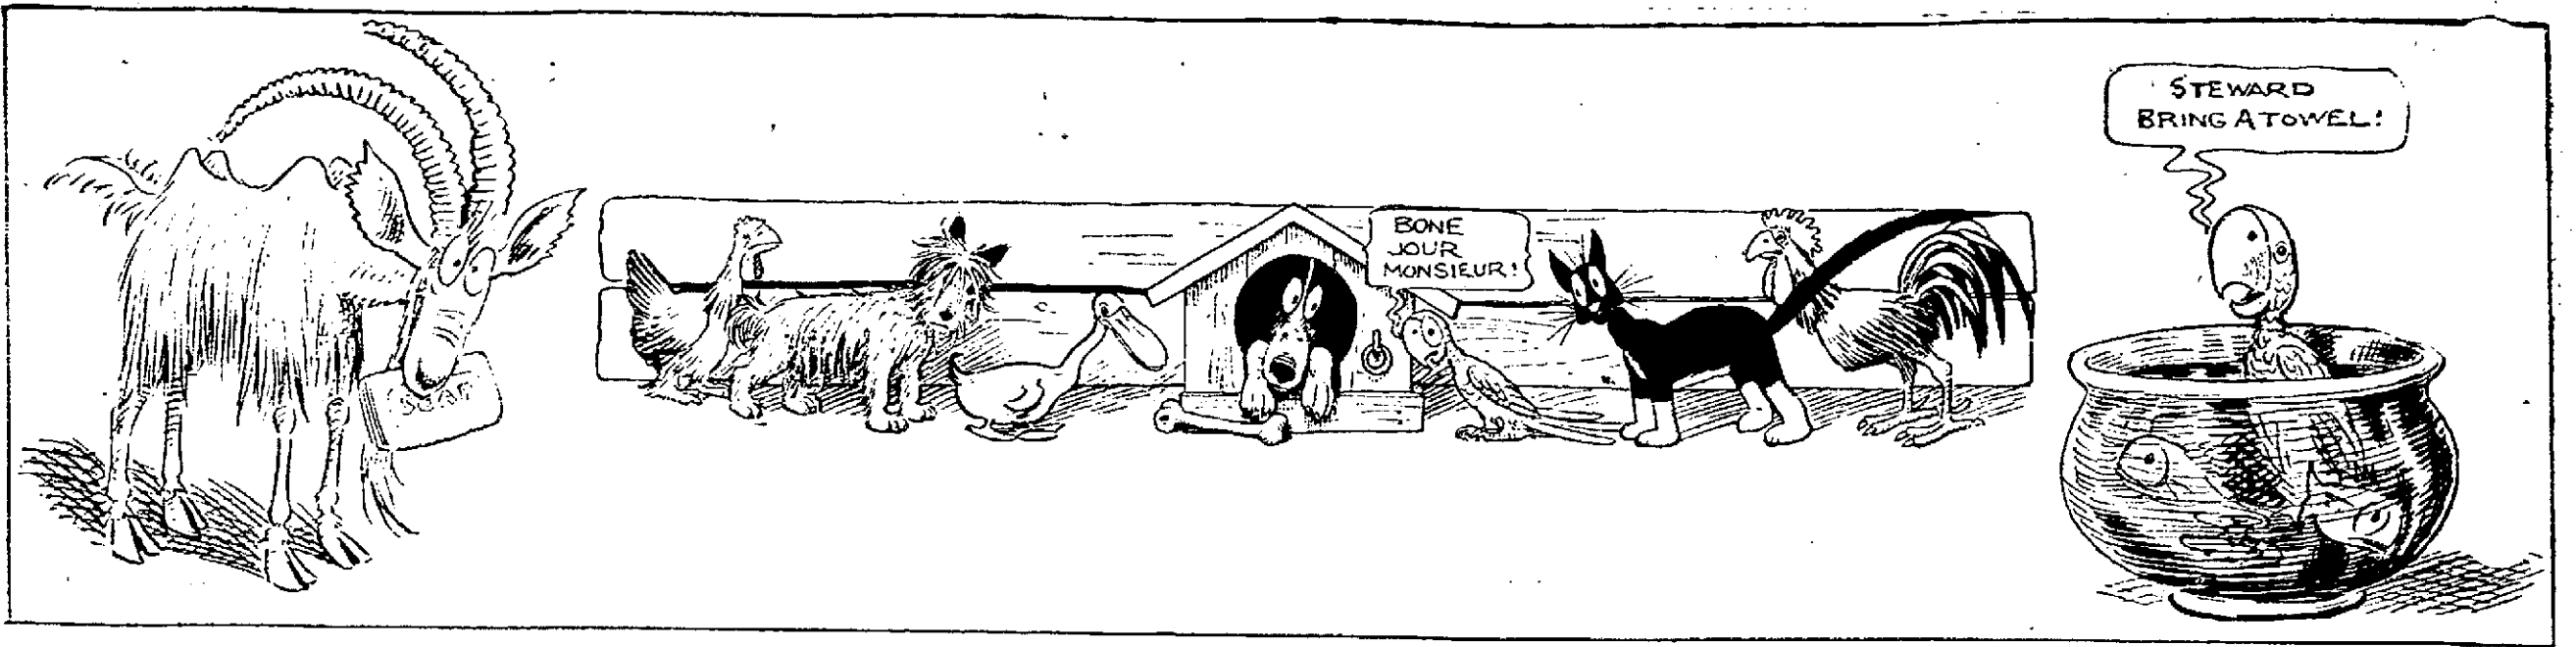

For this reason you are hereby invited to go. All you yung folks has to do is to get together and decide what evg you desire to take a merry straw ride, then come to me and inform me of the fact the bow many of you there will be in the party so I can suvreen myself accordin.

I will furnish the sled and the horses and the straw but you must furnish your own robes and blankets. What is alev than to go on a strawy ride with your best airt when the windin is as good as it is now. The nite may be cold but you ort to manage to keep warm if you bare and gile alev up enny enuff to one another.

Sombuddy start gettin up a straw ride alev off and let me know as soon as possibl. Who hestitate? If you put this off until late bein spring it will be too late. Do it now. All I ask is to git out of this is 50 cts per couple and strictly in advance. The way for you to make shure of the straw ride is for you to make shure I get my money first.
